Educational Citizenship And Independent Learning:

Educational Citizenship and Independent Learning Rhys Griffith, 1998 Defining the characteristics of the ideal global citizen critically reflective ethically concerned with social justice and capable of exercising personal control Rhys Griffith examines how citizenship is promoted ignored or even suppressed in schools His study is based on five years research in 97 educational establishments He offers an analysis of existing methods of cultivating citizenship and describes independent learning projects designed to develop the attributes of global citizenship From this research Dr Griffith concludes that the current emphasis of the curriculum is on the perception of the child as a passive vessel for accumulating knowledge This encourages conformity rather than the enquiring and active mental state which Griffith considers essential to the global citizen of the next century He proposes in detail how the present system can be adapted to promote greater participation among pupils and through this increased independence and flexibility

Educational Citizenship and Independent Learning Rhys David Griffith, 1996 National Curriculum: National Disaster? Dr Rhys Griffith, Rhys Griffith, 2012-11-12 National Curriculum National Disaster looks beyond the classroom and discusses the way in which the infrastructure of school codes of conduct the physical environment of school sites and the hierarchy of human resources within schools impact on the aims and reality of the National Curriculum An alternative skills based educational programme is also outlined which may be more likely to fulfil the expectations that many parents now hold for the education of their children

Good Citizenship and Educational Provision Ian Davies, Ian Gregory, Shirley Riley, 2002-11-01 Citizenship has been taught in school around the world for many years now and is due to be introduced to the UK curriculum over the next few years Teachers Headteachers administrators and policy makers have the opportunity to develop citizenship education programs for all their students This book takes a pragmatic approach to the issue and answers many of the crucial questions that will be emerging what definitions of citizenship are to be followed and how is citizenship taught What approaches will be taken by teachers and what is the likely shape of best practice for citizenship education How will the issue impact on schools and teacher training and how should they rise to the challenge What are the key factors influencing or threatening the development of good citizens Based on the analysis of data collected from over 700 teachers the book provides real solutions to questions raised by citizenship education and makes recommendations for practice in schools and in the training and development of teachers

Education, Conflict and Development Julia Paulson, 2011-05-16 Under various names education and conflict education and fragility education and insecurity etc the understanding of linkages between education and violent conflict has emerged as an important and pressing area of inquiry Work and research by practitioners and scholars has clearly pointed to the negative potential of education to contribute to and entrench violent conflict This work has highlighted the struggle for education during and following periods of instability and demonstrated the degree to which communities affected by conflict prioritize educational opportunities It has also offered powerful normative arguments for the importance of quality education for peacebuilding reconciliation postconflict reconstruction and development In many instances however these important insights are derived less from rigorous research and scholarship in the social sciences than from the delivery and evaluation of educational programming in situations affected by conflict This volume therefore seeks to broaden enquiry into education and conflict by exploring through conceptual and empirical work its linkages to broader theories and practices of development and peacebuilding The volume begins with a conceptual and theoretical section followed by a series of international case studies before closing with three chapters focused on the case of Northern Uganda Contributors present a diverse set of studies that together deepen understandings of the ways the education functions in various situations affected by conflict and the ways in which it might best be mobilized to contribute towards peacebuilding and development
