Immigrant Lives Edward Shizha, Edward Makwarimba, 2023 Voluntary and involuntary human mobility in the form of migration is a natural human phenomenon which has been a central feature from the ancient times into the modern times While the boundaries between voluntary and involuntary migrants are blurred voluntary migrants in the context of this book refer to those who migrate out of their own free choice based on socioeconomic considerations while involuntary migrants are forced to leave their country out of fear of persecution or insecurity caused by political violence or civil and military strife In this book the terms newcomer foreign born and migrant and immigrant are used interchangeably and refer to those who were born in another country and later emigrated to another country as permanent residents later becoming citizens asylum seekers and refugees Migration is an increasing challenge faced by countries institutions and individuals in both sending and receiving countries In countries where there is a large inflow of immigrants migration has created a multiple origin transnationally connected socio economically differentiated and legally stratified demographic landscape which lends itself to a description of superdiverse societies Jensen Vertovec 2007 Most industrialized countries mostly in the Global North are experiencing low birth rates and are dependent on immigrants to satisfy their job market and population growth while less developed nations mostly in the Global South are experiencing low economic growth inadequate socioeconomic opportunities These social and economic challenges are presently the cornerstone of migration transnationalism and transnationality

Literature and Institutions of Welfare Jess Cotton, 2024-12-17 Perspectives on the ways in which welfarist ideology has underpinned the teaching reading and production of literature from the 1930s to the present The welfare state in Britain established a new level of access to literature as a public good alongside other national resources that were grounded in a principle of democratic egalitarianism the National Health Service secondary education promises of full employment and new housing structures This volume charts the impact of the founding of the welfare state on the teaching reading and production of literature and the legacy of this social democratic vision of literature from the 1930s to the present day it is especially concerned with the representational possibilities the social arrangements and political claims that welfare makes possible Individual contributions consider the ways in which the history of literature is related to the history of welfare and how it shaped the literary culture that emerged during these years and how literature has communicated the value and character of the welfare state moving like the literature they examine between a disenchantment with the institutions of welfare and an urgent need to articulate welfare's vision of social repair Amongst the particular authors discussed are Raymond Williams T S Eliot and Caryl Phillips as well as an evaluation of the publisher Virago's contribution to the women's movement extensive archival research shows however that the racism of ministers and senior functionaries led rather than followed public opinion In the late 1940s the Labour government faced a birthrate perceived to be in decline massive economic dislocations caused by the war a huge national debt severe labor shortages and the prospective loss of international preeminence Simultaneously it subsidized the emigration of Britons to Australia Canada and other parts of the Empire recruited Irish citizens and European refugees to work in Britain and used regulatory changes to dissuade British subjects of color from coming to the United Kingdom Paul contends post war concepts of citizenship were based on a contradiction between the formal definition of who had the right to enter Britain and the informal notion of who was or could become really British Whitewashing Britain extends this analysis to contemporary issues such as the fierce engagement in the Falklands War and the curtailment of citizenship options for residents of Hong Kong Paul finds the politics of citizenship in contemporary Britain still haunted by a mixture of imperial economic and demographic imperatives LGBTQ+ Healthy

Imperial Intimacies Hazel V. Carby, 2021-10-12 Winner of the British Academy's Nayef Al Rodhan Prize for Global Cultural Understanding 2020 Highly commended for PEN Hessel Tiltman Prize 2020 A haunting and evocative history of British empire told through one woman's family story Where are you from was the question hounding Hazel Carby as a girl in post war London One of the so called brown babies of the Windrush generation born to a Jamaican father and Welsh mother Carby's place in her home her neighbourhood and her country of birth was always in doubt Emerging from this setting Carby untangles the threads connecting members of her family in a web woven by the British Empire across the Atlantic We meet Carby's working class grandmother Beatrice a seamstress challenged by poverty and disease In England she was thrilled by the cosmopolitan fantasies of empire by cities built with slave trade profits and by street peddlers selling fashionable Jamaican delicacies In Jamaica we follow the lives of both the white Carbys and the black Carbys including Mary Ivey a free woman of colour whose children are fathered by Lilly Carby a British soldier who arrived in Jamaica in 1789 to be absorbed into the plantation aristocracy And we discover the hidden stories of Bridget and Nancy two women owned by Lilly who survived the Middle Passage from Africa to the Caribbean Moving between Jamaican plantations the hills of Devon the port cities of Bristol Cardiff and Kingston and the working class estates of South London Carby's family story is at once an intimate personal history and a sweeping summation of the violent entanglement of two islands In charting British empire's interweaving of capital and bodies public language and private feeling Carby will find herself reckoning with what she can tell what she can remember and what she can bear to know Homelandings Rahul K. Gairola, 2016-09-21 Homelandings is
