Smith, 2000 A fully rounded anthology of women's writing from World War One containing the known and unknown biographers and fiction writers of the period Explores the impact of the war on ideology gender genre and society and is a perfect complimentary text to Trudi Tate's Women Men and the Great War Aims to re read the First World War as a female experience by drawing on the public and private sources of a wide range of different women Uses diaries letters articles and essays many of which have not been published Invaluable source document for scholars in many disciplines Fashioning Submission Silvia Vacirca, 2023-05-30 The behind the scene history of the fashion magazine Bellezza the Italian Vogue founded in 1941 has never been submitted to scholarly attention Its utopian function in defining a new culture of fashion and code of glamour contributed to the totalitarian project of building a new Italian woman The current volume fills this gap using the case English Modernism, National Identity and the Germans, 1890-1950 Petra Rau, 2016-05-13 This is the first systematic study to trace the way representations of Germanness in modernist British literature from 1890 to 1950 contributed to the development of English identity Petra Rau examines the shift in attitudes towards Germany and Germans from suspicious competitiveness in the late Victorian period to the aggressive hostility of the

First World War and the curious inconsistencies of the 1930s and 1940s These shifts were no simple response to political change but the result of an anxious negotiation of modernity in which specific aspects of Englishness were projected onto representations of Germans and Germany in English literature and culture While this incisive argument clarifies and deepens our understanding of cultural and national politics in the first half of the twentieth century it also complicates current debates surrounding race and otherness in cultural studies Authors discussed include major figures such as Conrad Woolf Lawrence Ford Forster and Bowen as well as popular or less familiar writers such as Saki Graham Greene and Stevie Smith Accessibly written and convincingly argued Rau s study will not only be an important book for scholars but will serve as a valuable guide to undergraduates working in modernism literary history and European cultural relations British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime Beryl Pong,2020-05-14 British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime excavates British late modernism s relationship to war in terms of chronophobia a joint fear of the past and future As a wartime between but distinct from those of the First World War and the Cold War Second World wartime involves an anxiety that is both repetition and imaginary both a dread of past violence unleashed anew and that of a future violence still ungraspable Identifying a constellation of temporalities and affects under three tropes time capsules time zones and ruins this volume contends that Second World wartime is a pivotal moment when wartime surpassed the boundaries of a specific state of emergency becoming first routine and then open ended It offers a synoptic wide ranging look at writers on the home front including Henry Green Elizabeth Bowen Virginia Woolf and Rose Macaulay through a variety of genres such as life writing the novel and the short story It also considers an array of cultural and archival material from photographers such as Cecil Beaton filmmakers such as Charles Crichton and artists such as John Minton It shows how figures harnessed or exploited their media s temporal properties to formally register the distinctiveness of this wartime through a complex feedback between anticipation and retrospection oftentimes fashioning the war as a memory even while it was taking place While offering a strong foundation for new readers of the mid century the book s overall theoretical focus on chronophobia will be an important intervention for those already working in the field Rediscovering Women Writers of Wartime

London Evelina Garay Colcutt,2024-02-29 This book shows the war stricken city through the eyes of five women writers whose novels vividly portray life in the Blitz This new appraisal of their work brings to light the way in which they documented the Blitz in their fiction highlighting the social changes which were taking place especially in the lives of women and leading to a fuller understanding of those turbulent times The book re evaluates the contribution of these writers to wartime literature showing how their long neglected novels focus on the experiences of individual women protagonists perceived in close relation to the menacing forces of war This title will interest all those seeking to gain further knowledge of 20th century women s writing wartime literature and social history as recorded in fiction A Soldier and a Woman Gerard J.De Groot,C Peniston-Bird,2014-07-30 The question of women s role in the military is extremely topical A Woman and a Soldier covers the experiences of women in the military from the late mediaeval period to the present day. Written in two volumes, this comprehensive guide covers a wide range of wars: The Thirty Years War, the French and Indian Wars in Northern America, the Anglo Boer War, the First and Second World Wars, the Long March in China, and the Vietnam War. There are also thematic chapters including studies of terrorism and contemporary military service. Taking a multidisciplinary approach, historical, anthropological, and cultural, the book shows the variety of arguments used to support or deny women's military service and the combat taboo. In the process, the book challenges preconceived notions about women's integration in the military and builds a picture of the ideological and practical issues surrounding women soldiers.

Urban Gothic of the Second World War S. Wasson, 2015-12-04 This book examines writing in the Gothic mode which subverts the dominant national narrative of the British home front. Instead of seeing wartime experience as a site of fellowship and emotional resilience, Elizabeth Bowen, Anna Kavan, Mervyn Peake, Roy Fuller, and others depict shadowy figures on the margin of the nation.

Henry Green Nick Shepley, 2016-08-04 Henry Green's Class Style and the Everyday offers a critical prism through which Green's fiction from his earliest published short stories as an Eton schoolboy through to his last dialogic novels of the 1950s can be seen as a coherent, subtle, and humorous critique of the tension between class style and realism in the first half of the twentieth century. The study extends on going critical recognition that Green's work is central to the development of the novel from the twenties to the fifties, acting as a vital bridge between late modernist, inter-war, post-war, and postmodernist fiction. The overarching contention is that the shifting and destabilizing nature of Green's oeuvre sets up a predicament similar to that confronted by theorists of the everyday. Consequently, each chapter acknowledges the indeterminacy of the writing, whether it be the non-singular functioning or malfunctioning of the name, the open-ended, purposefully ambiguous nature of its symbols, the shifting cinematic nature of Green's prose style, the sensitive but resolutely unsentimental depictions of the working classes and the aristocracy in the inter-war period, the impact of war and its inconsistent irruptions into daily life, or the ways in which moments or events are rapidly subsumed back into the flux of the everyday, their impact left uncertain. Critics have historically offered up singular readings of Green's work, or focused on the poetic or recreative qualities of certain works, particularly those of the 1940s. Green's writing is undoubtedly poetic and extraordinary, but this book also pays attention to the clichéd, meta-textual, and uneventful aspects of his fiction.
