Eighteenth-century French Porcelain in the Ashmolean Museum Aileen Dawson, Ashmolean Museum, 1996 The Ashmolean Museum has a collection of French porcelain which is remarkable both for several individual pieces from famous collections and also for the way in which it demonstrates the development of porcelain in France from the late 17th century onwards The book illustrates and discusses in detail over 50 of the most attractive rare and important pieces in the collection from eight known factories including Vincennes Sevres St Cloud Chantilly Mennecy and Villeroy The Ashmolean ,1995

European Porcelain in The Metropolitan Museum of Art Jeffrey Munger, Elizabeth Sullivan, 2018-05-09 Porcelain imported from China was the most highly coveted new medium in sixteenth and early seventeenth century Europe Its pure white color translucency and durability as well as the delicacy of decoration were impossible to achieve in European earthenware and stoneware In response European ceramic factories set out to discover the process of producing porcelain in the Chinese manner with significant artistic technical and commercial ramifications for Britain and the Continent Indeed not only artisans but kings noble patrons and entrepreneurs all joined in the quest hoping to gain both prestige and profit from the enterprises they established This beautifully illustrated volume showcases ninety works that span the late sixteenth to the mid nineteenth century and reflect the major currents of European porcelain production Each work is illustrated with glorious new photography accompanied by analysis and interpretation by one of the leading experts in European decorative arts Among the wide range of porcelains selected are rare blue and white wares and figures from Italy superb examples from the Meissen factory in Germany and the Sevres factory in France and ceramics produced by leading British eighteenth century artisans Taken together they reveal why the Metropolitan Museum's holdings in this field are among the finest in the world p p1

Vickers, 2002 The Scythians were nomads who roamed the Steppes of Russia during the first millennium BC before settling in the region to the north of the Black Sea where they came into friendly contact with Greek traders Their distinctive Animal Style art is of a Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1991 Welsh Armorial Porcelain Howell G. M. Edwards, 2022-05-05 Armorial porcelains comprised the output of most European ceramics factories in the 18th and 19th Centuries in response to the large quantity of armorial porcelain services that were being imported from China bearing the coats of arms and crests of aristocratic families Whereas these armorial services have been identified and covered for most porcelain manufactories the information relevant to their production by the two relatively short lived Nantgarw and Swansea China Works has not been addressed as a theme until now As an integral component of the holistic forensic appraisal of porcelain a functional and decorative artwork manifestly part of our cultural heritage and its ongoing preservation the recording and identification of such artefacts is material for the future establishment of a database of factory production The

Nantgarw and Swansea factories only operated for a limited period in the second decade of the 19th Century and their porcelains were much appreciated for their high quality and desirability by Georgian households Today examples are to be found in many museums and ceramics collections and continue to excite the interest of specialists and the general public This text provides the first comprehensive assessment of armorial porcelains from these two factories and the methodology and procedure for the identification of unknown armorial bearings and crests is illustrated individual bearings are discussed in detail and existing incorrect assignments in the literature are re appraised The difficulties in attribution of armorial heraldic achievements that are only minimally depicted are considered and directions for further studies using historical documentation are invoked This book therefore fills a currently existing gap in the ceramics literature of the 19th Century

City Intelligible Frank Perlin,2020-03-02 City Intelligible seeks to integrate a transcendental philosophical anthropology of commoditisation before industrialisation with a social and cultural thus empirical anthropology of commodity production and exchange that is global thus inter cultural It treats commodification as a singular and privileged evidence of the universal status of human reasoning and one that grounds the translational character of human exchange throughout the early centuries and yet that simultaneously founds ubiquitous cultural differentiation The book constitutes therefore a refutation of the predominant tendency in the humanities to represent cultural difference as inhibiting the very possibility of effective intercultural translation It treats the factors of economic history as forms of cultural expression but determined in their turn by a continuum of complex societal formation from the very beginnings of intensive agricultural and social settlement It seeks to derive evidence for the universal foundations of human reasoning through analysis of the culture of commoditisation in marrying a thoroughgoing Kantian analysis with the historical evidence an approach aspiring to ground the very concept and possibility of a universal human cultural nature underlying all human differentiation     The Times Literary Supplement ,1982     The Studio ,1961     Art Books ,1979 Including an international directory of museum permanent collection catalogs     Books in Print Supplement ,1985
