Danzig,Kathryn M. Borman,Bruce A. Jones,William F.

Wright, 2017-09-25 Many new approaches to school improvement are being proposed in the current climate of assessment and school accountability. This book explores one of these approaches: a new model of leadership training known as Learner Centered Leadership (LCL). It is built around the fundamental idea that learning and learning communities are natural processes that when properly harnessed can lead to the highest levels of professional engagement and problem solving. Key features of this exciting new approach to school leadership include the following: Broad based and Generative. The book's narratives vividly illustrate the extraordinary ability of LCL to generate new approaches to leadership development. For example, encouraging and assisting school leaders to reflect on their own leadership attributes relative to the implementation of the school mission to ensure high teacher efficacy and student learning. In this respect, the volume contributes significantly to the field of school leadership and professional development by extending above and beyond a narrow focus on instructional leadership. Practice Oriented. By creating communities that encourage conversation and analysis, the new data driven models of school improvement are more likely to be successfully implemented. Without analytical discourse, the process of interpreting school data and transforming it into practice would be largely lost. Conceptually Appropriate. The realization that everyone within a school—students, teachers, administrators—belongs to the same learning community minimizes status differences and encourages teamwork. The LCL administrator is much less likely to be authoritarian and power oriented and much more likely to be transformative and student outcome focused. This book is appropriate for master's level courses and certification seminars and for inservice workshops dealing with school leadership.

Health

Communication for Health Care Professionals Michael P. Pagano, 2016-08-28 Promotes an interdisciplinary approach to the study of health communication. According to the Joint Commission, over 75% of all serious medical errors in this country result from miscommunication. Based in these adverse realities and the author's philosophy that communication is a clinical skill integral to effective health care delivery, this comprehensive text addresses the theories and abilities needed by all health care providers. The only text written specifically for students of nursing, medicine, physical therapy, pharmacy, dentistry, physician assistants, and opticians, this book incorporates recommendations for specific multimedia suggestions for class discussion and interactive case studies to provide a rich and multi-perspective learning experience for gaining optimal expertise in effective health communication. The author underscores the importance of developing and maintaining successful relationships with patients, peers, and colleagues as a cornerstone of effective health care outcomes. With an emphasis on interactive learning, the text utilizes communication theories to analyze verbal and non-verbal behaviors in diverse health care contexts and assess which are more effective and why. Summaries at the end of each chapter discuss health communication outcomes. Chapters cover interpersonal and gendered communication, provider-patient communication, intercultural communication, organizational communication, team communication, malpractice, palliative care, end of life communication, and many other topics. Key Features: Fosters a patient-centered interdisciplinary multidimensional learning experience for health care students Recommends experiential learning using videos films and related discussion exercises

Presents case study role plays Provides companion case study resource to enhance learning objectives
