Groton-Mystic Emergency Services James L. Streeter, William J. Tischer, 2016-11-14 Established in 1705 the town of Groton is geographically located between the Thames and Mystic Rivers in the southeastern corner of Connecticut The town is comprised of eight separate subdivision communities that are referred to as fire districts Groton is also the home to a large naval submarine base a small general aviation airport and several major industrial facilities including the Electric Boat Corporation and Pfizer Inc The Mystic fire district is recognized for its historical maritime museums and facilities and plays host to thousands of tourists each year At the present time Groton and Mystic are provided emergency services by 13 fire departments three police departments two ambulance associations one paramedic response unit and one central dispatch operation Fire and Emergency Services Administration: Management and Leadership Practices , , Principles of Fire and Emergency Services Administration Includes Navigate Advantage Access Randy R Bruegman, 2021-03-30 Revised edition of Fire administration Legal Aspects of Emergency Services Gregory West, 2016-12-14 Legal Aspects of Emergency Services introduces members of fire and emergency medical services to the legal system in the United States

showing them how various types of laws affect their work in emergency services After studying Legal Aspects of Emergency Services students will be able to identify situations in their work environment whether at incident scenes or at the station that reflect federal state and local laws or may require the assistance of an attorney The knowledge gained through this text can influence emergency responders words and actions in legally sensitive situations Legal Aspects of Emergency Services meets and exceeds the Fire and Emergency Services Higher Education FESHE Program Legal Aspects of Emergency Services course outcomes Chapters progress from a general foundation in the U S legal system to general types of laws and then to the more specific types of laws affecting emergency services covering the legal aspects of topics such as Patient privacy Emergency medical care Public information transparency Technology use Civil rights Employment benefits Employee safety Employer employee relations Community rights Legal Aspects of Emergency Services also includes Decisions from influential court cases Fictional case studies Clarifications of tricky legal concepts State laws involving emergency services Legal Aspects of Emergency Services is designed to provide responders with some basic legal knowledge so that when faced with a legal quandary they may remember the core principles discussed throughout this book and recognize the need to seek qualified legal advice The law affects everything responders do in their daily activity especially when functioning as an agent of a fire or EMS department Fire fighters are calculated risk takers They risk a lot to save a lot and conversely risk nothing to save nothing and they often find themselves operating within the gray area of those two extremes Having an understanding of the law as it applies in different situations allows the prudent fire fighter EMT supervisor manager or officer to manage legal exposure There are times when it may be necessary to assume greater legal risk because it is the right thing to do There are other times when a legal risk is not worth any potential benefit As a result it is important for those in fire and EMS disciplines to have a passing knowledge of the law and how it affects them in their profession

Emergency Services In Crisis - Will Your Fire Rescue Or EMS Agency Be There When They Are Needed? Ron Graner, 2023-07-26 Fire Rescue and Emergency Medical Service agencies around the nation today are in danger of failing to be able to continue to serve and protect the public They will also fail to protect those who serve in those agencies The dangerous conditions in many emergency service agencies go far beyond the acknowledged issues of fewer Volunteers an aging Volunteer base fewer young people willing or able to volunteer and fewer people are willing to take the required risks to their health and lives of being career emergency responders understaffed stations facilities that do not meet the needs of today's emergency responders aging populations requiring more services increased service demands increased drug use in every community apparatus not designed for today's needs lack of training and lack of sufficient funding While each of these conditions is vitally important to every emergency service agency the most severe problems in the vast majority of agencies today include unsustainable and outdated funding mechanisms taxpayers who demand lower taxes agencies that continue to operate with apparatuses and equipment that are incompatible with neighboring mutual aid agencies agencies that are still funding unnecessary equipment or apparatus readily available in neighboring stations The most dangerous and costly fact affecting the above problems is that most of our emergency services are still organized as single or two station stand alone agencies and administered by structures created in the 19th and 20th centuries The centuries old dangerous lack of cost effective and efficient administrative coordination continues to exist across the nation If the lack of coordination and duplication of administrative duties continues many agencies can no longer respond to emergencies safely These worsening conditions will undoubtedly lead to injuries and deaths of emergency responders and the public Failure to address these issues will ultimately destroy the emergency services that have served communities for centuries These issues must be handled promptly not only by the leaders of every emergency service agency but also by the elected and appointed public officials and the people of the communities being served Failure of these groups to work together to solve these problems and create administrative structures that meet today's needs will cause emergency service agencies to be unable to continue to serve their communities
