Transfer Spending, Taxes, and the American Welfare State Wallace C. Peterson, 2012-12-06 In 1989 the federal government spent 1197 billion a mind boggling sum that is almost impossible to visualize Since there were 248.8 million people living in the United States in that year the government spent an average of 4811 for every man woman and child in the nation For a hypothetical family of four federal spending in 1989 amounted to an average of 19,244 To put this sum in perspective the money income of an American family averaged 35,270 in the same year To finance spending 1197 billion the government collected taxes from American citizens and residents in an amount of 1047 billion Because of a shortfall between what it spent and what it took in taxes the government had to borrow 150 billion partly from individuals but mostly from banks insurance companies and foreigners How where and on whom did the federal government spend all this money Since federal spending in 1989 totaled 23 cents in comparison to every dollar spent for the buying of goods and services finding an answer to this question is not a trivial matter Spending by Washington reaches into every nook and cranny of the economy touching the lives and fortunes of almost everyone in the nation Thus answers to these questions are of more than academic interest

The Rise of Big Government Harold G. Vatter, John F. Walker, 2015-02-24 The Rise of Big Government chronicles the phenomenal growth of local state and federal government over the last 100 years The authors explain this growth by arguing that public and social acceptance of government intervention has allowed government to maintain a presence at all levels of the economy The authors take issue with the opposing argument that government has grown by itself and by the bureaucracy's constant push for its own expansion

Beyond the Twin Deficits: A Trade Strategy for the 1990's Robert A. Blecker, 2016-09-16 This study documents evidence of a decline trend in the international competitiveness of US industry The analysis identifies three groups of countries that account for most of the US trade deficit in the 1980s the surplus countries Germany and Japan the East Asian NICs and the Latin American debtors In each case the author points to underlying structural problems contributing to the deficit They call for quite different US policy responses including microeconomic and industrial policies incentives to revive productivity growth and technological innovation import surcharges wage increases in the NICs currency realignments US capital exports and debt relief A pragmatic policy approach with efforts to open foreign markets aims to achieve the greatest possible reduction in the trade deficit with the lowest possible cost from macroeconomic adjustments The author urges the reversal of two adverse trends in his policy strategy the decline in public sector investment and the decreasing progressivity of the tax code Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States.
