Designing Evaluations of Educational and Social Programs Lee Joseph Cronbach, Karen Shapiro, 1982 Designing an evaluation is rather an art as each must be designed according to its appropriateness to the situation being evaluated The advantages of each feature of the design must be balanced against any sacrifices each of these choices entail Designers must plan for the allocation of investigative resources selecting investigative questions that are most apt and be aware of both practical and political considerations This volume includes both new approaches to the design of educational evaluations and discusses the pros and cons of frequently used design concepts Program Evaluation for Social Workers Richard M. Grinnell, Peter A. Gabor, Yvonne A. Unrau, 2018-12-27 Over the course of 20 years and eight editions the goals of the book have remained the same to prepare students to participate in evaluative activities within their organizations become beginning critical producers and consumers of the professional evaluative literature and reap the benefits of more advanced evaluation courses and texts The authors aim to meet these objectives by presenting a unique approach that is realistic practical applied and user friendly Unlike other textbooks on the market Program Evaluation for Social Workers presents both program level evaluation and case level evaluation methods assuming that neither of these two distinct approaches alone adequately reflects the realities of the field the book demonstrates how they can instead complement each other This integration of approaches provides an accessible adaptable and realistic framework for students and beginning practitioners to more easily grasp and implement in the real world Evaluation and Experiment Carl A. Bennett, Arthur A. Lumsdaine, 2013-09-24 Evaluation and Experiment Some Critical Issues in Assessing Social Programs is a collection of papers presented at the 1973 symposium held at The Battelle Seattle Research Center This book contains eight chapters that consider some selected aspects of the problems in evaluating the outcomes of socially important programs such as those dealing with education health and economic policy The first chapter provides an overview of the issues around the Social Program Evaluation The next chapters deal with the successes and failures brought by social innovations the quasi experimental evaluation in compensatory education to estimate the true effects of such education programs and the usefulness and validity of econometric and related nonexperimental approaches for assessing the effects of social programs These topics are followed by surveys of a number of additional program evaluation studies particularly in the field of family planning or fertility control mostly carried out as experiments or quasi experiments in Asian and Latin American countries Other chapters describe the decision processes that involve explicit assessment of the worth or merit of outcomes and employ multivalued utility analysis and outline the ways in which evaluative data are useful in providing feedback to program or institutional operations and decisions The final chapter discusses resolutions for some of the disagreements expressed by others concerning the role of field experiments constraints in their utilization and other factors that enter into a comprehensive conception of program evaluation The Evaluation of Social Programs Abt Associates, 1976 Evaluation has rapidly developed into an exciting inter disciplinary academic and applied research field Indications are that this specialty will continue to expand and become more rigorous and demanding Vast numbers of fields and different methodologies are using evaluation research techniques now Yet relatively little attention has been paid to the consequences of systematic evaluation practice particularly as it affects the development and in some cases continued existence of numerous social programs The Evaluation of Social Programs addresses these questions It is a unique book offering up to date views of experts drawn from government universities charitable foundations and independent research organizations who are leading practitioners or consumers of social programs research Dust jacket Evaluating Educational and Social Programs Blaine R. Worthen, Karl R. White, 2012-12-06 During the past two decades evaluation has come to play an increasingly important role in the operation of educational and social programs by national state and local agencies Mandates by federal funding agencies that programs they sponsored be evaluated gave impetus to use of evaluation Realization that evaluation plays a pivotal role in assuring program quality and effectiveness has maintained the use of evaluation even where mandates have been relaxed With increased use indeed institutionalization of evaluation in many community state and national agencies evaluation has matured as a profession and new evaluation approaches have been developed to aid in program planning implementation monitoring and improvement Much has been written about various philosophical and theoretical orientations to evaluation its relationship to program management appropriate roles evaluation might play new and sometimes esoteric evaluation methods and particular evaluation techniques Useful as these writings are relatively little has been written about simple but enormously important activities which comprise much of the day to day work of the program evaluator This book is focused on some of these more practical aspects that largely determine the extent to which evaluation will prove helpful

Program Evaluation in Social Research Jonathan A. Morell, 2016-06-06 Program Evaluation in Social Research presents a plan for developing evaluation into a form of applied social research that is methodologically sound relevant to the problems of society and built on a technological as opposed to a scientific model Evaluation as applied relevant social research and as social technology is described along with its validity and usefulness This book is comprised of eight chapters and opens with a discussion on the consequences of program evaluation for the conduct of social research and for society at large and how evaluation can be made into a method of generating practical and powerful suggestions for planning successful social programs The concept of outcome evaluation is also organized into meaningful categories which can be used for the intelligent planning of appropriate evaluation activities The following chapters consider the types of evaluation that are carried out the relative merits of each type and how to optimize the validity and utility of each type Evaluation as a technological rather than a scientific pursuit is also discussed The remaining chapters focus on the frictions that arise during the implementation of program evaluation program evaluation as a profession and how evaluation can be developed into a relevant and powerful method of guiding the course of social innovations This monograph will appeal to sociologists social scientists and social researchers
