From the Margin A.J.. Tamburri, P.A.. Giordano, F.L.. Gardaphé, 1991 A Semiotic of Ethnicity Anthony Julian Tamburri, 1998-09-11 Using semiotics as a theoretical foundation this book reexamines the notion of the hyphenate writer It argues for an analogous set of categories no longer chronologically or generationally based but cognitively based so that the traditionally considered first stage or first generation hyphenate writer now figures as an expressive writer who is not necessarily part of the immigrant or first American born generations He or she may actually belong to a later generation and write about his or her ethnicity with those characteristics more readily associated with the first stage hyphenate writer

Dottolo, Carol Dottolo, 2018-03-02 This book is about Italian American women food identity and our stories at the table This mother daughter research team explores how Italian American working class women from Syracuse New York use food as a symbol and vehicle which carries multiple meanings In these narratives food represents home loss and longing Food also stands in for race class gender sexuality immigration region place and space The authors highlight how food is about family and tradition as well as choice and change These women s narratives reveal that food is related to celebration love power and shame As this study centers on the intergenerational transmission of culture the authors relationship mirrors these questions as they contend with their similar and disparate experiences and relationships with Italian American identity and food The authors use the recipe as a conversational bridge to elicit narratives about identity and the self They also encourage readers to listen closely to the stories at their own tables to consider how recipes and food are a way for us to claim who we are who we think we are who we want to be and who we are not Italian Americans on Screen Ryan Calabretta-Sajder, Alan J. Claiming a Tradition Mary Jo Bona, 1999 Mary Jo Bona reconstructs the literary history and examines the narrative techniques of eight Italian American women's novels from 1940 to the present Largely neglected until recently these women's family narratives compel a reconsideration of what it means to be a woman and an ethnic in America Bona discusses the novels in pairs according to their focus on Italian American life She first examines the traditions of Italianity a flavor of things Italian that inform and enhance works of fiction The novelists in that tradition were Mari Tomasi Like Lesser Gods 1949 and Marion Benasutti No Steady Job for Papa 1966 Bona then turns to later novels that highlight the Italian American belief in the family's honor and reputation Conflicts between generations specifically between autocratic fathers and their children are central to Octavia Waldo's 1961 A Cup of the Sun and Josephine Gattuso Hendin's 1988 The Right Thing to Do Even when writers choose to steer away from the familial focus Bona notes their developmental narratives trace the reintegration of characters suffering from a crisis of cultural identity Relating the characters' struggles to their relationship to the family Bona examines Diana Cavallo's 1961 A Bridge of Leaves and Dorothy Bryant's 1978 Miss Giardino Bona then discusses two innovative novels Helen Barolini's 1979 Umbertina and Tina De Rosa's 1980 Paper Fish both of which feature a granddaughter who invokes her grandmother a godparent figure Through Barolini's feminist and De Rosa's modernist perspectives both novels present a young girl developing artistically Closing with a discussion of the contemporary terrain Italian American women traverse Bona examines such topics as sexual identity when it meets cultural identity and the inclusion of Italianity when Italian American identity is not central to the story Italian American women writers she concludes continue in the 1980s and 1990s to focus on the interplay between cultural identity and women's development Hollywood's Italian American Filmmakers Jonathan J. Cavallero, 2011-05-01 Hollywood's Italian American Filmmakers explores the different ways in which Italian American directors from the 1920s to the present have responded to their ethnicity. While some directors have used film to declare their ethnic roots and create an Italian American imagined community, others have ignored or even denied their background. Jonathan J. Cavallero examines the films of Frank Capra, Martin Scorsese, Nancy Savoca, Francis Ford Coppola, and Quentin Tarantino with a focus on what the films reveal about each director's view on Italian American identities. Whereas Capra's films highlight similarities between immigrant characters and WASP Americans, Scorsese accepts his ethnic heritage but also sees it as confining. Similarly, many of Coppola's films provide a nostalgic treatment of Italian American identity but with little criticism of the culture's more negative aspects. And while Savoca's movies reveal her artful ability to recognize how ethnic gender and class identities overlap, Tarantino's films exhibit a playfully postmodern engagement with Italian American ethnicity. Cavallero's exploration of the films of Capra, Scorsese, Savoca, Coppola, and Tarantino demonstrates how immigrant Italians fought prejudice, how later generations positioned themselves in relation to their predecessors, and how the American cinema, usually seen as a cultural institution that works to assimilate, has also served as a forum where assimilation was resisted.

Italian/American Short Films and Music Videos Anthony Julian Tamburri, 2002 This book constitutes a first look at the little known phenomenon of the Italian American short film. What becomes apparent is the conspicuous interest these members of the newer generation of Italian American filmmakers exhibit vis à vis their ethnicity, be such films a fiction, a documentary, or a music video. Equally significant is the lens through which they see their Italian American heritage. While the older generations concentrated more on the by now well known thematics of immigration and organized crime, as well as the debunking thereof, these younger artists, performers of short films, have added to the general theme of heritage at various degrees that of race, gender, and sexuality. Anthony Julian Tamburri is a professor of Italian at Florida Atlantic University where he is also chair of the Department of Languages and Linguistics. He is the author of seven other books including A Semiotic of Ethnicity, In Recognition of the Italian American Writer, and To Hyphenate or Not to Hyphenate: The Italian American Writer Or An Other American, and is editor or co-editor of twelve collections including the best selling anthology From the Margin (1991, 2000) and Screening Ethnicity (2002). He is a co-founding editor of Voices in Italian Americana: A Literary and Cultural Review.

Italian Signs, American Streets Fred L. Gardaphé, 1996 In the first major critical reading of Italian American narrative literature in two decades, Fred L. Gardaphé presents an interpretive overview of Italian American literary history. Examining works from the turn of the twentieth century to the present, he develops a new perspective, variously historical, philosophical, and cultural, by which American writers of Italian descent can be read, increasing the discursive power of an ethnic literature that has received too little serious critical attention. Gardaphé draws on Vico's concept of history as well as the work of Gramsci to establish a culture-specific approach to reading Italian

American literature He begins his historical reading with narratives informed by oral traditions primarily autobiography and autobiographical fiction written by immigrants From these earliest social realist narratives Gardaph traces the evolution of this literature through tales of the godfather and the mafia the reinvention of ethnicity in works by Helen Barolini Tina DeRosa and Carole Maso the move beyond ethnicity in fiction by Don DeLillo and Gilbert Sorrentino to the short fiction of Mary Caponegro which points to a new direction in Italian American writing The result is both an ethnography of Italian American narrative and a model for reading the signs that mark the self fashioning inherent in literary and cultural production Italian Signs American Streets promises to become a landmark in the understanding of literature and culture produced by Italian Americans It will be of interest not only to students critics and scholars of this ethnic experience but also to those concerned with American literature in general and the place of immigrant and ethnic literatures within that wide framework

Italian-American Folklore Frances M. Malpezzi, William M. Clements, 1992 Italian Americans compose one of the largest ethnic groups in the United States numbering more than 14 million in the 1990 census Though they have often been portrayed in fiction and film these images are often based on stereotypes not borne out among the immigrant and assimilated population

Pietro DiDonato, the Master Builder Matthew Diomedes, 1995 In Pietro DiDonato the Master Builder author Matthew Diomedes explores the role of the immigrant Italian American writer in twentieth century American letters by examining the life and work of the novelist dramatist and essayist Pietro DiDonato Diomedes uses the text of two lengthy interviews with the writer to discover the themes of love death women beauty rebellion and the mystery of life that can be found in DiDonato s works He also touches on DiDonato s writing process Diomedes then incorporates these concepts into a critical analysis of several of DiDonato s works including his novels This Woman Christ in Concrete and Three Circles of Light a play The Love of Annunziata two biographies Immigrant Saint The Life of Mother Cabrini and The Penitent and an essay Christ in Plastic Central to Diomedes s analysis are two concepts of analyst Carl Jung that dreams can prove valuable in understanding ourselves and that full human realization occurs when a person takes on a father male component and a mother female component Diomedes also explores the development of DiDonato s autobiographical character Paul Paolo in three novels and a play He then demonstrates the value of dreams by tracing Paul's dream nightmare in Christ in Concrete through DiDonato's oeuvre to the character's fullest development in This Woman the pinnacle of DiDonato's work Besides exploring the Jungian concepts in DiDonato's biographies Diomedee demonstrates how love is the concrete that is central to the author's work
