Dance and British Literature: An Intermedial Encounter Maria Marcsek-Fuchs,2015-02-11 Dance and literature seem to have much in common Both are part of a culture represent a culture and subvert a culture Yet at the same time they appear to be medial antagonists one is kinetic and multimedial the other often verbal and seemingly mono medial What happens however when both meet when movement is integrated into the literary world or even replaces verbal communication Dance is artistic and popular traditional and innovative bodily and ephemeral It holds cultural and kinetic information in a nutshell and thus brings movement and cultural history into a text Shakespeare s plays Restoration comedy 19th century caricature popular and

elitist theatre all make use of dance as special means of signification Thus this study explores dance in British literature from Shakespeare to Yeats and illustrates the many ways in which these two forms of artistic expression can enter into various kinds of intermedial encounters and cultural alliances

Contemporary Archival Fiction Elin Ivansson, 2025-09-30 This book presents a synthesised framework for analysing archival poetics in multimodal literature examining case studies from twenty first century American fiction towards elucidating the archival turn in contemporary literature more broadly Ivansson turns her focus on multimodal archival fiction here understood as works which engage with archival practices of collecting and organising both verbal text and visual inclusions of fictional and factual archival material such as photographs sketches notes and newspaper clippings The volume brings together work from multimodality cognitive stylistics and narratology with archival studies to demonstrate how contemporary archival fiction engages with archival themes through multimodal design Case studies include works from Barbara Hodgson Leanne Shapton Valeria Luiselli and Jacob Garbe and Aaron A Reed The selected examples allow for a detailed exploration of how to analyse the multimodal composition and reader experience of archival poetics Furthermore these case studies also elucidate how such a framework can be applied more broadly to the analysis of fictional works thematically and structurally concerned with the archive or those that grapple with such areas of interest in contemporary research as materiality bookishness and ontological ambiguity This volume will appeal to students and scholars in multimodality stylistics American literature and literary studies

Sexuality and the Reading Encounter Emma Wilson, 1996 Can fictions of desire determine real pleasures Do texts regulate the performance of our sexual identities In Sexuality and the Reading Encounter Emma Wilson offers a new account of the intimate relations between reading identity and identification Interweaving theoretical debate with analysis of texts by Proust Duras Tournier and Cixous her study reveals the formative potential and transferential pleasures of the reading encounter Drawing on an understanding of identity as performative alienated and fictitious this study argues that the fictions we read act as mirrors and decoys displaying seductive images of intelligible sexual identities The texts chosen for discussion here draw attention to the strategies by which identity is constructed textually They work thus to frame the reading encounter and to highlight its formative power In analysis of these texts this study works to cut across the axes of homosexuality and heterosexuality offering an alternative focus on the interdependence of identity and fantasy
