European Perspectives in Psychology: Theoretical Pieter Johan Diederik Drenth, Joseph A. Sergeant, R. J. Takens, 1990

Personality Development In Adolescence Eva Skoe, Anna von der Lippe, 2005-07-22 The formation of identity in adolescence is the most central concept in psychological and sociological studies of young people Most theories to date assume that adolescents share the same conditions under which their identities are formed Personality Development in Adolescence is a collection of work by leading researchers that considers different contexts affecting personality and identity development Three main contexts are considered cultural family and life span development Of central importance to developmental psychologists this collection will also be valuable to social workers teachers nurses and all those whose work involves young people

Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 29, 2009, 2009-11-01 It is increasingly recognized that an individual's experience of old age is fundamentally influenced by their earlier life experiences This volume of the Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics begins with an overview of the theoretical underpinnings of both the Life Span and the Life Course perspectives on health disparities in aging populations examining them in the context of a changing structure of society This volume focuses on morbidities in general as well as specific morbidities such as diabetes cardiovascular disease and hypertension giving special attention to life time influences on cognition and functional abilities Finally this new volume addresses broader policy issues with relation to Life Span and Life Course perspectives on aging Key Features Addresses an important topic of increasing relevance Addresses the issue of disparities from genes to geography Presents traditional and emerging scientific perspectives

Gender Differences in Different Contexts Aida Alvinus, 2017-02-01 The development of gender differences as an area of research has been rapid over the last decades Varieties of studies have focused on the gender differences as well as the similarities of women and men The common purpose of the research attempt is to find out the possibilities and even the consequences of gender differences and the impact on human beings on one side and social and cultural environment on the other This book is an attempt to provide theoretical and empirical framework to better understand gender differences in various contexts and on different levels Therefore the contributions cover an array of themes that span from an individual level to an organizational and societal level The Theory and Practice of Cultural-historical Psychology Seth Chaiklin, 2001 This volume offers a selection of theoretical views and empirical investigations by researchers in Europe South America and North America The theoretical chapters seek to clarify and extend central concepts of the cultural historical tradition such as activity internalisation personality the ideal theory practice and forces and relations of production The empirical chapters many of them concerned with the role of communication in developing psychological functions seek to engage criticise and extend theoretical concepts such as language construction role competition and cooperation internalization intersubjectivity heterogeneity of thinking and subjecting aspects of learning Based on revised and extended papers presented at the 4th International Congress of the Society for Cultural Research and Activity Theory this volume provides a useful introduction to a broad range of open research topics in contemporary cultural historical psychology International Encyclopedia of Developmental and Instructional Psychology Erik de Corte, Franz E. Weinert, 1996 This Encyclopedia intends to provide a research based overview in an educational perspective of the present state of the art of our knowledge and understanding of the conditions processes and modifiabilities of human development and learning The Encyclopedia focuses on both developmental psychology and instructional psychology Over the past decade the boundaries between these two separate research domains have become increasingly obscure Indeed developmental psychologists have shown a growing interest in the impact of environmental factors on development this has led to the study of educational and instructional variables the pre dominantly environmental factors Meanwhile instructional psychology has become a major subdomain of research on human cognition and development A substantial contribution to the synergy between both domains derives from the robust research finding that developmental changes are very important conditions as well as consequences of the acquisition of knowledge and meta cognitive strategies The resulting changes have inspired the decision to combine both developmental and instructional psychology into one single volume The trend toward the integration of both domains notwithstanding the systematic discussion of their research findings requires a certain delimitation of the two fields The Encyclopedia is divided into 16 areas in order to reflect the specific nature as well as the integration of both domains In the first section which is most representative of the integrative tendency a general framework of research on human development learning and instruction is outlined The next six chapters are concerned with the various aspects of human development and learning The remaining nine sections represent an overview of the research findings on learning and instruction which are relevant to education Articles include updated and revised material from the International Encyclopedia of Education 2nd Edition described by Choice as being a premier resource when judged on virtually every criteria applied to a reference work The Encyclopedia provides an informative introduction to aspects of developmental psychology and instructional psychology that significantly influence education
