The Cambridge History of American Foreign Relations: Volume 2, The American Search for Opportunity, 1865-1913 Bradford Perkins, Walter LaFeber, Warren I. Cohen, Akira Iriye, 1993 Between the American Civil War and the outbreak of world War I global history was transformed by two events the United States's rise to the status of a great world power indeed the world's greatest economic power and the eruption of nineteenth and twentieth century revolutions in Mexico China Russia Cuba the Philippines Hawaii Panama Nicaragua and elsewhere The American Search for Opportunity traces the U S foreign policy between 1865 and 1913 linking these two historic trends by noting how the United States usually thought of as antirevolutionary and embarked on a search for order during this era actually was a determinative force in helping to trigger these revolutions Walter LaFeber argues that industrialization fuelled centralisation Post Civil War America remained a vast unwieldy country of isolated parochial communities but the federal government and a new corporate capitalism now had the power to invade these areas and integrate them into an industrialization railway linked nation state The furious pace of economic growth in America attracted refugees from all parts of the world Professor LaFeber describes and influx of immigration so enormous that it led to America's first exclusionary immigration act In 1882 the United States passed legislation preventing all Chinese immigrant labour skilled and unskilled from entering the country for the next 10 years

History of Alaska , Volume II Jonathan M.

Nielson, Ph.D.,2018-03-01 The most significant military development to touch Alaska during the interwar years was the advent of air power an innovation that completely altered Alaska s strategic position Suddenly the world became smaller as areas once thought safely distant from potential enemies became vulnerable Nowhere was this more evident than in the Pacific whose countless islands became potential advanced air bases As air technology improved the ability of long range bombers and by the 1930s of carrier aircraft to penetrate American airspace was a development of far reaching significance While such warnings were largely limited to a handful of air power advocates their vocal advocacy constituted nothing less than an insurrection a revolution in military thinking fought against entrenched military conservatism cultural aversion to change fears of budget cuts and War Department lethargy Indeed it was the air power crusader General Billy Mitchell who aggressively fought to convince the War and Navy Departments to embrace the new doctrine of offensive air power Mitchell came to understand Alaska s strategic importance early on Consequently he saw the Aleutians as a vulnerability if left unguarded Japan could creep up and by establishing air dominance take Alaska and Canada s West Coast But he also saw Alaska as a strategic base from which American planes could reduce Tokyo to powder Prophetically in 1923 Mitchell forecast precisely the military threat and strategic arguments that would shape military thinking almost twenty years later I am thinking of Alaska In an air war if we were unprepared Japan could take it away from us first by dominating the sky and creeping up the Aleutians By the mid to late 1930s military and civilian advocates of air power and more visionary strategists were beginning to make their voices heard in Congress and elsewhere decrying Alaska s military vulnerability Between 1933 and 1944 no one was more adamant than Alaska s Delegate in Congress Anthony Joseph Tony Dimond who challenged the nation to defend itself by defending Alaska To Dimond it seemed poor strategy to fortify one pacific base Hawaii while ignoring another Alaska Dimond s campaign was strengthened by passage of the Wilcox Bill sponsored by Representative J Mark Wilcox D Florida officially known as the National Air Defense Act This truly significant legislation authorized the location and construction of military airfields throughout the United States as a general defense preparedness measure Alaska was recognized as one of the nation s six strategic regions and two bases one at Anchorage the other at Fairbanks were recommended in part because Alaska was closer to Japan than it is to the center of the continental United States Fortuitously for Alaska defense advocates General Douglas MacArthur stepped down as Chief of Staff of the Army and was replaced by Major General Malin Craig in October 1935 Craig and Brigadier General Stanley D Embick advocated a substantial reconfiguration of Plan Orange arguing that the Philippines presented an invitation to attack and should be neutralized in favor defending the Alaska Hawaii Panama Triangle Both the Army and Navy were charged with defending Alaska as far west as Dutch Harbor and the army pledged to mobilize 6 600 troops in Alaska within a month of attack by Japan In contemplating the defense of Alaska the Army General Staff formulated five priority objectives first increase the Alaska garrison second establish a major base for Army operations near Anchorage third develop a network of air bases within Alaska fourth garrison these bases with combat troops and fifth protect the naval installations at Sitka Kodiak and Dutch Harbor Alaska was about to go to war Science and Technology Policy - Volume II Rigas Arvanitis,2009-07-20 Science and Technology Policy theme is a component of Encyclopedia of Technology Information and Systems Management Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Science and technology policy covers all the public sector measures designed for the creation funding support and mobilization of scientific and technological resources The content of the Theme on Science and technology policy provides the essential aspects and a myriad of issues of great relevance to our world such as Science and Technology Policy International Dimensions of Science and Technology Policy The Innovation System The Policy Making Process in Science and Technology Regional Perspectives A New Scenario for Science and Technology Policies in the Developed and Developing World These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College students Educators Professional practitioners Research personnel and Policy analysts managers and decision makers and NGOs

Russell,2014-04-28 How did openness become a foundational value for the networks of the twenty first century Open Standards and the Digital Age answers this question through an interdisciplinary history of information networks that pays close attention to the politics of standardization For much of the twentieth century information networks such as the monopoly Bell System and the American military s Arpanet were closed systems subject to centralized control In the 1970s and 1980s however engineers in the United States and Europe experimented with design strategies to create new digital networks In the process they embraced discourses of openness to describe their ideological commitments to entrepreneurship technological innovation and participatory democracy The rhetoric of openness has flourished for example in movements for open government open source software and open access publishing but such rhetoric also obscures the ways the Internet and other open systems still depend heavily on hierarchical forms of control Colonial and Postcolonial Oil Politics in the Persian Gulf Battal Doğan, 2024-07-17 This book examines the British colonial and American post colonial oil policies toward the Persian Gulf from a postcolonial critical perspective taking into account the coloniality and postcoloniality of power structures It examines colonization decolonization and postcolonization of oil in the Persian Gulf through the parameters of political order formulated policies market structure concession system imperial national interests and great powers rivalry In this work the author uses qualitative theory testing and comparative case study method There are several reasons that are encouraging for the selection of these two cases first British colonial and American post colonial oil policies toward the Gulf region show similar patterns of domination and exploitation second both colonial and post colonial great powers consider the control of the Gulf oil among their national security priorities third both use military interventions install military bases and involve in coup d etat in the region to maintain their established oil order and fourth both justifies their colonial imperial oil order in the region with humanitarian objectives such as civilizing mission or democratization In this research the state level of analysis is used to explore the oil policies of Anglo American governments The governance history of oil in the Persian Gulf can be broadly divided into three phases 1 the colonial period 1901 1950 2 the decolonization period 1950 1972 and 3 the post colonial period since the mid 1970s to the present Chronologically the oil policies of Anglo American governments are examined in loose temporal and spatial contexts and each period is introduced in independent chapters but they are complementary to each other

America and the Cold War, 1941-1991 Norman A. Graebner, Richard Dean Burns, Joseph M. Siracusa, 2010-05-05 Three distinguished diplomatic historians offer an assessment of the Cold War in the realist tradition that focuses on balancing the objectives of foreign policy with the means of accomplishing them America and the Cold War 1941 1991 A Realist Interpretation is a sweeping historical account that focuses on the policy differences at the center of this conflict In its pages three preeminent authors offer an examination of contemporary criticism of the Cold War documenting the views of observers who appreciated that many policies of the period were not only dangerous but could not resolve the problems they contemplated The study offers a comprehensive chronicle of U S Soviet relations broadly conceived from World War II to the collapse of the Soviet Union It places the origins of the Cold War as related to the contentious issues of World War II and stresses the failure of Washington to understand or seriously seek settlement of those issues It points out how nuclear weaponry gradually assumed political stature and came to dominate high level Soviet American diplomatic activity at the same time discounting the notion that the Cold War was a global ideological confrontation for the future of civilization A concluding chapter draws lessons from the Cold War decades showing how they apply to dealing with nation states and terrorist groups today

American Exceptionalism Hilde Eliassen Restad, 2014-12-17 How does American exceptionalism shape American foreign policy Conventional wisdom states that American exceptionalism comes in two variations the exemplary version and the missionary version Being exceptional experts in U S foreign policy argue means that you either withdraw from the world like an isolated but inspiring city upon a hill or that you are called upon to actively lead the rest of the world to a better future In her book Hilde Eliassen Restad challenges this assumption arguing that U S history has displayed a remarkably constant foreign policy tradition which she labels unilateral internationalism The United States Restad argues has not vacillated between an exemplary and a missionary identity Instead the United States developed an exceptionalist identity that while idealizing the United States as an exemplary city upon a hill more often than not errs on the side of the missionary crusade in its foreign policy Utilizing the latest historiography in the study of U S foreign relations the book updates political science scholarship and sheds new light on the role American exceptionalism has played and continues to play in shaping America s role in the world This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of US foreign policy security studies and American politics Reader's Guide
