

NEW SERIES! NEW SERIES!

A series of books about the world of the future.

By Anne McCaffrey, Janet and John White.

Illustrated by John White.

When I was a child, I used to read a book called "The World of the Future". It was a book about the future of the world.

But now, I am a grown-up, and I have a different idea of the future. I think the future will be a world where people are free to do as they please, and where there is no war or poverty. I think the future will be a world where people are happy and content, and where there is no pain or suffering. I think the future will be a world where people are kind and gentle, and where there is no hate or anger. I think the future will be a world where people are wise and thoughtful, and where there is no foolishness or ignorance. I think the future will be a world where people are brave and courageous, and where there is no fear or cowardice. I think the future will be a world where people are honest and truthful, and where there is no lying or cheating. I think the future will be a world where people are loyal and faithful, and where there is no betrayal or treachery. I think the future will be a world where people are kind and gentle, and where there is no hate or anger. I think the future will be a world where people are wise and thoughtful, and where there is no foolishness or ignorance. I think the future will be a world where people are brave and courageous, and where there is no fear or cowardice. I think the future will be a world where people are honest and truthful, and where there is no lying or cheating. I think the future will be a world where people are loyal and faithful, and where there is no betrayal or treachery.
