Elements Of The Swib Market For Electri:

Elements of the Swiss Market for Electricity Massimo Filippini, 2012-12-06 1 1 Economic issues to be analyzed This research examines two elements of the Swiss market for electricity the residential electricity demand by time of use and the cost structure of municipal electricity distribution utilities The empirical results of demand and cost elasticities allow the investigation of interesting economic and policy issues such as the desirability of a widespread introduction of time of use pricing for residential customers the desirability of side by side competition in the distribution of electricity and more generally the economic effects of a reduction of the load factor and of mergers between electric distribution utilities on costs Desirability of time of use pricing In the last decade there has been an intensifying debate in Switzerland about efficacy of electricity rate reforms in order to improve the efficiency of electricity use This debate was initiated by two main events First there was an important growth of electricity consumption Second the Chernobyl accident in 1986 aroused widespread public concern about the problems associated with nuclear power and waste disposal As a result in 1991 the Swiss voted in a referendum a 10 year moratorium on the construction of new nuclear power plants Moreover plans to expand production of hydroelectric power construction of new dams or expanding existing ones have been stiffly opposed by environmental groups These developments have consistently curtailed potential expansion of domestic electricity supply As a result Switzerland during the winter has to import electricity from foreign countries

Annual, OECD Reviews of Regulatory Reform: Switzerland 2006 Seizing the Opportunities for Growth OECD, 2006-03-31 This review explores the opportunities for better regulation within the Swiss institutional framework Overseas Business Reports, 1970 Future Perspectives of 2nd Generation Biofuels Rainer Zah, Claudia Binder, Stefan Bringezu, Jürgen Reinhard, Alfons Schmid, Helmut Schütz, 2010 Fossil independence and substantial reductions in CO2 emissions seem to be possible with 2nd generation biofuels New technologies allow a full carbon to fuel conversion of non edible plant parts such as straw or wood and the cultivation of algae or salt resistant plants uncouples bioenergy from food production Nevertheless impacts on biodiversity global land and water use are widely unclear and their competitiveness with 1st generation biofuels and electric mobility is an open question An interdisciplinary team of Empa University of Zurich and the Institute of Climate Environment and Energy in Wuppertal evaluated the most sustainable production techniques and assessed their potential for our future mobility Zielpublikum Energie und Umweltfachleute Entwicklungsingenieure Klima Energiebeauftragte Behörden Politiker

Swiss Energy Governance Peter Hettich, Aya Kachi, 2021-11-26 This open access book gathers the results of an interdisciplinary research project led by the Swiss Competence Centers for Energy Research SCCER CREST and jointly implemented by several universities It identifies political economic and legal challenges and opportunities in the energy transition from a governance perspective by exploring a variety of tools that allow state non state and transnational actors to manage the transition of the energy industry toward less fossil fuel reliance When analyzing the roles of these actors the authors examine not only formal procedures such as political and democratic processes but also market behavior and societal practices In other words the handbook focuses on both the behavior and the positive and normative frameworks of political actors bureaucracies courts international organizations lobby groups civil society economic actors and individuals The authors subsequently use their findings to formulate specific guidelines for lawmakers and other rule makers as well as private and public actors To do so they draw on approaches stemming from the legal political and management sciences

 Hamman,2021-12-26 This book explores the intrinsically multiscale issue of renewable energy transition from a local national and transnational perspective and provides insights into current developments in the Upper Rhine Region that can serve as an international model Organised around the exploration of stakeholder issues the volume first describes a framework for public action and modelling and then articulates a triple complementary focus from the viewpoint of law economics and sociology This multidisciplinary approach is anchored in the social sciences but also explores the ways in which technological issues are increasingly debated in the implementation of the ecological transition With a focus on the Upper Rhine Region of France Germany and Switzerland the contributions throughout analyse how concrete regional projects emerge and whether they are carried out by local authorities private energy groups network associations or committed citizens From this it appears that real world energy transition modes can be best understood as permanent transactional processes involving institutional regulations economic levers and barriers and social interactions This book will be of interest to advanced students and scholars focusing on renewable energy transition stakeholder issues environment and sustainability studies as well as those who are interested in the methodological aspects of the social sciences especially within the fields of sociology
