

Assessment Plan for Literature and Language BA

Notes:

1. Since students should attain these outcomes by the time they complete the program, we will be asking those teaching 4000-level classes to give us information at the end of the course.
2. Since we have multiple methods of assessment for each outcome, not all classes have to use each method listed.
3. However, there must be one assessment for each outcome.

Student Learning Outcome	Methods of Assessment
Critical Reading and Interpretation Students will demonstrate close readings and analytical interpretations of diverse texts; will demonstrate their abilities to discuss diverse texts with discipline-specific language; and will be able to situate diverse texts within historical, cultural, and generic contexts.	1. Class discussions (participate in academically based class discussions). 2. Group work (contribute to various group-work activities, e.g. discussion questions; creative role-playing scenarios; historical and cultural investigations). 3. Invention and heuristic assignments (e.g., free writing, outlining, brainstorming).
Communication through Composition Students will write academically and analytically in response to their readings of diverse texts, supporting interpretative positions with examples, explanations, and textual evidence, and using the field's conventions of style and documentation.	1. Primary source essays (interpretative discourse using correctly integrated textual evidence and analytical explanations). 2. Peer review (exchanging work-in-progress discourse with classmates for review and recommendations for revisions or re-writings). 3. Revision (using feedback to guide strategies of strengthening and clarifying the writing, to re-work the essay's style, format, mechanics, and citations).
Research Students will show capabilities in using appropriate online databases and library resources, and in the methods of conducting discipline-appropriate research; will correctly integrate researched resources into their interpretative and analytical compositions; and will demonstrate an ability to use various critical strategies and theoretical paradigms in responding to literature.	1. Evaluation In Lit Ba:

Toxicity Reduction and Toxicity Identification Evaluations for Effluents, Ambient Waters, and Other Aqueous Media Teresa Norberg-King, 2005 Theoretical chemistry : a review of the recent literature C. Thomson, 1981 Annotation

Specialist Periodical Reports provide systematic and detailed review coverage of progress in the major areas of chemical research. Written by experts in their specialist fields, the series creates a unique service for the active research chemist, supplying regular critical in-depth accounts of progress in particular areas of chemistry. For over 90 years, The Royal Society of Chemistry and its predecessor the Chemical Society have been publishing reports charting developments in chemistry, which originally took the form of Annual Reports. However, by 1967, the whole spectrum of chemistry could no longer be contained within one volume, and the series Specialist Periodical Reports was born. The Annual Reports themselves still existed but were divided into two and subsequently three volumes covering Inorganic, Organic, and Physical Chemistry. For more general coverage of the highlights in chemistry, they remain a must. Since that time, the SPR series has altered according to the fluctuating degree of activity in various fields of chemistry. Some titles have remained unchanged, while others have altered their emphasis along with their titles; some have been combined under a new name, whereas others have had to be discontinued. The current list of Specialist Periodical Reports can be seen on the inside flap of this volume.
