DAVENPORT,2018 The Bigod Earls of Norfolk in the Thirteenth Century Marc Morris,2005 Study of one of the most influential aristocratic families of medieval England The Bigods were one of the most powerful and important families in thirteenth century England They are chiefly remembered for their dramatic interventions in high politics Roger III Bigod c 1209 70 famously led the march on Westminster Hall in 1258 against Henry III while Roger IV Bigod 1245 1306 confronted Edward I in 1297 in similar fashion This book is the first full scale study of these two earls and explores in depth the reasons that led each of them to take the extreme step of confronting his king It is only in part however a political study In seeking to understand the motives that lay behind their public actions the book scrutinizes the earls private affairs It establishes for the first time the precise extent of their landed estate the size of their incomes and the membership and quality of their affinities It also examines their relationships with friends and relatives their building works and even their personalities Extensive use is made throughout of unpublished manuscript sources in particular the hundreds of ministers accounts that have survived from the administration of Roger IV Bigod and the charters given by both earls which are calendared and translated in an appendix Helps for Students of History ,1922 The University Library, Cambridge Harry Gidney Aldis,1922

Rural Economy and Society in the Duchy of Cornwall 1300-1500 John Hatcher,1970-10-31 This study is centred on the Cornish manorial estates of the Duchy of Cornwall in the later Middle Ages and has been compiled from a very full and hitherto neglected series of records the completeness of which is perhaps unique for a lay estate Most aspects of the history of the estates have been recorded and those which differed from other regions of England have been stressed In order to place the Duchy estates within their regional context Dr Hatcher has studied a wide range of documents and produced a mass of new evidence concerning tin mining fishing trade towns and local industry in Cornwall and Devon He shows for example that agricultural prosperity in later medieval Cornwall followed an exceptional course and was determined by a series of interconnected changes within the regional economy with a much less direct and immediate causal link than is commonly assumed between declining population after 1349 and agricultural recession The intimate connexions between agriculture and industry and commerce are additionally emphasized by the manifold business interests of leading Duchy tenants Reference Catalogue of Current Literature ,1920 Manors and Maps in Rural England, from the Tenth Century to the Seventeenth P.D.A. Harvey,2023-05-31 P D A Harvey is a historian of medieval rural England with a wide interest in the history of cartography this collection of his essays brings together both these strands It first looks at the English countryside from the 10th century to the 15th investigating problems in particular documents in the village community and in underlying long term changes How landlords drew profits from their property in the eleventh and twelfth centuries how and why there followed changes in the way landed estates were run and in the written records they produced what new light their personal seals can throw on medieval peasants are all among the topics discussed while the local management of large estates and the development of the peasant land market are themes that recur throughout There follow essays on the way maps were brought into the management of landed estates in the 16th and 17th centuries starting with the introduction of consistent scale into mapping a new concept crucially important in the general history of topographical maps The collection closes by looking at some of the traps that both documents and maps set for the historian of the English countryside
