Thomasma,Judith Lee Kissell,2000-10-04 This book illuminates issues in medical ethics revolving around the complex bond between healer and patient focusing on friendship and other important values in the healing relationship Embracing medicine philosophy theology and bioethics it considers whether bioethical issues in medicine nursing and dentistry can be examined from the perspective of the healing relationship rather than external moral principles Distinguished contributors explore the role of the health professional the moral basis of health care greater emphasis on the humanities in medical education and some of the current challenges facing healers today Education for the Professions United States. Office of Education,1955 Professional Education in the United States Solomon Hoberman,Sidney Mailick,1994-10-26 Believing that the primary purpose of professional education is to prepare practitioners the authors consider variables that affect professional practice Emphasis is the key role and techniques of experiential education for effective transfer of learning to practice in medicine law social work and management Other variables that impact cost and quality of services include cost and length of professional education specialization selection and promotion of faculty role of research use of paraprofessionals and assessment of professional education Conclusions go beyond education for the four professions discussed in detail to challenge current objectives and practices in all professional education The major conclusion is that professional learning for practice needs to be improved and points to the importance of utilizing and developing experiential education as the key learning approach Other counterproductive effects of current professional education practices identified are a tendency to consider isolated problems and ignore clients needs inadequate continuing graduate professional education oversupply of professionals in many areas failure of many professionals to keep up with changing theory and practice and overly expensive and poor research as the result of using the same institutions for both Corrective action is suggested in each case The Biblical Counseling Movement David Powlison,2010-02-12 Beginning in the late 1960s a biblical counseling movement sought to reclaim counseling for the church and provide a Christian alternative to mainstream psychiatry and psychotherapy The Biblical Counseling Movement History and Context is an informative and thought provoking account of that movement David Powlison's historical account Supporting Lifelong Learning: Perspectives on learning Roger Harrison, 2002 This Open University Reader examines the practices of learning and teaching which have been developed to support lifelong learning and the understanding and assumptions which underpin them The selection of texts trace the widening scope of academic understanding of learning and teaching and considers the implications for those who develop programmes of learning It examines in great depth those theories which have had the greatest impact in the field theories of reflection and learning from experience and theories of situated learning The implications of these theories are examined in relation to themes which run across the reader namely workplace learning literacies and the possibilities offered by information and communication technologies The particular focus of this Reader is on the psychological or cognitive phenomena that happen in the minds of individual learners The readings have been selected to represent a range of experience in different sectors of education from around the globe Political Economy, Diversity and Pragmatism Patsy Healey, 2017-03-02 Planning Theory has a history of common debates about ideas and practices and is rooted in a critical concern for the improvement of human and environmental well being particularly as pursued through interventions which seek to shape environmental conditions and place qualities The second volume in this series covers in detail critical political economy the turn to diversity and critical pragmatism It provides an authoritative collection in an accessible form of the most important and influential articles and papers along with a detailed introduction by the editors It offers a unique reference resource for planning scholars upper level undergraduate and post graduate students Supporting Lifelong Learning Julia Clarke, Ann Hanson, Roger Harrison, Fiona Reeve, 2001-11-22 This Open University Reader examines the practices of learning and teaching which have been developed to support lifelong learning and the understanding and assumptions which underpin them The selection of texts trace the widening scope of academic understanding of learning and teaching and considers the implications for those who develop programmes of learning It examines in great depth those theories which have had the greatest impact in the field theories of reflection and learning from experience and theories of situated learning The implications of these theories are examined in relation to themes which run across the reader namely workplace learning literacies and the possibilities offered by information and communication technologies The particular focus of this Reader is on the psychological or cognitive phenomena that happen in the minds of individual learners The readings have been selected to represent a range of experience in different sectors of education from around the globe Boundaries of Adult Learning Richard Edwards, Ann Hanson, Peter Raggatt, 2013-09-13 Until relatively recently adult learning in the UK was largely recognised as being situated mainly within the LEA adult education centre university extra mural departments and the WEA However this picture has changed The major change has been a shift from education to learning as the key organising concept A greater range of settings are now recognised as sites producing learning and alongside this has grown a debate about the purpose and form of study within adult learning This has led people to question both the concept of adult learning and the boundaries of its provision This book reviews and assesses the changes which are taking place It explores the disputes surrounding adult learning discussing how boundaries have blurred thereby creating new opportunities such as APL and credit transfer and including a significantly wider range of activities within the definition of learning It also assesses the extent to which despite the changes in boundaries inequalities in learning opportunities still persist

Collaboration--across Campus, Across Town, and With K-12 Schools Jill F.

Russell, Richard B. Flynn, 2013-12-16 First Published in 2000 This is Volume 75 Number 3 of the Peabody Journal of Education and focuses on collaboration across campus town and with K 12 schools The issue provides descriptions of a range of ways in which universities and schools and colleges of education can provide leadership for collaborative ventures involving the wider community The collaborative undertakings include working with community agencies other schools or colleges within or external to the institution P 12 schools and business groups The rationale for the theme is that in today s world the problems we are facing are so complex that solutions can no longer be generated and successfully implemented in a vacuum Cross disciplinary and cross sector collaboration is required to have the desired impact This necessitates collaboration
