Environmental Education in the Public Schools National Education Association of the United States. Research Division, 1970 Environmental Education in a Climate of Reform Sylvia Christine Almeida, 2015-10-29 India is grappling with serious environmental issues that have been largely sparked by its galloping economy As a measure of its seriousness to reduce the environmental impacts it has spearheaded numerous policy initiatives One of the major thrusts of the proposed initiatives to curb environmental degradation has been to create an informed and well educated citizenry The federal mandates have triggered new curriculum policies and the compulsory teaching of environmental and sustainability education at all levels in all education institutions This volume examines the policy practice conundrum It looks at how national and international policy reforms reach practitioners in this case teacher educators Furthermore it unravels how teacher educators understand environmental education the ways in which they negotiate its demands on their busy schedules what helps them in determining relevant issues within this and finally how they implement these policies in their everyday practices It is evident from this book that while there have been some really well meaning development of policies their impact on teacher educators practice and therefore student teachers learning about Environmental Education is limited The study showed that while these teacher educators had a clear understanding of the environment and saw the need importance of incorporating Environmental Education in their daily practices they had very little scope to do so There were numerous factors that constrained implementation The book provides inputs on global policy practice gaps It offers valuable insights to a global audience grappling with understanding the ways in which environmental education policies are put into practice in emerging economies like India The final argument is thesis that while policy reforms are a step in the right direction they need to be backed up with strong implementation systems in order to be successful div Education for the Environment, 1974 Researching Education and the Environment Alan Reid, William Scott, 2008 Collection of articles from first ten years of journal Environmental education research

Experiencing Environment and Place through Children's Literature Amy Cutter-Mackenzie, Phillip Payne, Alan Reid, 2014-06-11 Recent scholarship on children's literature displays a wide variety of interests in classic and contemporary children's books While environmental and ecological concerns have led to an interest in ecocriticism as yet there is little on the significance of the ecological imagination and experience to both the authors and readers young and old of these texts This edited collection brings together a set of original international research based chapters to explore the role of children's literature in learning about environments and places with a focus on how children's literature may inform and enrich our imagination experiences and responses to environmental challenges and injustice Contributions from Australia Canada USA and UK explore the diverse ways in which children's literature can provide what are arguably some of the first and possibly most formative engagements that some children might have with nature Chapters examine classic and new storybooks mythic tales and image based and or written texts read at home in school and in the field Contributors focus on exploring how children s literature mediates and informs our imagination and understandings of diverse environments and places and how it might open our eyes and lives to other presences understandings and priorities through stories their telling and re telling and their analysis This book was originally published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research Curriculum and Environmental Education Alan Reid,2019-11-14 This collection traces the development and findings of curriculum studies of environmental education since the mid 1970s Based on a virtual special issue of the Journal of Curriculum Studies the volume identifies a series of curriculum challenges for and from environmental education These include key questions in curriculum politics planning and implementation including which educative experiences should a curriculum foster and why what the scope of a worthwhile curriculum should be and how it should be decided organised and reworked why distinctive curricula are provided to different groups of students and how curriculum should best be enacted and evaluated The editor and contributors call for renewed attention to the possibilities for future directions in research in light of previously published work and innovations in scholarship They also offer critical commentary on curriculum critique and crisis in environmental education through new material and previous studies from the journal by addressing three key themes perspectives on curriculum and environment education accounting for curriculum in environmental education and changes in curriculum for environmental education
