Embodied Utopias Amy Bingaman, Lise Sanders, Rebecca Zorach, 2003-12-16 Utopia has become a dirty word in recent scholarship on modernism architecture urban planning and gender studies Many utopian designs now appear impractical manifesting an arrogant disregard for the lived experiences of the ordinary inhabitants who make daily use of global public and private spaces The essays in Embodied Utopias argue that the gendered body is the crux of the hopes and disappointments of modern urban and suburban utopias of the Americas Europe and Asia They reassess utopian projects masculinist feminist colonialist progressive of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries they survey the dystopian landscapes of the present and they gesture at the potential for an embodied approach to the urban future to the changing spaces of cities and virtual landscapes

Gibb, 2009-03-22 Institutions pervade social life They express community goals and values by defining the limits of socially acceptable behavior Institutions are often vested with the resources authority and power to enforce the orthodoxy of their time But institutions are also arenas in which both orthodoxies and authority can be contested Between power and opposition lies the individual experience of the institutionalized Whether in a boarding school hospital prison almshouse commune or asylum their experiences can reflect the positive impact of an institution or its greatest failings

Representing Berlin Dorothy Rowe, 2017-07-05 Berlin city of Bertolt Brecht Marlene Dietrich cabaret and German Expressionism a city identified with a female sexuality at first alluring but then dangerous In this fascinating study Dorothy Rowe turns our attention to Berlin as a sexual landscape She investigates the processes by which women and femininity played a prominent role in depictions of the city at the end of the nineteenth and into the early twentieth centuries She explores how in the aftermath of the horrors of World War I increasing anxieties about the liberation of women and the supposed increase of female prostitution contributed to the demonization of the city not as a focus of desire and pleasure but rather as one of alienation and anxiety Body Utopianism Franziska Bork Petersen, 2022-07-04 This book investigates how desires to transform our bodies can bring utopia to the present and how utopian practices often lead to distinctly dystopian or anti utopian outcomes It is the first comprehensive study to address the paradoxical relationship between bodies and utopianism Franziska Bork Petersen discusses doping bodybuilding and cosmetic surgery alongside practices such as retouching the body as image on social media and looks at how fashion modelling and performance estrange the body Techniques and technologies to transform our bodies are increasingly accessible and suggest an excessive identification of the body as lacking To be a body in a culturally meaningful way we incessantly improve our bodily appearance and capacity The book therefore addresses the utopianism inherent in a cultural understanding of bodies as increasingly controllable

Temporary Monuments Rebecca Zorach, 2024-03-07 There is no question that art has played a key role in constructing the public understanding of America Probing the intersection of art nature race and place Temporary Monuments examines how art and artists have responded to this legacy by imagining new ways of constructing notions of land culture and public space Zorach demonstrates how art historical tropes play out through and against the construction of race in a series of real and conceptual spaces that are key to how we imagine this country Ranging from the museum the wild and the monument to the garden the home and the border Temporary Monuments incorporates memoir historical narrative literary analysis and close looking at objects that date from significant moments in American history Works by artists such as Rebecca Belmore Dawoud Bey George Catlin Theaster Gates Kerry James Marshall Dylan Miner Barnett Newman Postcommodity Cauleen Smith and Amanda Williams help to pry open knotty questions about the relationship between the environment social justice history and identity Urban Utopias Malcolm Miles, 2007-11-21 Utopia tends to generate a bad press regarded as impracticable perhaps nostalgic or contradictory when visions of a perfect world cannot accommodate the change that is necessary to a free and self organizing society But people from diverse backgrounds are currently building a new society within the old balancing literal and metaphorical utopianism and demonstrating plural possibilities for alternative futures and types of settlement Thousands of such places exist around the world including intentional communities eco villages permaculture plots religious and secular retreats co housing projects self build schemes projects for low impact housing and activist squats in urban and rural sites This experience suggests however that when planning and design are not integral to alternative social formations the modern dream to engineer a new society cannot be realized The book is structured in four parts In part one literary and theoretical utopias from the early modern period to the nineteenth century are reconsidered Part two investigates twentieth century urban utopianism and contemporary alternative settlements focusing on social and environmental issues activism and eco village living Part three looks to wider horizons in recent practices in the non affluent world and Part four reviews a range of cases from the author's visits to specific sites This is followed by a short conclusion in which a discussion of key issues is resumed This book brings together insights from literary theoretical and practical utopias drawing out the characteristics of groups and places that are part of a new society It links today's utopian experiments to historical and literary utopias and to theoretical problems in utopian thought Shared Spaces and Divided Places

Deborah L. Rotman, Ellen-Rose Savulis, 2003 This indispensable collection of essays is among the first to seriously link gender and landscape research two major emerging topics in historical archaeology and to explore the relationship between the two Landscapes represent unique as well as collective experiences so it is not without cultural significance that landscapes have historically been codified as female The book represents an intersection of the study of landscape archaeology and space with the study of gender By expanding the definition of landscape to include interior spaces by challenging the equivocation of gendered space with feminized space and by approaching the subject matter dialectically the book promotes an in depth understanding of the issues that arise when scholars apply gender issues to the study of space manipulation Housing and Dwelling Barbara Miller Lane, 2006-11 A collection of thought provoking essays on the changing face of domestic architecture over two centuries highlighting the wide range of source materials and theoretical perspectives available to scholars of architectural history Keywords for Travel Writing Studies Charles Forsdick, Zoë Kinsley, Kathryn Walchester, 2019-04-22 Keywords for Travel Writing Studies draws on the notion of the keyword as initially elaborated by

Raymond Williams in his seminal 1976 text Keywords A Vocabulary of Culture and Society to present 100 concepts central to the study of travel writing as a literary form Each entry in the volume is around 1 000 words the style more essayistic than encyclopaedic with contributors reflecting on their chosen keyword from a variety of disciplinary perspectives The emphasis on travelogues and other cultural representations of mobility drawn from a range of national and linguistic traditions ensures that the volume has a comparative dimension the aim is to give an overview of each term in its historical and theoretical complexity providing readers with a clear sense of how the selected words are essential to a critical understanding of travel writing Each entry is complemented by an annotated bibliography of five essential items suggesting further reading

Unplanned Visitors Olivier Vallerand, 2022-03-30 Sexuality and gender have long been influential in understanding the construction of domestic space its meanings often revealing a binary division of private and public female and male By reconstructing the foundation of queer critiques of space and by analyzing the representation of domesticity in contemporary art and architecture Unplanned Visitors shows the blurring of private and public that can occur in any domestic space and explores the potential of queer theory for understanding and designing the built environment Olivier Vallerand investigates how queer critiques building on pioneering feminist work question the relation between identity and architecture and highlight normative constructs underlying domestic spaces He draws out a genealogy of queer space in theoretical discourse in architecture studying projects by Mark Robbins Joel Sanders J Mayer H Elmgreen Dragset Andr s Jaque and MYCKET among others These works blur the traditional borders between architecture and art to emphasize the tensions between private and public and their impact on assumptions about domestic space and family structure The challenges in moving from experimental installations to built environments suggest how designers must acknowledge and respond to the social contexts that shape architecture rethinking how domestic spaces can be designed to allow everyone to better manage the expression of their self identification through their living environments Unplanned Visitors poses a challenge to traditional architectural theory and history but also suggests a renewed and more inclusive ethics whereby designers explicitly address social and political power structures The potential of a queer approach to architectural design history theory and education is precisely to enact a method that creates more inclusive buildings and safer neighbourhoods for everyone
