The Elephant-lore of the Hindus Nilakanṭha (of Rajamangalam), 1985 This book is intended to serve as an introduction to the elephant lore of Hindus It consists primarily of a translation of the Elephant Sport Matanga Lila of Nilakantha with notes introduction and glossary The Matanga Lila is without doubt the best available Sanskrit work on elephantology It is a brief and succinct treatise in 263 stanzas divided into twelve chapters of uneven length Nothing is known of the Nilakantha who is mentioned as its author According to the editor Ganapati Sastri the three manuscripts he used are about two hundred years old But the work is probably very much older For aught we know it may go back a thousand years or even to a much earlier date This however is purely conjectural all we can say is that there is no positive trace of modernity in the work The elephant lore of our text is based on a genuine traditional knowledge which grew up among those whose business it was to deal with elephants and that this tradition has persisted to modern times

Colonizing Animals Jonathan Saha, 2021-11-11 Animals were vital to the British colonization of Myanmar In this pathbreaking history of British imperialism in Myanmar from the early nineteenth century to 1942 Jonathan Saha argues that animals were impacted and transformed by colonial subjugation By examining the writings of Burmese nationalists and the experiences of subaltern groups he also shows how animals were mobilized by Burmese anticolonial activists in opposition to imperial rule In demonstrating how animals such as elephants crocodiles and rats were important actors never fully under the control of humans Saha uncovers a history of how British colonialism transformed ecologies and fostered new relationships with animals in Myanmar Colonizing Animals introduces the reader to an innovative historical methodology for exploring interspecies relationships in the imperial past using innovative concepts for studying interspecies empires that draw on postcolonial theory and critical animal studies
