Esdaile,P. Freeman,2014-12-15 For a full month in the autumn of 1812 the 2 000 strong garrison of the fortress the French had constructed to overawe the city of Burgos defied the Duke of Wellington In this work a leading historian of the Peninsular teams up with a leading conflict archaeologist to examine the reasons for Wellington's failure Gazetteer of Colombia ,1988 Gazetteer of Mexico ,1992 Gallinazo Jean-Francois Millaire,Magali Morlion,2009-12-31 Over the last decades considerable effort has been directed towards the study of early complex societies of northern Peru and in recent years archaeologists have expressed a strong interest in the art and archaeology of the Moche Lambayeque and Chimú societies Yet comparatively little attention has been paid to the earlier cultural foundations of north coast civilization the Gallinazo In the recent years however the work of a number of north coast specialists brought about a large quantity of data on the Gallinazo occupation of the coast but a coherent framework for studying this culture had yet to be defined The present volume is the result of a round table which gathered some thirty scholars from Europe and North and South America to discuss the Gallinazo phenomenon In fourteen chapters authors with different perspectives and backgrounds reconsider the nature of the Gallinazo culture and its position within north coast cultural history while addressing wider issues about the development of complex societies in this area and within the Andean region in general The contributions reveal a diversity of perspectives on north coast archaeology something that is likely to stimulate methodological and theoretical debates among Andeanists pre Columbian specialists and New World archaeologists in general Conceptual Issues in Modern Human Origins Research Geoffrey A. Clark, Catherine M. Willermet, While those who study human origins now agree that the evolution of modern human form extends back much further in time than the evolution of modern human behavior they disagree sharply as to how to interpret the substantive data Two fundamentally incommensurate interpretations of our origins the Replacement camp and the Continuity camp have now emerged out of pre existing models and theories that go back to the last quarter of the 19th century This book contends that these positions are based on radically different biases and assumptions about what the remote human past was like The purpose of this volume is to examine those conceptual differences not to arrive at a consensus but rather to explore the reasons why a consensus might never be possible
