Minnis, 2014-05-22 Over many millennia farmers across the world have domesticated literally thousands of species and developed tens of thousands of varieties of these plants Despite the astonishing agricultural diversity that existed long ago the world's current food base has narrowed to a dangerous level By studying the long and dynamic history of farming in the ancient past archaeology can play a part in helping ensure the stability of the human food supply by identifying once important crops and showing where and how such crops were grown in the past Thanks to this work extinct crops might even be redomesticated from their wild progenitors New Lives for Ancient and Extinct Crops profiles nine plant species that were important contributors to human diets and had medicinal uses in antiquity maygrass chenopod marshelder agave little barley chia arrowroot little millet and bitter vetch Each chapter is written by a well known scholar who illustrates the global value of the ancient crop record to inform the present From eastern and western North America Mesoamerica South America western Asia and south central Asia the contributors provide examples of the unexpected wealth of information available in the archaeological record about ancient and extinct crops

Amazonian Dark Earths: Wim Sombroek's Vision William I. Woods, Wenceslau G. Teixeira, Johannes Lehmann, Christoph Steiner, Antoinette M. G. A. Winkler Prins, Lilian Rebellato, 2008-11-16 Amazonian soils are almost universally thought of as extremely forbidding However it is now clear that complex societies with large sedentary populations were present for over a millennium before European contact Associated with these are tracts of anomalously fertile dark soils termed terra preta or dark earths These soils are presently an important agricultural resource within Amazonia and provide a model for developing long term future sustainability of food production in tropical environments The late Dutch soil scientist Wim Sombroek 1934-2003 was instrumental in bringing the significance of these soils to the attention of the world over four decades ago Wim saw not only the possibilities of improving the lives of small holders throughout the world with simple carbon based soil technologies but was an early proponent of the positive synergies also achieved in regards to carbon sequestration and global climatic change abatement Wim's vision was to form a multidisciplinary group whose members maintained the ideal of open collaboration toward the attainment of shared goals Always encouraged and often shaped by Wim this free association of international scholars termed the Terra Preta Nova Group came together in 2001 and has flourished This effort has been defined by enormous productivity Wim who is never far from any of our minds and hearts would have loved to share the great experience of seeing the fruits of his vision as demonstrated in this volume

Hinterlands and Regional Dynamics in the Ancient Southwest Alan P. Sullivan, James Bayman, 2007-01-01 Hinterlands and Regional Dynamics in the Ancient Southwest is the first volume dedicated to understanding the nature of and changes in regional social autonomy political hegemony and organizational complexity across the entire prehistoric American Southwest With geographic coverage extending from the Great Plains to the Colorado River and from Mesa Verde to the international border the volume's ten case studies synthesize research that enhances our understanding of the ancient Southwest's highly variable demographic land use and economic histories For this volume hinterlands are those areas whose archaeological records do not disclose the ceramic architectural and network evidence that initially led to the establishment of the Hohokam Chaco and Casas Grandes regional systems Employing a variety of perspectives such as the cultural landscapes approach heterarchy and the common pool resource model as well as technical methods such as petrographic and stylistic attribute analyses the volume's contributors explore variation in hinterland identities subsistence ecology and sociopolitical organization as regional systems expanded and contracted between the 9th and 14th centuries AD The hinterlands of the prehistoric Southwest were home to a substantial number of people and were often used as resource catchments by the inhabitants of regional systems Importantly hinterlands also influenced developments of nearby regional systems under whose footprint they managed to retain considerable autonomy By considering the dynamics between hinterlands and regional systems the volume reveals unappreciated aspects of the ancient Southwest's peoples and their lives thereby deepening our awareness of the region's rich and complicated cultural past

Interaction and Connectivity in the Greater Southwest Karen Harry, Barbara J. Roth, 2019-03-21 This volume of proceedings from the fourteenth biennial Southwest Symposium explores different kinds of social interaction that occurred prehistorically across the Southwest The authors use diverse and innovative approaches and a variety of different data sets to examine the economic social and ideological implications of the different forms of interaction presenting new ways to examine how social interaction and connectivity influenced cultural developments in the Southwest The book observes social interactions role in the diffusion of ideas and material culture the way different social units especially households interacted within and between communities and the importance of interaction and interconnectivity in understanding the archaeology of the Southwest's northern periphery Chapters demonstrate a movement away from strictly economic driven models of social connectivity and interaction and illustrate that members of social groups lived in dynamic situations that did not always have clear cut and unwavering boundaries Social connectivity and interaction were often fluid changing over time Interaction and Connectivity in the Greater Southwest is an impressive collection of established and up and coming Southwestern archaeologists collaborating to strengthen the theoretical underpinnings of the discipline It will be of interest to professional and academic archaeologists as well as researchers with interests in diffusion identity cultural transmission borders large scale interaction or social organization Contributors Richard V N Ahlstrom James R Allison Jean H Ballagh Catherine M Cameron Richard Ciolek Torello John G Douglass Suzanne L Eckert Hayward H Franklin Patricia A Gilman Dennis A Gilpin William M Graves Kelley A Hays Gilpin Lindsay D Johansson Eric Eugene Klucas Phillip O Leckman Myles R Miller Barbara J Mills Matthew A Peeples David A Phillips Jr Katie Richards Heidi Roberts Thomas R Rocek Tammy Stone Richard K Talbot Marc Thompson David T Unruh John A Ware Kristina C Wyckoff Trails, Rock Features, and Homesteading in the Gila Bend Area John L. Bischoff,2000 With the German Afrika Korps driving across the North African desert with impunity in 1941 and 1942 the U S Army realized that it might be called upon to assist its British ally in the fight against the Germans and Italians Egypt along with the strategic Suez Canal and the Middle East in general was in danger of being lost to the Axis powers It became imperative that the Axis be expelled from North Africa The U S Army however had never fought a large scale war in a desert environment As a result the Army Ground Forces designated more than 18 000 square miles of the Arizona and California desert as an armored training facility Maj Gen George S Patton Jr was placed in charge of establishing this facility and served as its first commanding officer The facility would thereafter reflect his tough image and relentless training doctrines      Prehistoric Painted Pottery of Southeastern Arizona Robert A.
