Geriatric Emergency Medicine:

Creating a Geriatric Emergency Department John Schumacher, Don Melady, 2022-02-03 Globally EDs face new challenges as the world's population ages. Visits from older people are predicted to rise for the next 20 years. This practical and accessible book provides essential guidance on assessing the ED care of older patients and improving it. It assists ED teams to implement changes tailored to their unique environments providing guidance across all settings regardless of size, location or resources. Experience and evidence based elements combine to guide best practices for older patient flow, staff and patient satisfaction and improving patient health outcomes. The book features proven ideas for creating a geriatric ED such as specific staff training, modifying job roles, implementing new care processes and adapting physical spaces. An invaluable resource for practising ED clinicians, leaders, administrators, educators and system change leaders.

Geriatric Emergency Medicine Christian Nickel, Abdelouahab Bellou, Simon Conroy, 2017-12-11 This book discusses all important aspects of emergency medicine in older people, identifying the particular care needs of this population which all too often remain unmet. The up to date and in depth coverage will assist emergency physicians in identifying patients at risk for adverse outcomes, in conducting appropriate assessment and in providing timely and adequate care. Particular attention is paid to the common pitfalls in emergency management and means of avoiding them. Between 1980 and 2013 the number of older patients in emergency departments worldwide doubled. Compared with younger patients, older people suffer from more comorbidities, a higher mortality rate, require more complex assessment and diagnostic testing and tend to stay longer in the emergency department. This book, written by internationally recognized experts in emergency medicine and geriatrics, not only presents the state of the art in the care of this population but also underlines the increasing need for adequate training and development in the field.

Geriatric Emergencies Lee A. Lindquist, Scott M. Dresden, 2019-05-15 Care for older adults in Emergency Departments (EDs) has historically been focused on acute medical conditions with little emphasis on geriatric specific issues. In 2010, emergency departments (EDs) throughout the nation saw almost 130 million patients, 15% of whom were 65 or older. The number of older adults who visit an ED has doubled in the last decade and continues to grow rapidly. Older adults receiving care in an ED are highly likely to be admitted to the hospital, much more so than their younger counterparts. Preventing a hospital admission saves older adults from frequently encountered adverse events including hospital acquired delirium, functional status impairment, cognitive loss and nursing home admission. It is unknown how many older adults are hospitalized for reasons other than acute medical illness such as functional decline, polypharmacy, progressive dementia, caregiver stress or unstable living situation. These non emergent conditions are rarely addressed during a typical ED visit due to lack of resources, significant patient volumes and the need for rapid turnover of care spaces. The predominant management strategy of emergency physicians to handle these important but not imminently life threatening geriatric issues is to recommend hospital admission. Northwestern has pioneered the Geriatric Emergency

Department through the creation of the Geriatric Emergency Department Innovation model GEDI with goals to prevent admissions for older adults by assessing and meeting their geriatric specific non acute care needs in the ED The GEDI model at Northwestern centers on a multi disciplinary curriculum composed of clinical didactic and practical arms developed by emergency medicine and geriatrics educational experts In this title we will present case studies of older adults seen in the Emergency Department through the GEDI model and discuss means of identifying screening for diagnosing and treating geriatric syndromes seen in the emergent care of the older adult patient In addition there will be a set of concise take home points for each case study that will be easy to commit to memory and implement in clinical care of older adults As the number of seniors seeking emergent care will continue to increase the ED setting must become responsive to geriatric specific needs This book will provide a variety of models detailing how to offer comprehensive state of the art optimal care for managing the full range of geriatric syndromes that regularly present in the emergent care setting Geriatric
