C. Sharman, 2011-05-16 Small states have learned in recent decades that capital accumulates where taxes are low as a result tax havens have increasingly competed for the attention of international investors with tax and regulatory concessions Economically powerful countries including France Britain Japan and the United States however wished to stanch the offshore flow of domestic taxable capital Since 1998 the Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development OECD has attempted to impose common tax regulations on more than three dozen small states In a fascinating book based on fieldwork and interviews in twenty two countries in the Caribbean North America Europe and islands in the Pacific and Indian Oceans J C Sharman shows how the struggle was decided in favor of the tax havens which eventually avoided common regulation No other book on tax havens is based on such extensive fieldwork and no other author has had access to so many of the key decision makers who played roles in the conflict between onshore and offshore Sharman suggests that microstates succeeded in their struggle with great powers because of their astute deployment of reputation and effective rhetorical self positioning In effect they persuaded a transnational audience that the OECD was being untrue to its own values by engaging in a hypocritical bullying exercise inimical to free competition

Women and Sex Tourism Landscapes Erin Sanders-McDonagh, 2016-08-12 Sexual spaces normally inhabited by mostly female sex workers are understood as masculine spaces and positioned for and around male consumers However red light zones and public sex performances in both Thailand and Holland are being explored and visually consumed by female tourists in significant numbers Their presence in red light districts and sexual venues is at odds with the ways in which sexual spaces have normally been positioned Woman and Sex Tourism Landscapes explores female tourists interactions with highly sexualized spaces and places in two very different contexts the Netherlands and Thailand Addressing this incongruence this text explores the ways in which these spaces are constructed and examines the different relations that govern the management of and female tourist interactions with these liminal sexual zones Ethnographic data collected in both countries suggests that far from being male centred spaces the red light districts and associated sexual entertainment venues are very much open to female tourists Drawing on this research the author argues that some women are indeed interested in exploring sexualized zones challenging assumptions about women s involvements with sexual space Thinking specifically about the visual nature of women's sexualized experiences the analysis draws on a range of different theoretical understandings that address power privilege and the gaze An important contribution to a range of debates this book will appeal to students and researchers in tourism geography sociology gender studies and cultural theory
