Evaluating Business And Industry Training Evaluation In Education And Human Services:

Evaluating Business and Industry Training Leslie Steven May, Carol Ann Moore, Stephen J. Zammit, 2012-12-06 In the abstract training is seen as valuable by most people in business and industry However in the rush of providing training programs on time and within budget evaluation of training is frequently left behind as a nice to have addition if practical In addition the training function itself is left with the dilemma of proving its worth to management without a substantive history of evaluation This book is designed to provide managers educators and trainers alike the opportunity to explore the issues and benefits of evaluating business and industry training The purpose is to motivate more effective decisions for training investments based on information about the value of training in attaining business goals Without evaluation the value of specific training efforts cannot be adequately measured the value of training investments overall cannot be fully assessed and the contributions of the training function to the corporation s goals cannot be duly recognized Articles are grouped into three sections although many themes appear across sections The first section establishes the context of training evaluation in a business organization The second section emphasizes evaluation of training products and services and the third section discusses costs and benefits of evaluation and communication and use of evaluation results in decision making In Section I the context of training evaluation is established from a variety of perspectives First training and training evaluation are discussed in the context of corporate strategic goals
