Encounter With The Middle East:

Encounter With Reality Nimrod Novik, 2019-04-02 The education of any US administration to the complexities of the ever changing Middle East is an on going experience It ends only with the termination of that administration s tenure In order for any earlier analysis of this evolutionary process to take place the observer must take advantage of the most viable boundary in time None seems less artificial than the deadline imposed by presidential elections Moreover the juxtaposition of the need to demonstrate accomplishments and suggest a course for four more years with the potential of personnel reshuffles suggests a possible turning point worthy of note Hence the present study traces and attempts to analyze the Reagan administration s Middle East policy during its first four year term of office American Studies Encounters the Middle East Alex Lubin, Marwan M. Kraidy, 2016-08-24 In the field of American studies attention is shifting to the long history of U S engagement with the Middle East especially in the aftermath of war in Iraq and in the context of recent Arab uprisings in protest against economic inequality social discrimination and political repression Here Alex Lubin and Marwan M Kraidy curate a new collection of essays that focuses on the cultural politics of America s entanglement with the Middle East and North Africa making a crucial intervention in the growing subfield of transnational American studies Featuring a diverse list of contributors from the United States the Arab world and beyond American Studies Encounters the Middle East analyzes Arab American relations by looking at the War on Terror pop culture and the influence of the American hegemony in a time of revolution Contributors include Christina Moreno Almeida Ashley Dawson Brian T Edwards Waleed Hazbun Craig Jones Osamah Khalil Mounira Soliman Helga Tawil Souri Judith E Tucker Adam John Waterman and Rayya El Zein Encounter with the Middle East Winston Burdett, 1969 Encounters with the Middle East Nesreen Khashan, Jim Bowman, 2007 30 rich engaging travel stories that capture uplifting scenes from everyday life and deliver sensitive bittersweet renderings of people and landscapes often shaken by conflict This book features original takes on commonplace things to do for the traveler in the Middle East from marveling at the brilliance of the bazaars to drifting down the Nile in a felucca It also provides intimate portrayals of people and traditions too often absent from books on the region From publisher description Encounter with the Middle East Winston Burdett, 1969 Analysis of the political background of the conflict in international relations between Israel and the Arab countries of the Middle East describes nationalist political leadership in Egypt the founding of the state of Israel government policy in Syrian Arab Republic and the other Arab countries the political repercussions of the six days war internal political problems in Jordan the role of USA s and the role of USSR s foreign policy etc Maps

U.S.-Middle East Historical Encounters Abbas Amanat, Magnus Thorkell Bernhardsson, 2007 At a time when relations between the United States and the Middle East seem to be based on mutual misunderstandings intolerance violence and distrust this cutting edge collection of essays reveals that the history of this relationship is richer and more complex than recent events suggest In the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries relations between the Middle East and the United States were generally quite positive After World War I as U S policy toward the region took on aspects of European style imperialism the relationship began to sour Written by leading scholars from literary historical and political science backgrounds these essays examine a range of encounters They analyze early American missionary efforts in the Middle East views of New York City in Arabic literature and the development of Middle East studies as an academic field in the United States Archaeological expeditions twentieth century diplomatic relations and the current war on terror are also discussed

Hodkinson, Jeffrey Morrison, 2009 German language writings about Islam not only reveal much about Islamic culture but also about the European home culture Islam has been a rich topic in German language literature since the middle ages and the writings about it not only reveal much about Islamic culture but also about the European home culture Many of the early essays in this chronologically arranged volume uncover fresh evidence of how German writers used images of Islam as other to define their individual subject positions as well as to define the German nation and the Christian religion The perspectives of many contemporary writers are however far removed from such a polar opposition of cultures Their experience of the German Islamic encounter is complicated by a crucial factor many of them emerge from Muslim migrant communities such as the German Turkish community The culturally hybrid origins of these writers and their expression of experiences and ideologies that cross boundaries of East and West Christendom and Islam strongly affect the findings of the essays as the volume moves toward the present The texts discussed include travelogues and other firsthand encounters with Islam reports for colonial authorities aesthetic treatises on Islamic art literary essayistic and theological writing on Islamic religious practice the incorporation of characters situations and settings from the Islamic world into fiction or drama and fictional and autobiographical writing by Muslims in German Contributors Cyril Edwards Silke Falkner James Hodkinson Timothy R Jackson Margaret Littler Rachel MagShamr in Frauke Matthes Yomb May Jeffrey Morrison Kate Roy Monika Shafi Edwin Wieringa W Daniel Wilson Karin E Yesilada James Hodkinson is Assistant Professor of German at Warwick University Jeffrey Morrison is Senior Lecturer at the National University of Ireland Maynooth

Cross-Cultural Encounters and Conflicts Charles Issawi, 1998-04-30 Charles Issawi's collection of essays Cross Cultural Encounters and Conflicts has been written in the belief that a study of the past encounters and conflicts between the world's major cultures can shed light on their nature and importance Though the emphasis is on the Middle East of which Issawi is one of our foremost scholars the subjects covered here range in scope from the great ancient civilizations to Shelley's passion for the Middle East from the failures of the Greeks as empire builders to the preeminence of English as an international language today Other essays examine either the way in which certain cultures were formed or the effects of the direct control of one culture over another or cross cultural perceptions most notably the dramatic change in the Western perception of the Orient between the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries In this age of multiculturalism conflicts between the world's cultures have become a dominant feature of the international landscape This excellent collection is a much needed exploration of their historical nature

Mediterranean Encounters Fariba Zarinebaf, 2018-07-24 Mediterranean Encounters traces the layered history of Galata a Mediterranean and Black Sea port to the Ottoman conquest and its transformation into a hub of European trade and diplomacy as well as a pluralist society of the early modern period Framing the history of Ottoman European encounters within the institution of ahnames commercial and diplomatic treaties this thoughtful book offers a critical perspective on the existing scholarship For too long the Ottoman empire has been defined as an absolutist military power driven by religious conviction culturally and politically apart from the rest of Europe and devoid of a commercial policy By taking a close look at Galata Fariba Zarinebaf provides a different approach based on a history of commerce coexistence competition and collaboration through the lens of Ottoman legal records diplomatic correspondence and petitions She shows that this port was just as cosmopolitan and pluralist as any large European port and argues that the Ottoman world was not peripheral to European modernity but very much part of it

Non-Western Encounters with Democratization Christopher K. Lamont, Jan van der Harst, 2016-03-09 Non Western Encounters with Democratization offers diverse perspectives on democracy and transition spanning the Middle East and North Africa to East Asia This unique collection of essays drawn from contextually rich case studies presents readers with a variety of non western encounters with democracy and provides important insights into the dramatic political and social transformations in these regions over the past decades The book offers a deeper understanding of democratization and challenges the image of western democracy as a universal model to which non western societies aspire Taking the events of the Arab Spring as the starting point international contributors look at why the uprisings that rapidly spread across North Africa and the Middle East had a strong resonance in East Asia but failed to inspire similar revolts Through direct engagement with non western experiences of political transition the book demonstrates a unique coherence across two regions relatively under explored in democratization literature
