The Routledge Handbook of Methodologies in Human Geography is the defining reference for academics and postgraduate students seeking an advanced understanding of the debates methodological developments and methods transforming research in human geography Divided into three sections Part I reviews how the methods of contemporary human geography reflect the changing intellectual history of human geography and events both within human geography and society in general In Part II authors critically appraise key methodological and theoretical challenges and opportunities that are shaping contemporary research in various parts of human geography Contemporary directions within the discipline are elaborated on by established and emerging researchers who are leading ontological debates and the adoption of innovative methods in geographic research In Part III authors explore cross cutting methodological challenges and prompt questions about the values and goals underpinning geographical research work such as Who are we engaging in our research Who is our research for What are our relationships with communities Contributors emphasize examples from their research and the research of others to reflect the fluid emotional and pragmatic realities of research This handbook captures key methodological developments and disciplinary influences emerging from the various sub disciplines of human geography

Affect and Emotion in Tourism Dorina-Maria Buda,Jennie Germann Molz,2023-03-31 Bringing affect and emotion to the forefront of tourism studies this book presents a new generation of scholars who consolidate emerging affective approaches and establish a route for scholarship that examines the roles of emotion and affect in tourism Attuning to affect and emotion this book steers the affective turn to encompass touring bodies and tourism places Engaging the concept of affect as a constitutive element of social life often leaves academics grasping for terminology to describe something that is by its very nature beyond words For this reason as evident in the four interconnected sections of this volume studying affect poses a significant and fruitful challenge to the status quo of social scientific method and analysis From African American emotional labour while travelling to visiting Banksy s Dismaland park to affective heritagescapes self love and travelling mittens and across socio spatial theories of emotions decolonial feminist theory and atmospheric politics this book demonstrates the epistemic and empirical richness of affective tourism Along with the contributors to this volume the editors make a case for thinking about emotions and affects through collective and individual practices as interrelated shaping tourism encounters in and with places That is to break it down as doing and as shared between bodies and places through the doing The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Tourism Geographies

Landscape experiences as a cultural ecosystem service in a Nordic context Lindhjem, Henrik,Reinvang, Rasmus,Zandersen, Marianne,2015-08-19 Cultural ecosystem services in the form of experiences derived from landscapes are potentially important but often overlooked Given the large and unprecedented landscape changes many of the Nordic countries are undergoing there is a need to find ways of including people s preferences and the value of landscape impacts in policy assessments and decision making processes The project aim has been to synthesize knowledge about the magnitude and value of landscape experiences and investigate current practices and examples of how landscape impacts are incorporated or not in policy assessments and decision making contexts in the Nordics The literature demonstrates potentially high unaccounted welfare loss from landscape change We find clear weaknesses in current practices that a second phase will try to address The project was carried out by Vista Analysis in Oslo and Department of Environmental Science at Aarhus University from 2014 15

Landscape and Identity in the Modern Basque Country, 1800 to 1936 Maitane Ostolaza,2022-12-30 Landscape and Identity in the Modern Basque Country 1800 to 1936 studies the relationship between landscape and modern identities in the Basque Country Using an interdisciplinary approach that combines cultural history and geography it analyses the process of historical construction of the Basque landscape highlighting its multiple political social and cultural meanings The book is divided into two parts the first examines the discourses images and representations of the Basque landscape the second examines landscape practices through tourism hiking and mountaineering Focusing on the Basque case but establishing numerous connections with comparable phenomena in Western Europe the book demonstrates that the landscape became a structuring element insofar as it helped shape individual identities while participating in the creation of social links This book examines the processes of identity construction from below by means of new interpretative tools such as the experience of landscape This work originally published in French brings to an English speaking audience a crucial issue in the modern history of the Basque Country namely the cultural construction of a collective identity within the framework of a nation state such as Spain confronted with multiple territorial identities Approaching this question from the perspective of landscape provides new keys to understanding the processes of nation building that occurred in Europe in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Facing

Rumford, 2013-10-31 The extent to which ordinary people can construct shift and dismantle borders is seriously neglected in the existing literature The book explores the ability of citizens to participate in the making of borders and the empowerment that can result from this bordering and debordering activity Borderwork is the name given to the ways in which ordinary people can make and unmake borders Borderwork is no longer only the business of nation states it is also the business of citizens and indeed non citizens This study of borderwork extends the recent interest in forms of bordering which do not necessarily occur at the state's external borders. However, the changing nature of borders cannot be reduced to a shift from the edges to the interior of a polity. To date, little research has been conducted on the role of ordinary people in envisioning, constructing, maintaining, shifting, and erasing borders, creating borders which facilitate mobility for some while creating barriers to mobility for others, appropriating the political resources which bordering offers, contesting the legitimacy of or undermining the borders imposed by others. This book makes an original contribution to the literature and stands to set the agenda for a new dimension of border studies. This book was published as a special issue of Space and Polity. Exploring
