Emotion Interdisciplinary Perspectives:

Emotion Robert D. Kavanaugh, Betty Zimmerberg, Steven Fein, 1996 This volume represents a range of approaches both theoretical and applied to the topic of emotion by neuroscientists developmentalists social and personality psychologists and clinical psychologists Readers should appreciate the diversity of questions and methods presented as well as note the common ground that emerges in these discussions Chapter coverage ranges from the neural bases of emotion to the role of emotion in psychotherapy There are vigorous discussions regarding the concept of emotion its role in development and its application to contemporary problems such as violence and war The papers in this volume begin a dialogue about possible intersections in the study of emotion from scholars who embrace sharply different perspectives on this complex topic a fitting tribute in memory of G Stanley Hall

Memory and Emotion Interdisciplinary Perspectives is a collection of original articles that explores cutting edge research in memory and emotion discussing findings methodological techniques and theoretical advances in one of the fastest growing areas in psychology contains contributions by leading researchers the field emphasizes cognitive neuroscience psychopathology and aging in covering contemporary advances in research on memory and emotion covers many of the current hot topics in the field including dissociative amnesia and post traumatic stress disorder false recovered and traumatic memories flashbulb memories the use of emotional memories in therapy and the influence of emotion on autobiographical memory

The Verbal Communication of Emotions Susan R. Fussell, 2002-12-18 The volume brings together an interdisciplinary group of researchers focusing on the verbal communication of emotion The chapters provide a comprehensive look at the current state of research on the use of language in affective communication Sexed Sentiments Willemijn Ruberg, Kristine Steenbergh, 2011 Sexed Sentiments provides a gender perspective on the recent turn to affect in criticism It presents new work by scholars from different disciplines working on gender and emotion a field par excellence where an interdisciplinary focus is fruitful This collection presents essays from disciplines like history literary studies psychology sociology and queer studies focusing on subjects varying from masculinity in the cult of sensibility to the role of empathy in forging feminist solidarities The volume illuminates how new theoretical approaches to both gender and emotion may be productively applied to a variety of fields

Urban Emotions and the Making of the City Katie Barclay, Jade Riddle, 2021-04-06 This book brings together a vibrant interdisciplinary mix of scholars from anthropology architecture art history film studies fine art history literature linguistics and urban studies to explore the role of emotions in the making and remaking of the city By asking how urban boundaries are produced through and with emotion how emotional communities form and define themselves through urban space and how the emotional imaginings of urban spaces impact on histories identities and communities the volume advances our understanding of urban emotions into discussions of materiality power and embodiment across time and space      Depression, Emotion and the Self Matthew Ratcliffe, 2014      The Verbal Communication of Emotions Susan R. Fussell, 2002      Emotions and Care Sophie Bourgault, Elena Pulcini, 2018-08-30 This volume explores the connections between emotions and care understood here as a practice an ethical ideal and a moral disposition Ever since its origins in the early 1980s the ethics of care has been built on the presupposition that there are intimate links between our emotional lives and care Nonetheless relatively little scholarship has been devoted to the close study of these connections or to an exploration of the darker emotions that can often accompany care This edited volume hopes to address this relative neglect in the literature by offering interdisciplinary perspectives on the matter Penned by scholars from different parts of the world the essays in this volume seek to bring greater conceptual articulacy into our discussions of the ways emotions can motivate or thwart care Some contributors also offer critical assessments of care ethics scholarship discussing for instance the feminist stakes in the debate over the significance of emotions for care Other contributions propose novel ways of exploring the ties between emotions and care by bringing new voices and authors into the debate mostly from phenomenological literary and anthropological circles This collection includes contributions from Monika Betzler Caterina Botti Sophie Bourgault Fabienne Brugere Guido Cusinato Luigina Mortari Inge van Nistelrooij Patricia Paperman Elena Pulcini Vincenzo Sorrentino and Rossana Trifiletti      Emotions and Narrative in Ancient Literature and Beyond , 2022-04-25 Emotions are at the core of much ancient literature from Achilles heartfelt anger in Homer's Iliad to the pangs of love of Virgil's Dido This volume applies a narratological approach to emotions in a wide range of texts and genres It seeks to analyze ways in which emotions such as anger fear pity joy love and sadness are portrayed Furthermore using recent insights from affective narratology it studies ways in which ancient narratives evoke emotions in their readers The volume is dedicated to Irene de Jong for her groundbreaking research into the narratology of ancient literature

Contextual and Crosslinguistic Facets of Emotion Concepts Liane Ströbel, 2023-07-12 Emotions permeate every aspect of our lives and not only provide us with invaluable information about our environment and the people in it but also influence our perception of situations and events Interestingly this domain so ubiquitous in our everyday lives largely resists attempts at scientific definition One reason for this could be that emotions rarely occur in isolation but are usually combined or embedded in other states of mind Moreover the experience of emotions may be influenced not only by culture but also by individual language Analysis is further complicated by the fact that emotions are abstract and require complex linguistic coding to make an invisible emotional state of the speaker at least rudimentarily visible to the listener For this reason the present volume aims to investigate the perception encoding reception and influence potential of emotions in context and across languages using different corpora The following questions are central To what extent do emotions influence our perception of events and facts and To what extent can emotion concepts be defined language specifically but also universally on the basis of our perception Therefore the eight contributions analyze emotions in different contexts and from different starting points to uncover the cognitive mechanisms underlying the perception and influence of emotion concepts The first four papers focus primarily on emotional and sensory experiences and interactions that are set in motion when we are confronted with emotions while the following four focus on the different facets of emotion across languages to show which emotion concepts are language specific or universal and thus contribute to a better understanding of this complex field
