Education David Kember,Robert A. Ellis,Si Fan,Allison Trimble,2023-05-19 Higher education has undergone a massive transformation in teaching and learning in a very short period of time since the onset of Covid 19 Students teachers and universities have had to adopt online and blended learning often with little or no experience or models of good practice to draw upon It is clear that blended and online learning are here to stay This book draws on research from universities that have adopted online and blended learning to facilitate the expansion and diversification of their intake which resulted in considerable experience and expertise in online and blended teaching The book describes a model tested with qualitative and quantitative data which shows how teachers can support the retention and success of online and blended learners with four high quality pedagogical elements bite sized videos of interest and relevance learning materials that are well organised and provide a clear learning roadmap discussion forums which are set up and moderated so as to result in lively student student and student teacher interaction and online teachers being approachable and responsive to communication with individual students through email phone and online communication platforms This model is explained and profusely illustrated with examples from the teaching of award winning teachers This book introduces the concept of a spectrum from traditional to contemporary models of admission and course delivery in higher education It explains how universities which have adopted a contemporary model with high levels of blended and online learning have been able to expand their intake and markedly diversify the student body It discusses how to support the retention and success of online and blended learners Student support services are examined from the perspectives of service providers and online and blended learners and the case is made for support services being aligned with student needs The book has a discussion of university management systems which utilise feedback at all levels to improve alignment between support service provision and student needs Selling

Out Education Stephanie Allais,2014-08-07 Selling Out Education argues that basing education policy on qualifications and learning outcomes dramatized by the phenomenal expansion of qualifications frameworks is misguided Qualifications frameworks are intended to make education more responsive to the needs of economies and societies by improving how qualifications and credentials are used in labour markets But using learning outcomes as the starting point of education programmes neglects the core purpose of education giving people access to bodies of knowledge they would not otherwise have Furthermore instead of creating demand for skilled workers through industrial and economic policy qualifications frameworks are premised on the flawed idea that a supply of skilled workers leads to industrial and economic development

And skilled workers are to be supplied not by encouraging governments to focus attention on creating improving and supporting education institutions but by suggesting that governments take a quality assurance role As a result in poor countries where provision is weak to start with qualifications have been created and institutions established to monitor providers without increasing or improving education provision The weaknesses of many current policy approaches make clear Allais argues that education is inherently a collective good and that the acquisition of bodies of knowledge provide the basis for its integrity and intelligibility
