Elise Boulding A Life In The Cause Of Peace:

Elise Boulding Mary Lee Morrison, 2015-09-15 Elise Boulding has been among the most influential of social reformers to advocate the integration of peace studies and women's studies. Her ideas inspired a number of works addressing the role of the family in producing social change and discussing women's unique capacity for promoting peace through nurturing and networking. Boulding's additional ideas on transnational networks and their relationship to global understanding are considered seminal contributions to modern peace studies and have earned her the title of matriarch of the 20th century peace movement. This biography is divided into three parts. The first and third deal chronologically with the life of Elise Boulding beginning with her childhood experiences as a Scandinavian immigrant. The 1940 Nazi invasion of Norway significantly influenced her concepts of pacifism and Quaker spiritualism, laying the foundation for her future work as a leader in the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and her dynamic professional partnership with and marriage to the internationally known Quaker economist and poet Kenneth Boulding. Part Two expounds upon Boulding's philosophy of education, her role as a member of the Religious Society of Friends, her espousal of the conceptual evolution of cultures of peace, and her theoretical work in women's studies and peace research. In recognition of these achievements, Boulding has been the recipient of more than 19 awards and was a 1990 nominee for the Nobel Peace Prize. John W.

Burton: A Pioneer in Conflict Analysis and Resolution David J. Dunn, Hans Günter Brauch, Pamela Burton, 2024-04-26 This book charts John W. Burton's transition from practitioner in diplomacy to pioneer in the theory of peace research, thinking on world society and conflict resolution. Born in 1915, given his father's name, it was assumed that he would follow his father and become a Christian missionary. He did not; he joined the Australian Public Service. From a junior position, he rose rapidly. He was forthright and some found him irritating or worse. He progressed to the highest levels of policy making. Amidst some controversy, he resigned abruptly in 1951. He then worked on his farm outside Canberra, writing avidly. He did not intend to become an academic, but in 1963 he was offered a position in International Relations at University College in London and he accepted. He was key to the foundation of the International Peace Research Association (IPRA) in 1964 and of the Conflict Research Society in the UK because he thought that words and ideas were not enough; there needed to be instruments of change. Looking back, he was in fact a secular missionary. His aim: Simple: to change the world. This book is an exploration of how conflict should be reinterpreted. The ideas of his work are a product not of any metaphysical approach but of experience. Burton knew the field: Cold War diplomacy, civil strife, reforming organisations, resistance to change. He had been there and he found much to criticise. This book illustrates what he had to offer and explains why. These readings reveal shifts in his ideas, cohering incrementally into a new framework. This book presents his pioneering and relevant work. Transcending disciplinary boundaries, it will be of interest to students as well as professionals who address conflict at all levels of society, from family to state. Building a Just and Secure World Amy C. Schneidhorst, 2011-11-17 Building a Just and Secure World highlights women's activism often peripheral and one dimensional in peace movement historiography which tends to dramatize men's antiwar and antinuclear activism in national organizations In Chicago an urban center of anti war and civil rights activism a generation of middle aged women leaders came to their involvement in the movement through previous experience in mixed sex Leftist movements and local civil rights campaigns Participant historians of Sixties New Left peace and feminist movements of the Sixties have argued that the Old Left was defunct and the younger generation re-energized socialism in the early 1960s These historians characterized Popular Front leftists as anticommunist cold war liberals who had abandoned youthful revolutionary aspirations for the reformist New Deal welfare state Contrary to the arguments the Popular Front politics were defunct Schneidhorst joins historians who argue the Popular Front generation continued to promote progressive and radical goals into the 1960s Peace Education from the Grassroots Ian Harris, 2013-09-01 Historians often ignore the day to day struggles of ordinary people to improve their lives They tend to focus on the accomplishments of illustrious leaders Peace Education from the Grassroots tells the stories of concerned citizens teachers and grassroots peace activists who have struggled to counteract high levels of violence by teaching about the sources for violence and strategies for peace The stories told here come from the grass roots meaning the educators are close to the forms of violence they are addressing This collection of essays tells how citizens at the grassroots level developed peace education initiatives in thirteen different nations Belgium Canada El Salvador Germany India Jamaica Japan Mexico the Philippines South Korea Spain Uganda and the United States A fourteenth article describes the efforts of the International Red Cross to implement a human rights curriculum to teachers on the ground in the Balkans Iran Senegal and the United States These chapters describe a variety of schools colleges peace movement organizations community based organizations and international nongovernmental organizations engaged in peace education

Peace Education B. Jeannie Lum, 2018-04-19 In 1999 the UN instituted the Program of Action on a Culture of Peace leading to the Declaration of the International Decade for the Promotion of a Culture of Peace and Non Violence for the Children of the World 2001 2010 This represented a paradigm shift away from the prevailing conceptualization of peace as the absence of war to one of creating cultures of peace and indicated a significant opening for peace educators and the expansion of their mission and field in peace research and scholarship This book seeks to address several questions about the emergence present state and future of the field of peace education and to ground the definition of the discipline in its origins origins deeply set in informal grassroots movements of concerned citizens faith based communities and professional organizations who work for peace as well as those working in formal institutions These origins are vital in imparting identity and in nurturing the current growing collective consciousness that combines the academic discipline and the worldwide peace movement a collective that can unify fuel and inspire dialogue among scholars researchers activists educators government leaders and the myriad of individuals committed to creating cultures of peace throughout the world This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Peace Education
