Designed to provide valuable real life clinical knowledge in the practice of geriatric rehabilitation A Clinical Approach to Geriatric Rehabilitation Fourth Edition gives physical therapists an evidence based guide to the clinical aspects of rehabilitative care in older adult patients and clients Geriatric Rehabilitation Bryan Kemp, Kenneth Brummel-Smith, Joseph W. Ramsdell, 1990 Advanced Age Geriatric Care Nages Nagaratnam, Kujan Nagaratnam, Gary Cheuk, 2018-11-26 As the Baby Boomers age concerns over healthcare systems abilities to accommodate geriatric patients grow increasingly challenging This is especially true with the population deemed to be the oldest of the old specifically those over the age of 85 Unlike any other time in history this demographic is the fastest growing segment of most developed countries In the United States the oldest old is projected to double from 4.3 million to 9.6 million by 2030 The increased life expectancy of the population since the early 1900s has been built on the improvement of living conditions diet public health and advancement in medical care With this we have seen a steady decline in the age specific prevalence of vascular and heart diseases stroke and even dementia Older persons are healthier today than their counterparts decades ago More importantly than in any other age group the care of the oldest old must be individualized management decisions should be made taking into consideration the older persons expressed wishes quality of life function and mental capacity The inevitable consequence is that there will be an increase in the prevalence of older persons with chronic diseases multiple co existing pathologies and neuro degenerative diseases The oldest of the aging population are often excluded from drug trials and their treatments are largely based on findings extrapolated from that of the younger old Furthermore among the oldest old physiologically they are more diverse than other segments of the population Their demographic characteristics are unparalleled and different compared to that of the younger old Several studies have drawn attention to the differing attitudes among health professionals towards elderly people and many show prejudice because they are old As a result the use of age as a criteria in determining the appropriateness of treatment is of very limited validity yet there are limited resources that guide physicians through these challenges This book creates a greater awareness of these challenges and offers practical guidelines for working within the infrastructures vital to this demographic This book is designed for geriatricians primary care physicians junior medical officers specialty geriatrics nurses and gerontologists It is divided into 3 sections General Considerations Chronic diseases and Geriatric Syndromes Each chapter provides a summary of important and essential information under the heading of Key Points Case studies are included in some of the chapters to highlight the principles of management

Chronic Illness Pamala D. Larsen, Ilene Morof Lubkin, 2009 The new edition of best selling Chronic Illness Impact and Intervention continues to focus on the various aspects of chronic illness that influence both patients and their families Topics include the sociological psychological ethical organizational and financial factors as well as individual and system outcomes The Seventh Edition has been completely revised and updated and includes new chapters on Models of Care Culture Psychosocial Adjustment Self Care Health Promotion and Symptom Management Key Features Include Chapter Introductions Chapter Study Questions Case Studies Evidence Based Practice Boxes List of websites appropriate to each chapter Individual and System Outcomes

Geriatrics for Specialists Andrew G. Lee, Jane F. Potter, G. Michael Harper, 2021-08-31 This book aims to be a single point of reference for advances in the care of geriatric populations across medical and surgical specialties The aging population is a unique demographic with its own health challenges Geriatricians are specifically trained to address these challenges but few medical students or residents enter geriatrics even as the demand for geriatric expertise increases The practices of many medical and surgical specialists are dominated by older patients who may themselves see many specialists but rarely visit geriatricians This updated edition elucidates the most common medical conditions seen in aging patients and translates approaches to those conditions for physicians across specialties Divided into three sections that assemble crosscutting issues medical specialties and surgical and related specialties this book serves as a guide for clinicians of all backgrounds who will work with older patients as the demographic ages further This second edition of Geriatrics for Specialists expands the number of specialist chapters to reflect growth in research in aging and clinical care for older people in dermatology plastic surgery and behavioral neurology All original chapters from the first edition are extensively revised and updated to reflect the rapid growth of new knowledge in the field

Geriatric Medicine Michael R. Wasserman, Debra Bakerjian, Sunny Linnebur, Sharon Brangman, Matteo Cesari, Sonja Rosen, 2024-02-19 Both volumes sold as a combined set for a one time purchase Older adults represent the most rapidly growing demographic in the U S and in many developed countries around the world The field of geriatric medicine is still relatively young and is only recently seeing a significant increase in peer reviewed literature Medicare and Medicaid expenditures related to older adults are nearly a trillion dollars year in the US How our healthcare system cares for older adults and how those older adults navigate an increasingly complex system is of the utmost importance According to the Institute of Medicine physicians and other healthcare professionals receive an inadequate amount of training in geriatric medicine Geriatric medicine is based on the concept of delivering person centered care with a focus on function and quality of life It is essential that physicians nurse practitioners physician assistants pharmacists social workers and other health care professionals all be knowledgeable about the geriatric approach to care Geriatric medicine varies from most other fields in medicine While many specialties function on the basis of evidence based literature geriatricians and other clinicians caring for older adults must integrate relatively limited evidence with variable physiological changes and complex psychosocial determinants Geriatricians are used to caring for 90 year olds with multiple chronic illnesses Their variable physiology leads to uncertain responses to pharmacotherapy and their personal goals and wishes need to be incorporated into any plan of care Practicing geriatric medicine requires the ability to see patterns But it goes one step further as the rules are constantly in flux Every patient is an individual with particular needs and goals In order to provide true person centered care to older adults one has to incorporate these factors into the decision making process The proposed handbook is designed to present a comprehensive and state of the art update that incorporates existing literature with clinical experience Basic science and the physiology of aging create a background but are not the main focus This is because every chapter has been written through the lens of person centered care This book is about focusing on what matters to the person and how that is not always about pathology and physiology The reader generally will not find simple solutions to symptoms diseases and syndromes In fact the key to caring for geriatric patients is the ability to think both critically and divergently at the same time Geriatrics encompasses multiple disciplines and spans all of the subspecialties It requires knowledge of working within an interdisciplinary team It requires an appreciation of how quality of life varies with each individual and creates treatment and care plans that also vary And most of all it requires a firm commitment to first learning who the person is so that all of the necessary data can be analyzed and integrated into a true person centered plan of care This book aims to serve as an unparalleled resource for meeting these challenges Updated and revised from the previous edition this text features over 40 new peer reviewed chapters new references and a wide array of useful new tools that are updated on a regular basis by interdisciplinary and interprofessional experts in geriatric medicine Gerontology Dieter Platt, 2012-12-06 At the beginning of the century the average life span in developed societies was less than 50 years It is now more than 70 years and will continue to increase in the near future Aging is a challenge to science and society There are several theories of aging The programmed aging hypothesis suggests that aging cannot be altered by any external influence that aging is programmed from the beginning of life until the end of senescence Another theory is based on genetic instability with repair processes correcting errors in the cells that cause aging Aging processes manifest themselves at the molecular and cellular level in different organs and in the whole organism Most older persons acquire multiple diseases primarily chronic ones The multimorbidity of the elderly raises many questions as to nutrition metabolism immunity drug therapy and rehabilitation Nutrition may be able to intervene in the aging process Aging is associated with declining immunity and reduced resistance to many diseases and it is possible that nutritional changes in old age contribute to the declining immunity in the elderly The elderly take 40% of the prescription drugs in Germany and adverse drug reactions are more frequent in geriatric patients There are not only problems in drug therapy for elderly patients but also in their rehabilitation The aim of rehabilitation is the restoration of geriatric patients to their former functional and environmental status
