Presidents in Florida James C Clark,2012-07-01 U S Presidents have played a major role in shaping Florida whether waging wars protecting the environment seeking votes or just drawing media attention to the state s attractions Thomas Jefferson set out to buy Florida but ended up making the Louisiana Purchase instead Andrew Jackson came to fight Indians when La Florida was still a Spanish colony and then became the first territorial governor Abraham Lincoln came up with the plan to get Florida back into the Union in 1864 to help his reelection chances Ulysses S Grant came to promote steamships on the St Johns River Warren G Harding played golf with an elephant as a caddie and Chester Arthur went fishing in Orlando Teddy Roosevelt and his Rough Riders sailed to glory from Tampa but nearly missed the boat Herbert Hoover came to Florida to spend time with his friends Thomas Edison Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone and held the Florida record for catching the largest bonefish Days before his inauguration an assassination attempt was made on Franklin Roosevelt as he spoke in a Miami park Roosevelt s yacht was anchored at Fort Lauderdale when a massive hurricane swept it inland Roosevelt tried to sell it as a hunting lodge Harry Truman launched a campaign to defeat a Florida Senator and had a house in Key West called the Little White House Nixon killed the Cross Florida Barge Canal becoming a hero to environmentalists After winning election he purchased a home in Florida and was there during the Watergate burglary George W Bush launched his political career in Florida working for a successful Senate candidate And of course it was the contested Florida vote with its hanging chad ballots that gave him reelection in 2000 Learn about all of these men and more in this unique take on Florida history The History of Florida Michael Gannon,2018-06-26 Previously published as The New History of Florida

Production and Packaging of Non-Carbonated Fruit Juices and Fruit Beverages Philip R. Ashurst,2013-11-09 In the period of about five years since the first edition of this book appeared many changes have occurred in the fruit juice and beverage markets The growth of markets has continued blunted to some extent no doubt by the recession that has featured prominently in the economies of the major consuming nations But perhaps the most significant area that has affected juices in particular is the issue of authenticity Commercial scandals of substantial proportions have been seen on both sides of the Atlantic because of fraudulent practice Major strides have been made in the development of techniques to detect and measure adulterants in the major juices A contri bution to Chapter 1 describes one of the more important scientific techniques to have been developed as a routine test method to detect the addition of carbohydrates to juices Another and perhaps more welcome development in non carbonated beverages during the past few years is the rapid growth of sports drinks Beverages based on glucose syrup have been popular for many years and in some parts of the world isotonic products have long featured in the sports arena A combination of benefits is now available from a wide range of preparations formulated and marketed as sports drinks and featuring widely in beverage markets world wide A new chapter reviews their formulation and performance characteristics Another major trend in the area of fruit containing non carbonated beverages is the highly successful marketing of ready to drink products

Treating AIDS Thurka Sangaramoorthy, 2014-03-26 There is an inherently powerful and complex paradox underlying HIV AIDS prevention between the focus on collective advocacy mobilized to combat global HIV AIDS and the staggeringly disproportionate rates of HIV AIDS in many places In Treating AIDS Thurka Sangaramoorthy examines the everyday practices of HIV AIDS prevention in the United States from the perspective of AIDS experts and Haitian immigrants in South Florida Although there is worldwide emphasis on the universality of HIV AIDS as a social political economic and biomedical problem developments in HIV AIDS prevention are rooted in and focused exclusively on disparities in HIV AIDS morbidity and mortality framed through the rubric of race ethnicity and nationality Everyone is at equal risk for contracting HIV AIDS Sangaramoorthy notes but the ways in which people experience and manage that risk and the disease itself is highly dependent on race ethnic identity sexuality gender immigration status and other notions of difference Sangaramoorthy documents in detail the work of AIDS prevention programs and their effect on the health and well being of Haitians a transnational community long plagued by the stigma of being stereotyped in public discourse as disease carriers By tracing the ways in which public knowledge of AIDS prevention science circulates from sites of surveillance and regulation to various clinics and hospitals to the social worlds embraced by this immigrant community she ultimately demonstrates the ways in which AIDS prevention programs help to reinforce categories of individual and collective difference and how they continue to sustain the persistent and pernicious idea of race and ethnicity as risk factors for the disease
