Philip Davis,2012-01-01 The ongoing global financial crisis was not simply the fault of the financial sector Bankers households and governments had all entered a spiral of greed selfishness and impatience in pursuit of their respective aims of higher remuneration greater consumption and enhanced popularity The outcome besides costly bank bailouts has been rising private and public debt and stagnant economies Economics the ruling paradigm in today s society can explain their motivation of self interest but not the underlying irrationality of their behavior Taking a view from Scripture Philip Davis critiques the overall aims of individuals as assumed by economics wealth consumption and power in contrast to Jesus proclamation of the kingdom of God the love for God and neighbor and responsible stewardship of resources In doing so he aims to equip Christians to better understand the crisis from a kingdom perspective to provide the church with a distinctive voice in these troubled times and to press for radical Christian solutions to address the underlying difficulties This little book aims to redress the gap in Christians understanding that led the theologian Jurgen Moltmann to remark trenchantly The neglect of economics is a wound in the side of the church

Christian Release , God the Economist M. Douglas Meeks, God does not appear in the modern market For most economists this is as it should be It is in no way necessary according to modern economic theory to consider God when thinking about economy Indeed the absence of God in economic matters is viewed as necessary to the great advances in modern economy The difficulty with modern market economies however is that human livelihood is also left out of the theory and practice of the market economy I propose to bring the church's teaching about God the doctrine of the Trinity to bear on the masked connections between God and economy I will treat the Trinity as the way of understanding what the Bible calls the economy of God and the Great Recession Ascension Meorado,Manuel Roman,2013-10-23 From the mid 1980s investors in the US increasingly directed capital towards the financial sector at the expense of non financial sectors lured by the perception of higher profits This flow of capital inflated asset prices creating the stock market and housing bubbles which burst when the imbalance between stagnant incomes and rising debts triggered the banking meltdown Profitability and the Great Recession analyses these trends in profitability and capital accumulation which the authors identify as the root cause of the financial crisis in the context of the US and other major OECD countries Drawing on insights from Adam Smith David Ricardo John Stuart Mill and Karl Marx the authors interpret the relationship between capital accumulation and profitability trends through the conceptual lens of classical political economy The book provides extensive empirical evidence of declining rates of US non financial corporate accumulations from the mid 1960s and profitability trends in that sector falling from post war highs In contrast to this it is shown that there was a vigorous rise of profitability in the financial sector from a 1982 trough to the early part of the twenty first century which led to the bloating of that sector The authors conclude that the long term falling accumulation trend in the non financial corporate sector highlighted by the bankruptcy of major automobile corporations stands out as the underlying force that transformed the financial crisis into a fully fledged Great Recession This book will be of interest to students and researchers in the areas of economics political economy business and finance
