Licciardi,Rana Amirtahmasebi,2012-10-01 In a world where half of the population lives in cities and more than 90 percent of urban growth is occurring in the developing world cities struggle to modernize without completely losing their unique character which is embodied by their historic cores and cultural heritage assets As countries develop cultural heritage can provide a crucial element of continuity and stability the past can become a foundation for the future This book collects innovative research papers authored by leading scholars and practitioners in heritage economics and presents the most current knowledge on how heritage assets can serve as drivers of local economic development What this book tries to suggest is a workable approach to explicitly take into account the cultural dimensions of urban regeneration in agglomerations that have a history and possess a unique character going beyond an approach based solely on major cultural heritage assets or landmarks The knowledge disseminated through this book will help stakeholders involved in preparation implementation and supervision of development investments to better assess the values of cultural heritage assets and incorporate them in urban development policies      Handbook of Cultural Economics, Third Edition Ruth Towse,Trilce

how it benefits heritage buildings and how it reveals best practices in heritage conservation in Asia The subsequent three essays one for each city supplemented with timelines set out a clear framework for understanding the city specific case studies that follow the essays Afterwards fifteen representative projects across the three cities are presented as in depth case studies The pairing of essays and case studies provides a detailed understanding of each city s approach to adaptive reuse in the twenty first century a time when the need for sustainable development solutions are at the forefront Intended for classroom use and professional readership this book will be of considerable value in Asia as well as elsewhere providing material for stimulating and worthwhile discussion Asian Revitalization is a highly practical and accessible volume on the long established conservation practice of adaptive reuse in East Asia Its focus on real life issues examples and challenges posed by revitalization programs in the region is extremely relevant to researchers and practitioners in architectural conservation urban design and urban studies Miles Glendinning University of Edinburgh Scotland This is a superb well documented and original book written by some of the best known and highly respected authors in the field of heritage conservation The carefully examined case studies illustrate a wide variety of solutions that highlight the work of some of the best minds of the next generations Alastair Kerr University of Victoria Canada This is a most interesting set of essays informative and thought provoking The best way to save any heritage building is by keeping it in beneficial use and how to achieve this in a sensitive manner is what these essays are about They should be vital reading for anyone considering an adaptive reuse project in Asia Michael Morrison Purcell UK With cultural heritage firmly ensconced in the global development agendas of the United Nations this well grounded volume draws upon the experience of Hong Kong SAR Shanghai and Singapore to demonstrate to scholars and practitioners alike how historic properties can be sustained through savvy adaptive reuse in the midst of tremendous urban redevelopment pressures Montira Horayangura Unakul UNESCO Bangkok Thailand

Evaluation in Planning Nathaniel Lichfield, Angela Barbanente, Dino Borri, Abdul Khakee, Anna Prat, 2013-03-09 This book is the result of a three day workshop on Evaluation in theory and practice in spatial planning held in Ramsey Hall University College London in September 1996 Some 30 people from 8 different countries attended and 20 papers were presented The majority of them now form the basis for this book This occasion was the third on the topic the two preceding having taken place in Umea in June 1992 and in Bari in 1994 Following these three meetings we can now say that this small industrious international family really enjoy meeting up from time to time at each others places in the presence of older members and new children each one presenting his her own recent experiences It particularly enjoys exchanging views and arguing about the current state and the future of evaluation in spatial planning all families have their vices It is also pleasing to see these experiences and discussions resulting in a book for those who could not attend and for the broader clan in the field Not long time ago but ages in the accelerated academic time scale evaluation in planning established its own role and distinct features as an instrument for helping the decision making process Now this role and these features are exposed to major challenges First the evolution of planning theory has lead to the conception of new planning paradigms based on theories of complexity and communicative rationality Economics and Contemporary Land Use Policy ,2006 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1981 Urban Conservation and Federally Assisted Economic Development in Cities Phyllis Myers,Conservation Foundation,National Trust for Historic Preservation,1980 Reconnecting the City Francesco Bandarin,Ron van Oers,2014-10-23 Historic Urban Landscape is a new approach to urban heritage management promoted by UNESCO and currently one of the most debated issues in the international preservation community However few conservation practitioners have a clear understanding of what it entails and more importantly what it can achieve Examples drawn from urban heritage sites worldwide from Timbuktu to Liverpool Richly illustrated with colour photographs Addresses key issues and best practice for urban conservation Frontiers in Resource and Rural Economics Wu JunJie,Paul Barkley,Bruce Weber,2010-09-30 Most land in the United States is in rural areas as are the sources of most of its fresh water and almost all its other natural resources One of the first books to approach resource economics and rural studies as fundamentally interconnected areas of study Frontiers in Resource and Rural Economics integrates the work of 18 leading scholars in resource economics rural economics rural sociology and political science in order to focus on two complex interdependencies one pertaining to natural resources and human welfare the other to urban and rural communities and their economies The book reviews the past 50 years of scholarship in both natural resource and rural economics It contrasts their different intellectual and practical approaches and considers how they might be refocused in light of pressing demands on human and natural systems It then proposes a new rural economics that acknowledges the full range of human ecosystem and urban rural interdependencies It explores the relationship between natural resources and economic growth and considers the prospects for amenity driven growth that would benefit both new and traditional inhabitants of rural areas Later chapters explore the politics of place spatial economics strategies for reducing rural poverty and prospects for linking rural and environmental governance Throughout the book emphasizes innovative research methods that integrate natural resource environmental and rural economics
