Elizabeth Tyrwhit:

Elizabeth Tyrwhit's Morning and Evening Prayers Susan M. Felch, 2017-05-15 In 1574 Christopher Barker published a volume of prayers and poems collected and composed by Elizabeth Tyrwhit an intimate member of Katherine Parr's circle governess to the princess Elizabeth wife of a Tudor court functionary and a wealthy widow Later Tyrwhit's Morning and Evening Prayers was selected by Thomas Bentley to be republished in his 1582 compilation of devotional works The Monument of Matrones This volume presents critical old spelling editions of both versions of Morning and Evening Prayers Placing them side by side Susan Felch discloses that the second version contains nearly a quarter more material than the first and is organized quite differently Felch convincingly argues that the additional material and revised arrangement of the longer version are likely copied direct from another no longer extant authorial version either printed or manuscript In the volume's introduction Felch provides background on Tyrwhit's life and family including new information unearthed in her research and sets Tyrwhit's work within the context of sixteenth century English prayerbooks Felch here posits that Tyrwhit's reorganization and framing of traditional material indicates her own considerable creativity The Textual Notes and Appendix A compare the 1574 and 1582 versions and identify the source texts from which Tyrwhit derives her prayers and poems The edition is completed by an autograph note by Tyrwhit a discussion of the Tyrwhit family connections and several versions of the rhymed Hours of the Cross as background to Tyrwhit's rendition entitled An Hymne of the Passion of Christ

Worship and the Parish Church in Early Modern Britain Alec Ryrie, 2016-02-11 The Parish Church was the primary site of religious practice throughout the early modern period This was particularly so for the silent majority of the English population who conformed outwardly to the successive religious upheavals of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries What such public conformity might have meant has attracted less attention and ironically is sometimes less well documented than the non conformity or semi conformity of recusants church papists Puritan conventiclers or separatists In this volume ten leading scholars of early modern religion explore the experience of parish worship in England during the Reformation and the century that followed it As the contributors argue parish worship in this period was of critical theological cultural and even political importance The volume's key themes are the interlocking importance of liturgy music the sermon and the parishioners own bodies the ways in which religious change was received initiated negotiated embraced or subverted in local contexts and the dialectic between practice and belief which helped to make both so contentious The contributors historians historical theologians and literary scholars through their commitment to an interdisciplinary approach to the subject provide fruitful and revealing insights into this intersection of private and public worship This collection is a sister volume to Martin and Ryrie eds Private and Domestic Devotion in Early Modern Britain Together these two volumes focus and drive forward scholarship on the lived experience of early modern religion as it was practised in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries
