Essays on the love commandment Luise Schottroff, 1978 Dictionary of Jesus and the Gospels Joel B. Green, Scot McKnight, I. Howard Marshall, 1992-02-18 Edited by Joel B Green Scot McKnight and I Howard Marshall this reference work encompasses everything relating to Jesus and the Gospels An Exegetical Bibliography of the New Testament: Matthew and Mark Günter Wagner, 1983 Library has v 1 3 The Gospel of Mark John R. Donahue, Daniel J. Harrington, 2005 In The Gospel of Mark Fathers Donahue and Harrington use an approach that can be expressed by two terms currently used in literary criticism intratextuality and intertextuality This intratextual and intertextual reading of Mark's Gospel helps us to appreciate the literary character its setting in life and its distinctive approaches to the Old Testament Jesus and early Christian theology Intratextuality means we read Mark as Mark and by Mark Such a reading expresses interest in the final form of the Gospel not its source or literary history and in its words and images literary devices literary forms structures characterization and plot Reading Mark by Mark gives particular attention to the distinctive vocabulary and themes that run throughout the Gospel and serve to hold it together as a unified literary production Intertextuality comprises the relation between texts and a textual tradition and also referring to contextual materials not usually classified as texts e g archaeological data Intertextuality is used to note the links of the text of Mark's Gospel to other texts especially the Old Testament and to the life of the Markan community and of the Christian community today Imitating Jesus Richard A. Burridge, 2007-10-22 In contrast to many studies of New Testament ethics which treat the New Testament in general and Paul in particular this book focuses on the person of Jesus himself Richard Burridge maintains that imitating Jesus means following both his words which are very demanding ethical teachings and his deeds and example of being inclusive and accepting of everyone Burridge carefully and systematically traces that combination of rigorous ethical instruction and inclusive community through the letters of Paul and the four Gospels treating specific ethical issues pertaining to each part of Scripture The book culminates with a chapter on apartheid as an ethical challenge to reading the New Testament using South Africa as a contemporary case study enables Burridge to highlight and further apply his previous discussion and conclusions The Writings of RABASH - Essays - Volume Three Baruch Shalom Ashlag, 2018-05-04 The writings of Rav Baruch Shalom HaLevi Ashlag RABASH the firstborn son and successor of Rav Yehuda Leib HaLevi Ashlag Baal HaSulam author of the Sulam Ladder commentary on The Book of Zohar provide us with insights that connect the wisdom of Kabbalah to our human experience These books disclose the profound knowledge of human nature that the RABASH possessed and take us on a journey to our own souls As we absorb the texts we find that Kabbalah is not some cryptic occultism but a time tested method to understand ourselves and improve our lives and the world around us Essays on the Christian Worldview and Others Political, Literary, and Philosophical Andrew J. Schatkin, 2012-07-10 This collection of essays and thoughts covers such areas as basic Christian thought which includes traditional family morality and a great concern for alleviating poverty and promoting social justice political thought comparing the need for a system which includes both socialist and capitalist elements and the need for values in our society which has come to emphasize money power and greed as philosophical goals and values though they are not The book also has thoughts concerning literature a consideration of what constitutes true progress the denial in our society of any absolute moral truth and the substitution of moral relativism as a mistaken ethical system

An Essay on Divine Authority Mark C. Murphy, 2018-07-05 In the first book wholly concerned with divine authority Mark C Murphy explores the extent of God's rule over created rational beings The author challenges the view widely supported by theists and nontheists alike that if God exists then humans must be bound by an obligation of obedience to this being He demonstrates that this view the authority thesis cannot be sustained by any of the arguments routinely advanced on its behalf including those drawn from perfect being theology metaethical theory normative principles and even Scripture and tradition After exposing the inadequacies of the various arguments for the authority thesis he develops his own solution to the problem of whether and to what extent God is authoritative For Murphy divine authority is a contingent matter while created rational beings have decisive reason to subject themselves to the divine rule they are under divine authority only insofar as they have chosen to allow God's decisions to take the place of their own in their practical reasoning The author formulates and defends his arguments for this view and notes its implications for understanding the distinctiveness of Christian ethics Essays on the Principles of Morality and on the Private and Political Rights and Obligations of Mankind Dymond,1842 Philosophical Essays concerning Human Families Stanley Vodraska,2014-08-01 In Philosophical Essays concerning Human Families Stanley Vodraska describes a principle of moral practice that he calls the principle of familial preference In ordinary circumstances a moral agent should persistently provide preferential treatment to members of his or her family and should not pursue the good of extra familial persons to such an extent as to disadvantage or neglect his or her family The essays uncover this principle in human practices of love or charity mercy justice and prudence and measure its weight in religion moral philosophy and the political order An Essay for Ezra Grant Farred,2021-12-07 An intensely personal and philosophical account of why white America s racial unconscious is not so unconscious An Essay for Ezra is a critique of terror that begins but by no means ends with the presidency of Donald J Trump A father addresses his son and a boy shares his observations in a dynamic dialogistic exchange that is a commentary of and for its time taking the measure of racial terror and of white supremacy both in our moment and as a historical phenomenon Framed through the experiences of the author s biracial son An Essay for Ezra is intensely personal while also powerfully universal Drawing on the social and political thought of James Baldwin and Martin Luther King Grant Farred examines the temptation and the perils of essentialism and the need to discriminate to engage the black mind as much as the black body With that dialectic as his starting point Farred engages the ideas of Jameson Barthes Derrida Adorno Kant and other thinkers to derive an ethics of being in our time of social peril His antiessentialist racial analysis is salient especially when he deploys Dave Chappelle as a counterpoint to Baldwin and Chappelle s brilliant comic philosophic voice jabs at both racial and gender identity Standing apart for its willingness to explore terror in all its ambivalence this theoretical reflection on racism knowledge ethics and being in our neofascist present brings to bear the full weight of philosophical inquiry and popular cultural critique on black life in the United States The Didache in Modern Research: 1996 Jonathan A. Reeder,2010-11-01 This impressive work is fair balanced critical and insightful Choice Contrary to the views of

Alasdair MacIntyre and others who assert that modern Western morality is in disarray torn by incommensurable moral views John Reeder believes that there is much agreement about taking and saving lives Many people might in fact agree on the various circumstances in which the death of a person constitutes a violation of the right to life or that people have a right to our help especially a right to life saving aid In Killing and Saving Reeder analyzes five sorts of situations in which we are morally permitted or even obligated to take human life e g when we repel an attacker who voluntarily forfeits the right to life when we are confronted with involuntary pursuit or material aggression when someone yields the right to life when all will die if nothing is done but some can be saved if others are killed and when there is a double effect in which we take life as a foreseen but unintended consequence of attempt to achieve a greater good Reeder argues that these and closely related categories account for many of our convictions ranging from abortion to infanticide to starvation to war He also examines the concept of absolute or exceptionless right to life Reeder draws on a number of moral views from theological ethics to Enlightenment notions of natural rights or respect for rational creatures He does not attempt to argue for a foundation for the right not to be killed and the right to be saved Rather he focuses on the content of the convictions themselves and argues that where disagreements remain such as the case of abortion they can be accounted for by the way the rights in question are explained and justified
