Flowers Calendar:

The Japanese Floral Calendar Ernest Wilson Clement, 1904 The Floral Calendar, Monthly and Daily, 1839 The Book of the Seasons, Or, the Calendar of Nature William Howitt, 1839 The Japanese Floral Calendar Ernest Clement, 2014-09-15

From the Introduction THE JAPANESE are a nature loving people and frequently give practical expression to their feelings by taking a holiday simply for flower viewing At the proper season the entire nation so to speak takes a day off and turns out on a big picnic to see the plum blossoms or the cherry blossoms or the maples or the chrysanthemums No utilitarian views of the value of time or miserly conceptions of the expense of such outings prevail for a moment for the Japanese are worshippers of beauty rather than of the almighty dollar A few pennies on such occasions bring many pleasures and business interests are sacrificed at the shrine of beauty And as one or more flowers are blooming every month there is almost a continuous round of such picnics during the year Having lived in Japan for some time it is my purpose therefore to tell my American countrymen something of the flower or flowers popular each month with some folk lore poems or other description thereof and have it illustrated by pictures But first we must call attention to the fact that the Japanese word hana includes not only a flower or blossom according to our conceptions but also twigs leaves grasses etc so that the pine the maple and even the snow may come into this category We are confronted at the very outset with a chronological difficulty in presenting this subject to Western readers For the programme of Japanese floral festivals was originally arranged on the basis of the old lunar calendar so long in vogue in Japan By that calendar the New Year came in about the 21st of January to the 18th of February so that it was from three to seven weeks behind the Occidental solar calendar For instance the following is a floral programme according to the old style First month about February Pine Second month about March Plum Third month about April Cherry Fourth month about May Wistaria Fifth month about June Iris Sixth month about July Tree peony Seventh month about August Lespedeza Eighth month about September Eularia Ninth month about October Chrysanthemum Tenth month about November Maple Eleventh month about December Willow Twelfth month about January Paullownia But when Japan adopted the Gregorian calendar many of the floral festivals were transferred to the new style without regard to the awful anachronism that followed In the case of the pine which is chosen for the first month on account of the prominent part that it plays in the New Year s decorations it makes no special difference whether the New Year begins January 1 or February 18 But in many other cases the calendar suffers serious dislocation because some of the flowers cannot conveniently be moved back a month or more The autumn full moon too in whose festival certain blossoms figured cannot be arbitrarily hurried up Hence it is rather difficult for the flowers of Old Japan to run on the new Occidental schedule

Folklore and Symbolism of Flowers, Plants and Trees Ernst Lehner, Johanna Lehner, 2003-10-23 This profusely illustrated archive of more than 200 flowers plants and trees was compiled by two of the world s foremost collectors of pictorial symbols who also happen to be devoted flower enthusiasts Their comprehensive collection rendered
