Health And Cultures Exploring The Relationships Policy Practices And Education:

Culture and Health Malcolm MacLachlan, 2006-05-01 Most Western health professionals practice in multicultural societies The influence of culture on illness health and rehabilitation is therefore very important Despite this most lower level health psychology texts skim over these differences and assume our traditional biomedical approach will be appropriate for all In this completely revised and updated edition of a groundbreaking book Malcolm MacLachlan redresses the balance by showing how social and cultural aspects interact with the purely physical from assessment and treatment all the way through to effects on rehabilitation Cultural Consultation Laurence J. Kirmayer, Jaswant Guzder, Cécile Rousseau, 2013-08-15

Based on a recently completed project of cultural consultation in Montreal Cultural Consultation presents a model of multicultural and applicable health care This model used clinicians and consultants to provide in depth assessment treatment planning and limited interventions in consultation with frontline primary care and mental health practitioners working with immigrants refugees and members of indigenous and ethnocultural communities Evaluation of the service has demonstrated that focused interventions by consultants familiar with patients cultural backgrounds could improve the relationship between the patient and the primary clinician This volume presents models for intercultural work in psychiatry and psychology in primary care general hospital and specialty mental health settings The editors highlight crucial topics such as Discussing the social context of intercultural mental health care conceptual models of the role of culture in psychopathology and healing and the development of a cultural consultation service and a specialized cultural psychiatric service Examining the process of intercultural work more closely with particular emphasis on strategies of consultation the identity of the clinician the ways in which gender and culture position the clinician and interaction of the consultant with family systems and larger institutions Highlighting special situations that may place specific demands on the clinician working with refugees and survivors of torture or political violence with separated families and with patients with psychotic episodes This book is of valuable use to mental health practitioners who are working in multidisciplinary settings who seek to understand cultural difference in complex cases Psychiatrists psychologists social workers nurse practitioners primary care providers and trainees in these disciplines will make thorough use of the material covered in this text Interprofessional Practice with Diverse Populations Allan Barsky, Esther Geva, Fern Westernoff, 2000-08-30 Concepts such as cultural competence multicultural practice and ethnosensitivity have taken root in the literature At the same time concepts such as cross disciplinary transdisciplinary interdisciplinary and interprofessional practice have been articulated Although these two trends coexist in print the literature in the various helping professions does not address whether and how the issues of client diversity and interprofessional practice can come together in productive and better informed ways The present book promises to close this gap and offer health care professionals theoretically grounded examples of best practices The range of diversity includes Native American Taiwanese Portuguese African American Algerian Irish South Asian and gay clients

Dynamics of Community Formation Robert W. Compton, Jr., Ho Hon Leung, Yaser Robles, 2017-10-13 This interdisciplinary work discusses the construction maintenance evolution and destruction of home and community spaces which are central to the development of social cohesion By examining how people throughout the world form different communities to establish a sense of home the volume surveys the formation of identity within the context of rapid development global and domestic neoliberal and political governmental policies and various societal pressures The themes of cooperation conflict inclusion exclusion and balance require negotiation between different actors e g the state professional developers social activists and residents as homes and communities develop

User Modeling Anthony Jameson, Cecile Paris, Carlo Tasso, 2014-05-04 User modeling researchers look for ways of enabling interactive software systems to adapt to their users by constructing maintaining and exploiting user models which are representations of properties of individual users User modeling has been found to enhance the effectiveness and or usability of software systems in a wide variety of situations Techniques for user modeling have been developed and evaluated by researchers in a number of fields including artificial intelligence education psychology linguistics human computer interaction and information science The biennial series of International Conferences on User Modeling provides a forum in which academic and industrial researchers from all of these fields can exchange their complementary insights on user modeling issues The published proceedings of these conferences represent a major source of information about developments in this area

The Impact of New Health Imperatives on Educational Policy and Schooling Jan Wright, Valerie Harwood, 2016-02-05 Currently a great deal of public discourse around health is on the assumed relationship between childhood inactivity young people's diets and a putative steep rise in obesity Children and young people are increasingly being identified as a population at risk in relation to these health concerns Such concerns are driving what might be described as new health imperatives which prescribe the choices young people should make around lifestyle physical activity body regulation dietary habits and sedentary behaviour These health imperatives are a powerful force driving major policy initiatives on health and education in a number of countries in the Western world Schools in particular have been targeted for the implementation of a plethora of initiatives designed to help children and young people lose weight become more active and change their eating patterns inside and outside school Addressing these issues requires an innovative theoretical approach Neither the fields of eating disorders nor obesity research has addressed these issues from a sociological and pedagogical perspective The contributors to this edited collection draw on a range of social theories including Michel Foucault and Basil Bernstein to interpret the data collected across three countries Australia and New Zealand United Kingdom and from a range of primary and secondary schools Each chapter addresses various aspects of the relationship between health imperatives as constituted in government policies school programs and practices their recontextualised in school practices and the impact of this on the subjectivities of children and teachers This book was originally published as a special issue of Discourse Studies in the Cultural Politics of Education
