Educational Subnormality Sally Tomlinson, 2018-09-03 First published in 1981 Based on a three year study of children moving into special ESN M education in an English city in the mid 1970s this book questions the whole concept of mild educational subnormality by examining the criteria according to which professionals make decisions to place children within this stigmatised category It suggests that the beliefs that the professionals hold about the behavioural family and class characteristics of the children help to determine their judgements and that these beliefs are related to their own position within the social structure

Education and Race from Empire to Brexit Sally Tomlinson, 2019-03-27 Covering the period from the height of Empire to Brexit and beyond this book shows how the vote to leave the European Union increased hostilities towards racial and ethnic minorities and migrants Concentrating on the education system it asks whether populist views that there should be a British identity or a Scottish Irish or Welsh one will prevail Alternatively arguments based on equality human rights and economic needs may prove more powerful It covers events in politics and education that have left most white British people ignorant of the Empire the often brutal de colonisation and the arrival of immigrants from post colonial and European countries It discusses politics and practices in education race religion and migration that have left schools and universities failing to engage with a multiracial and multicultural society
