Karasov, Carlos Martínez del Río, 2020-05-05 Unlocking the puzzle of how animals behave and how they interact with their environments is impossible without understanding the physiological processes that determine their use of food resources But long overdue is a user friendly introduction to the subject that systematically bridges the gap between physiology and ecology Ecologists for whom such knowledge can help clarify the consequences of global climate change the biodiversity crisis and pollution often find themselves wading through an unwieldy technically top heavy literature Here William Karasov and Carlos Martínez del Río present the first accessible and authoritative one volume overview of the physiological and biochemical principles that shape how animals procure energy and nutrients and free themselves of toxins and how this relates to broader ecological phenomena After introducing primary concepts the authors review the chemical ecology of food and then discuss how animals digest and process food Their broad view includes symbioses and extends even to ecosystem phenomena such as ecological stoichiometry and toxicant biomagnification They introduce key methods and illustrate principles with wide ranging vertebrate and invertebrate examples Uniquely they also link the physiological mechanisms of resource use with ecological phenomena such as how and why animals choose what they eat and how they participate in the exchange of energy and materials in their biological communities Thoroughly up to date and pointing the way to future research Physiological Ecology is an essential new source for upper level undergraduate and graduate students and an ideal synthesis for professionals The most accessible introduction to the physiological and biochemical principles that shape how animals use resources Unique in linking the physiological mechanisms of resource use with ecological phenomena An essential resource for upper level undergraduate and graduate students An ideal overview for researchers      The Ecology of Animals Charles Elton, 1950      The Ecology of Animals Charles S.
