Calub, Julian Gonsalves, Nina Lauridsen, 2020-03-03 This book critically assesses the role of agrobiodiversity in school gardens and its contribution to diversifying diets promoting healthy eating habits and improving nutrition among schoolchildren as well as other benefits relating to climate change adaptation ecoliteracy and greening school spaces Many schoolchildren suffer from various forms of malnutrition and it is important to address their nutritional status given the effects it has on their health cognition and subsequently their educational achievement Schools are recognized as excellent platforms for promoting lifelong healthy eating and improving long term sustainable nutrition security required for optimum educational outcomes This book reveals the multiple benefits of school gardens for improving nutrition and education for children and their families It examines issues such as school feeding community food production school gardening nutritional education and the promotion of agrobiodiversity and draws on international case studies from both developed and developing nations to provide a comprehensive global assessment This book will be essential reading for those interested in promoting agrobiodiversity sustainable nutrition and healthy eating habits in schools and public institutions more generally It identifies recurring and emerging issues establishes best practices identifies key criteria for success and advises on strategies for scaling up and scaling out elements to improve the uptake of school gardens Nutrition in Institutions Maria Cross, Barbara MacDonald, 2009-01-26 The importance of good nutrition for individual health and well being is widely recognized yet for a significant number of people who rely on institutions for food and nutrition this importance has not always been a primary consideration People therefore may find themselves consuming food they would not ordinarily choose to eat with in some cases restricted choices precluding individual preferences and compromising health In recent years there have been major advances in the quality of catering in some areas particularly schools Other institutions which have not been thrust into the media spotlight have fared less well in terms of policy drive and commitment This insightful new book looks in detail at five institutions schools hospitals care homes for the elderly prisons and the armed forces As well as providing a fascinating history of the provision of food in each institution each section considers current policy and standards and their implementation adequacy of food provided with regard to the health status and dietary requirements of the people in the care of each institution efficiency of catering organization and issues relating to contract tendering expenditure and procurement A broad spectrum of further relevant issues is also covered including the meaning of food to those in institutions and determinants of choice Healthy Eating in Primary Schools Sally Robinson, 2006 Developed with the support of the Kent Healthy Schools Programme to encourage primary schools to promote healthy eating this resource takes a whole school holistic approach towards children s eating and relates to the PSHE Curriculum and the Healthy Schools Programme There is a good blend of easily accessible information on healthy eating supported by individual case studies The three sections cover a summary of the range of children s eating issues strategies for promoting healthy eating and preventing recognising and dealing with eating problems examples of lesson plans related to the physical emotional and social aspects of children s eating Dr Sally Robinson is principal lecturer in the Department of Health and Social Welfare Studies at Canterbury Christ Church University Implementing school food and nutrition policies , 2021-09-14 Schools play an important role in promoting healthy diets and good nutrition and can create an enabling environment for children However the school food environment is often not conducive to a healthy diet To address this challenge and to support Member States in implementing policy measures as recommended by the Framework for Action from the 2014 Second International Conference on Nutrition the World Health Organization WHO is in the process of developing evidence informed policy guidelines on the food environment including school food and nutrition interventions and policies with a focus on five interventions and policies that influence the school food environment These five include nutrition standards or rules direct food provision marketing restrictions nudging interventions and pricing policies This review on contextual factors to be considered in the implementation of school food and nutrition policies was prepared as part of the required process for

WHO guideline development Child, Youth and Family Health Margaret Barnes, Jennifer Rowe, 2008 This book aims to situate child and family health and nursing within the environmental social economic and political contexts acknowledge diversity and difference as they influence child and family health and health care critically analyse contemporary approaches to child and family health promotion provide a practice development framework for improving effectiveness in child youth and family nursing provide evaluative tools for assessing health promoting programs This book takes a critical inquiry approach to encourage and facilitate analysis and critique of policy practice and evidence It is client focused change focused and works from practice outward to consider education service planning leadership and strategy as they affect practice

Provided by publisher Taste and Healthy Eating in the Context of Well-being, Sustainability and 21st Century Food Science Hisayuki Uneyama, Ken Iwatsuki, Nobuyuki Sakai, Keiko Yasumatsu, 2025-04-24 In the Anthropocene the global food system affects the geosystem and its biosphere and thus it is important for us to reconsider our eating styles and develop new and sustainable food systems This is particularly crucial since we are facing the risk of morbidity and mortality result from unhealthy diets In 2019 the EAT Lancet commission offered a new food standard that gratifies both health and environmental sustainability calling it the planetary health diet It is necessary for us to understand the sensory characteristics of the planetary health diet and how we humans select consume and develop foods and beverages to satisfy the standards of this new dietary approach These understandings add more fuel to promote the achievements of Sustainable Development Goals and of the planetary health diet This Research Topic aims to reveal the neural and biological mechanisms underlying the perception and selection of the planetary health diet Currently we have only little knowledge about taste and flavor perception so we do not know what sensory characteristics of foods are liked Also we do not know the mechanisms involved in selecting certain foods For example we know that excessive salt intake induces hypertension and or obesity but often we do not select low salt foods even when suffering from the high blood pressure We also know that animal models e.g mice rats consume more of diets that impart a good taste for them As humans however we do not always eat so much of foods that may taste good for us and may consume foods or beverages that are not so enjoyable for us Thus a multidisciplinary approach is needed to challenge these topics Nudges to promote healthy eating in schools, 2022-05-25

Nutrition Standards for Foods in Schools Institute of Medicine, Committee on Nutrition Standards for Foods in Schools, 2007-09-14 Food choices and eating habits are learned from many sources The school environment plays a significant role in teaching and modeling health behaviors For some children foods consumed at school can provide a major portion of their daily nutrient intake Foods and beverages consumed at school can come from two major sources 1 Federally funded programs that include the National School Lunch Program NSLP the School Breakfast Program SBP and after school snacks and 2 competitive sources that include vending machines a la carte sales in the school cafeteria or school stores and snack bars Foods and beverages sold at school outside of the federally reimbursable school nutrition programs are referred to as competitive foods because they compete with the traditional school lunch as a nutrition source There are important concerns about the contribution of nutrients and total calories from competitive foods to the daily diets of school age children and adolescents Nutrition Standards for Foods in Schools offers both reviews and recommendations about appropriate nutrition standards and guidance for the sale content and consumption of foods and beverages at school with attention given to foods and beverages offered in competition with federally reimbursable meals and snacks It is sure to be an invaluable resource to parents federal and state government agencies educators and schools health care professionals food manufacturers industry trade groups media and those involved in consumer advocacy

Smarter Food Procurement in the Public Sector Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-03-30 The public sector in England spends around 2 billion per year on food and catering services This NAO report contains three case studies which examine how public sector organisations can improve their food procurement practices in order to reduce costs whilst maintaining the quality of meals provided The case studies cover three of the four largest expenditure areas relating to the provision of food in schools hospitals and armed forces bases and each case study examines the role played by organisations at different levels in the delivery chain from department level down to frontline delivery Two accompanying documents are available separately the main report HCP 963 I ISBN 0102937427 and a good practice guide HCP 963 III ISBN 0102937443
