Schwartz, MD, 2010-02-01 In today's world it is more acceptable to be depressed than to be lonely yet loneliness appears to be the inevitable byproduct of our frenetic contemporary lifestyle According to the 2004 General Social Survey one out of four Americans talked to no one about something of importance to them during the last six months Another remarkable fact emerged from the 2000 U S Census more people are living alone today than at any point in the country's history fully 25 percent of households consist of one person only In this crucial look at one of America's few remaining taboo subjects loneliness Drs Jacqueline Olds and Richard S Schwartz set out to understand the cultural imperatives psychological dynamics and physical mechanisms underlying social isolation In The Lonely American cutting edge research on the physiological and cognitive effects of social exclusion and emerging work in the neurobiology of attachment uncover startling sobering ripple effects of loneliness in areas as varied as physical health children's emotional problems substance abuse and even global warming Surprising new studies tell a grim truth about social isolation being disconnected diminishes happiness health and longevity increases aggression and correlates with increasing rates of violent crime Loneliness doesn't apply simply to single people either today's busy parents cocoon themselves by devoting most of their non work hours to children leaving little time for friends and other forms of social contact and unhealthily relying on the marriage to fulfill all social needs As a core population of socially isolated individuals and families continues to balloon in size it is more important than ever to understand the effects of a culture that idealizes busyness and self reliance It's time to bring loneliness a very real and little discussed social epidemic with frightening consequences out into the open and find a way to navigate the tension between freedom and connection in our lives
