Polarization and the Politics of Personal Responsibility Mark D. Brewer,Jeffrey M. Stonecash,2015 It is now beyond question that contemporary American politics is highly contentious and divided We argue that deep disagreement over the idea of personal responsibility lies at the heart of this polarization Republicans believe that individuals succeed or fail based on their own talents and efforts while Democrats see a society where many individuals lack opportunity and are adversely affected by forces they cannot control This fundamental difference drives American political conflict

Transformational Politics Stephen Woolpert,Christa Daryl Slaton,Edward W. Schwerin,1998-08-13 Winner of the 1999 Best Book in Ecological and Transformational Politics presented by the American Political Science Association s Section on Ecological and Transformational Politics The discipline of political science has reached a crossroads The frequency with which terms such as post liberal post modern post patriarchal post materialist and post structural are used in contemporary political discourse testifies to the pervasive conviction that an era has ended Similarly phrases such as new world order new paradigm new age and third wave convey the widely shared expectation that what lies ahead politically will be qualitatively unlike what has gone before Transformational Politics argues that traditional political science is failing to identify and address fundamental political phenomena of our time and proposes an alternative value based political science that not only studies phenomena but also uses knowledge to promote democracy sustainability and social conscience Part I of the book defines transformational political theory as an emerging paradigm and draws on a wide array of theories empowerment feminist democratic communitarian chaos quantum conflict resolution self actualization Part II examines how a transformational perspective guides the study of politics in both research and teaching Part III offers guidance about how to practice the theory and apply the study with a concern for creating a better world Censored 2000 Peter Phillips, Project
