Skrentny,2023-11-17 An urgent reality check for America s blinkered fixation on STEM education We live in an era of STEM obsession Not only do tech companies dominate American enterprise and economic growth while complaining of STEM shortages but we also need scientific solutions to impending crises As a society we have poured enormous resources including billions of dollars into cultivating young minds for well paid STEM careers Yet despite it all we are facing a worker exodus with as many as 70% of STEM graduates opting out of STEM work Sociologist John D Skrentny investigates why and the answer he shows is simple the failure of STEM jobs Wasted Education reveals how STEM work drives away bright graduates as a result of burn and churn management practices lack of job security constant training for a neverending stream of new and often socially harmful technologies and the exclusion of women people of color and older workers Wasted Education shows that if we have any hope of improving the return on our STEM education investments we have to change the way we re treating the workers on whom our future depends Use of Market Data in the Recruitment of High

Potentials Jan Posthumus,2015-06-18 In his study Jan Posthumus uses the grounded theory method to explore the implementation of marketing instruments such as segmentation and targeting in the recruitment of high potentials in the pharmaceutical industry The implementation of these instruments can best be understood as the result of an interaction between four categories the identified internal need for certain groups of high potentials the scarcity of these groups of high potentials in the market the attitudes opinions and strategies within human resources and the technological capabilities Depending on the situation different recruitment instruments are used to recruit high potentials However the interviewees did not use an explicit high potential recruitment profile though they implicitly search for varying combinations of high potential characteristics such as intelligence and agility engagement the ability to perform in various environments and the ability to manage one s energy levels The Network Trap Meryl Bushell,Kim Hoque,Deborah Dean,2020-04-28 As we begin the third decade of the twenty first century women have entered the workplace in unprecedented numbers are now outperforming men in terms of educational qualifications and are excelling across a range of professional fields Yet men continue to occupy the positions of real power in large corporations This book draws on unique unprecedented access to Chairs of FTSE 350 Chairs boardroom aspirants and executive head hunters to explain why this is the case The analysis it presents establishes that the relative absence of women in boardroom roles is not explained by their lack of relevant skills experience or ambition but instead by their exclusion from the powerful male dominated networks of key organisational decision makers It is from within these networks that candidates are sourced endorsed sponsored and championed Yet women's efforts to penetrate these networks are instead likely to trap them into network relationships that will be of little value in helping them to fulfil their career aspirations. The analysis also identifies why women struggle to gain access to these networks and in doing so it demonstrates that the network trap in which women find themselves will not be overcome simply by encouraging them to change their networking behaviours. Instead there is a need for a fundamental reconsideration of how boardroom recruitment and selection is conducted and regulated to ensure the development of a more open, transparent and equitable process.

High Tech and High Touch James E. Coverdill, William Finlay, 2017-11-15. In High Tech and High Touch James E. Coverdill and William Finlay invite readers into the dynamic world of headhunters, personnel professionals who acquire talent for businesses and other organizations on a contingent fee basis. In a high tech world where social media platforms have simplified direct contact between employers and job seekers, Coverdill and Finlay acknowledge it is relatively easy to find large numbers of apparently qualified candidates. However, the authors demonstrate that headhunters serve a valuable purpose in bringing high touch search into the labor market; they help parties on both sides of the transaction to define their needs and articulate what they have to offer. As well as providing valuable information for sociologists and economists, High Tech and High Touch demonstrates how headhunters approach practical issues such as identifying and attracting candidates, how they solicit, secure and evaluate search assignments from client companies, and how they strive to broker interactions between candidates and clients to maximize the likelihood that the right people land in the right jobs.

Economy in Society Michael J. Piore, 2013. Prominent economists discuss internal labor markets, the dynamics of immigration, labor market regulation and other key topics in the work of Michael J. Piore. In Economy in Society, five prominent social scientists honor Michael J. Piore in original essays that explore key topics in Piore's work and make significant independent contributions in their own right. Piore is distinctive for his original research that explores the interaction of social, political and economic considerations in the labor market and in the economic development of nations and regions. The essays in this volume reflect this rigorous interdisciplinary approach to important social and economic questions. M. Diane Burton's essay extends our understanding of internal labor markets by considering the influence of surrounding firms. Natasha Iskander builds on Piore's theory of immigration with a study of Mexican construction workers in two cities. Suzanne Berger highlights insights from Piore's work on technology and industrial development. Andrew Schrank takes up the theme of regulatory discretion, and Charles Sabel discusses theories of public bureaucracy.

The Good Temp Vicki Smith, Esther B. Neuwirth, 2010-08-20. Temporary agencies place approximately two and a half million people in jobs each day in the United States. Every year about twelve million people use these placement agencies to find temporary work. Many Americans, even those who desire permanent jobs, decide to enter the labor market through the portal of temporary agencies. Compared with the post-World War II era when it was a marginal labor practice, temporary employment is today an entrenched feature of jobs and labor markets. How have temporary employment relationships become so widespread and normalized In The Good Temp Vicki Smith and Esther B Neuwirth provide some novel answers to this question Their provocative analysis is based on an insider s view of the interior dynamics of a temporary help agency in Silicon Valley It incorporates a historical perspective on the rise of the temporary help service industry Smith and Neuwirth document how this powerful industry not only created a new market for temporary labor but also played a fundamental role in the erosion of the permanent employment model They analyze how agencies themselves came to manufacture and market this reinvented product the good temp an employee who is effective and efficient committed and sometimes preferable to a permanent staff member Joining extensive participant observation data with historical analysis The Good Temp contains some surprising findings about temporary employment today and fills a significant gap in our understanding of this important labor relationship

Emerging Conceptions of Work, Management and the Labor Market Steven P. Vallas, 2017-06-14 Economic institutions are undergoing radical transformations and with these has come a reconfiguration of labor market institutions managerial conceptions of work and the nature of authority and control over employees as well This volume addresses a wide array of questions to better understand these dramatic changes
