Psychogeriatrics Nicola Veronese, Anna Marseglia, 2024-08-31 The book offers a must have tool primarily for psychiatrists geriatricians neurologists and psychologists but will also be of interest to general practitioners for first line assessment The aim of this book is to establish a gold standard a reference work to be used as a clinical guide to the assessment of mental illness in older persons in the field Psychogeriatrics is generally a very specific field in the midst of different disciplines where there is hardly a clinical consensus on how to best assess and treat elderly subjects with mental or behavioral symptoms possibly resulting from psychiatric disorders This book provides clear and practical indications prepared by a panel of international experts in the field with extensive scientific and clinical experience Boxes with first and second line actions for assessing and treating mental illness in the elderly are included and all chapters are uniformly divided into sections on epidemiology etiopathogenesis differential diagnosis assessment and treatment Diagnosis and Treatment of Senile Dementia Manfred Bergener, Barry Reisberg, 2012-12-06 Senile dementia is one of the major health problems confronting mankind in this century To some extent the problem has of course always existed The condition was sufficiently troubling to classical philosophers and jurists to have apparently provoked comments by Solon in approximately 500 B C and Plato in the fourth century B C Plutarch 1967 translation Plato 1921 translation Medical recognition can be traced at least as far back as the second century A D Adams 1861 However several factors have converged in this century to extend the absolute dimensions of the problem of senile dementia and to increase societal medical and scientific recognition of the magnitude of the condition Perhaps the most important factor relating to the present importance of senile dementia is demographic Although the human population has been increasing since the mid eighteenth century it has only been since the advent of the twentieth century that a decrease in mortality has been noted for those over the age of 45 McKeown 1976 Consequently the absolute number of aged persons and the proportion of increasingly aged persons in the populations of the world's industrial nations have been steadily increasing For example in the United States 4% of the population was over the age of 65 in 1900 In the 1970 census this proportion had grown to 10% coordinating functions of the Association and on the other to open a broad platform for a free exchange of views Thus the VII World Congress of Psychiatry held in Vienna from July 11 to 16 1983 was composed of two types of scientific events those structured by the Association and those left to the initiative of the participants The first type comprised Plenary Sessions planned by the Scientific Program Committee and Section Symposia organized by the WPA sections the second embraced Free Symposia free papers video sessions and poster presentations prepared by the participants Altogether 10 Plenary Sessions 52 Section Symposia and 105 Free Symposia took place and 78 free papers and poster sessions and 10 video sessions were held

Methodology in Evaluation of Psychiatric Treatment T. Helgason,1983-09-29 First published in 1983 this book is a review of psychiatric treatment by experts in the field from the member countries of the European Medical Research Councils organized by the European Science Foundation The volume starts by enumerating the various methods for evaluating psychiatric treatment or evaluating the results of treating specific syndromes and continues with a chapter on the aims of psychiatric treatment and three on methods of classification of mental diseases The rest of the book deals with evaluation of treatment starting with special problems encountered in the difficult areas of evaluation of psychotherapy and social therapeutic methods There are five chapters on various rating scales and methods and one chapter each on psychophysiological and biochemical criteria in the evaluation of treatment The last contribution to the book is on ethical and practical problems in therapeutic research Mental Health in the Elderly H. Häfner,G. Moschel,N.

Sartorius,2012-12-06 H Hafner G Moschel N Sartorius The size of the world s population aged over 65 was estimated at about 250 million in 1980 by the year 2025 it is expected to grow to about 760 million see Hauser this volume This sharp increase in life expectancy at birth in some countries amounting to almost 100% in only a hundred years has resulted from better nutrition and improved living conditions hygiene and medical care Not only life expectancy at birth but also further life expectancy in advanced age has shown a clear though more moderate increase This increased life expectancy together with a simultaneous fall in birth rates has caused the mean age of the world population and especially the average age of the population of industrial nations to climb substantially in recent times a development which will reach its peak only some decades from now For these demographic reasons alone health care authorities will have to devote more attention to the health problems of the elderly The main task of medical research is to develop improved methods of disease prevention and treatment Yet because the full benefits of such research are only realized after many years of work researchers have already begun to respond to demographic pressures by focussing part of their efforts on the study of illnesses characteristic of old
