Health, Media, and Communication Gert-Jan de Bruijn, Heidi Vandebosch, 2025-01-27 Having maintaining and or obtaining good health is one of the most frequently mentioned desires that people have. Although genetic and environmental factors play an important role in these lifestyles and diseases, it is also known that health related information that people are exposed to through a variety of modalities and sources has a huge impact on people's health behaviours and their acceptance of health related policies, as recently demonstrated by the Covid 19 pandemic. The handbook of Health Media and Communication presents a timely and up to date overview of the broad and substantial research efforts that have been invested in recent decades to understand how health communication affects health knowledge, perceptions and discussion as well as health behaviours and ultimately health outcomes. The handbook is structured to reflect and address essential parts of the communication process: sender, content, medium and recipient. In addition to providing a historical and contemporary overview, the handbook also acknowledges the novel challenges that emergent media present for health communication, such as infodemics and misinformation.

The Encyclopaedia of Educational Media Communications and Technology Derick Unwin, Ray McAleese, 1988 This unique encyclopaedia addresses the need for a comprehensive information source that will continue to serve the needs of the educational community with regard to new developments in media communications and technology.
