Bodies, Politics and Transformations: John Donne's Metempsychosis

Siobhán Collins, 2016-04-15 Since the beginning of the twentieth century critics have predominantly offered a negative estimate of John Donne's Metempsychosis In contrast this study of Metempsychosis re-evaluates the poem as one of the most vital and energetic of Donne's canon Siobhán Collins appraises Metempsychosis for its extraordinary openness to and its inventive portrayal of conflict within identity She situates this ludic verse as a text alert to and imbued with the Elizabethan fascination with the processes and properties of metamorphosis Contesting the pervasive view that the poem is incomplete this study illustrates how Metempsychosis is thematically linked with Donne's other writings through its concern with the relationship between body and soul and with temporality and transformation Collins uses this genre-defying verse as a springboard to contribute significantly to our understanding of early modern concerns over the nature and borders of human identity and the notion of selfhood as mutable and in process Drawing on and contributing to recent scholarly work on the history of the body and on sexuality in the early modern period Collins argues that Metempsychosis reveals the oft-violent processes of change involved in the author's personal life and in the intellectual religious and political environment of his time She places the poem's somatic representations of plants beasts and humans within the context of early modern discourses natural philosophy medical political and religious Collins offers a far-reaching exploration of how Metempsychosis articulates philosophical inquiries that are central to early modern notions of self-identity and moral accountability such as the human capacity for autonomy the place of the human in the great chain of being the relationship between cognition and embodiment memory and selfhood and the concept of wonder as a distinctly human phenomenon Lives of John Donne, Henry Wotton, Richard [i.e. Richard] Hooker, George Herbert &c Izaak Walton, 1898 The Lives of the Poets of Great Britain and Ireland, To The Time Of Dean Swift; In Four Volumes Theophilus Cibber, 2025-08-31 Reproduction of the original The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are

Literature and the Encounter with God in Post-Reformation England Michael Martin, 2016-05-23 Each of the figures examined in this study John Dee John Donne Sir Kenelm Digby Henry and Thomas Vaughan and Jane Lead is concerned with the ways in which God can be approached or experienced Michael Martin analyzes the ways in which the encounter with God is figured among these early modern writers who inhabit the shared cultural space of poets and preachers mystics and scientists The three main themes that inform this study are Cura animarum the care of souls and the diminished role of spiritual direction in post Reformation religious life the rise of scientific rationality and the struggle against the disappearance of the Holy Arising from the methods and commitments of phenomenology the primary mode of inquiry of this study resides in contemplation not in a religious sense but in the realm of perception attendance and acceptance Martin portrays figures such as Dee Digby and Thomas Vaughan not as the eccentrics they are often depicted to have been but rather as participating in a religious mainstream that had been radically altered by the disappearance of any kind of mandatory or regular spiritual direction a problem which was further complicated and exacerbated by the rise of science Thus this study contributes to a reconfiguration of our notion of what religious orthodoxy really meant during the period and calls into question our own assumptions about what is or was orthodox and heterodox

Women Editing/Editing Women Chanita Goodblatt, Ann Hollinshead Hurley, 2009-01-14 This collection of essays links current research in the writings and editing of early modern women and in those women who were themselves early editors with a new methodology of editing currently titled the new textualism As such the collection seeks to solve two problems The first concerns the difficulty of editing the works of early modern women writers for whom there is little biographical data a challenging task when the standard life and works format is thus inhibited Second related but slightly different occurs because although we know that there were women who edited in the early modern and even later periods we know little about them as well The new textualism approach to editing which focuses on the material properties of the manuscript or book its print or performance history and records of its dissemination and the sociology of texts provides a fruitful solution to both problems by broadening the concept of agency and hence provides a richer context for the production of a given text The collection includes two sets of essays One set has been reprinted from seminal works in the field of new textualism These include writings by recognized figures like Jerome McGann Leah Marcus and Wendy Wall among others As such that set provides background for the reading of the second a group of six original essays by scholars now working in the field of early modern women writers who directly apply aspects of the new textualism in their research The fusion of the research field of retrieving early modern women writers with the practices of new textualist editing is thus the core of this collection of essays and is illustrative of what can be achieved in the field of editing when this new approach to texts is put into practice
