Subcommittee on Science, Research, and Technology, 1980 Information Technology for Patient Empowerment in Healthcare Maria Adela Grando, Ronen Rozenblum, David Bates, 2015-03-30 Aims and Scope Patients are more empowered to shape their own health care today than ever before Health information technologies are creating new opportunities for patients and families to participate actively in their care manage their medical problems and improve communication with their healthcare providers Moreover health information technologies are enabling healthcare providers to partner with their patients in a bold effort to optimize quality of care improve health outcomes and transform the healthcare system on the macro level In this book leading figures discuss the existing needs challenges and opportunities for improving patient engagement and empowerment through health information technology mapping out what has been accomplished and what work remains to truly transform the care we deliver and engage patients in their care Policymakers healthcare providers and administrators consultants and industry managers researchers and students and not least patients and their family members should all find value in this book In the exciting period that lies just ahead more will be needed than simply connecting patients to clinicians and clinicians to each other The health care systems that will be most effective in meeting patients needs will be those that can actually design their human wares around that purpose This book provides deep insight into how information technology can and will support that redesign Thomas H Lee MD MSc Chief Medical Officer Press Ganey Associates Professor of Medicine Harvard Medical School and Professor of Health Policy and Management Harvard School of Public Health The Editors Drs Maria Adela Grando Ronen Rozenblum and David W Bates are widely recognized professors researchers and experts in the domain of health information technology patient engagement and empowerment Their research lectures and contributions in these domains have been recognized nationally and internationally Dr Grando is affiliated with Arizona State University and the Mayo Clinic and Drs Rozenblum and Bates are affiliated with Brigham and Women s Hospital and Harvard University

Economic and Medical Evaluation of Health Care Technologies A. J. Culyer, B. Horisberger, 2012-12-06 All too frequently the largest effective barrier to interdisciplinary communication is jargon The symposium whose proceedings appear in the following pages sought of course to eliminate unnecessary and obscurantist jargon but it sought also to do something far more ambitious to confront the intellectual issues that are attached to the use of the word evaluation in medicine and health services To this end a carefully selected group of experts in medicine epidemiology and health economics was invited to present papers They were selected for their reputations either as conceptualizers or as empirical evaluators or the rarest breed of expert as both The context was to be empirical Three procedures were selected that had been subject to evaluation but that posed rather different types of problem The first was the treatment of renal failure by dialysis of various kinds This has a relatively long history of evaluation with a large literature and particularly raises broad policy issues within the health services of Western societies as to the size of programmes to be provided the type location and mix of treatments the selection of patients to receive treatment and the measurement of the success of various strategies The second was the treatment of duodenal ulcer by a new species of drug the histamine H₂ receptor antagonists specifically cimetidine
