Emerging Ngo:

Emerging NGO-business Relations in Central Asia Simon Heap, 2000 This paper presents findings from the Central Asian republics of Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan and Uzbekistan as part of Intrac's global inquiry into the evolving nature of relationships between NGOs and the private sector These reviews examine country specific factors that determine the level of NGO business relations and explore the potential for the two sectors to work together for future development The NGO Challenge for International Relations Theory William E. DeMars, Dennis Dijkzeul, 2015-02-11 It has become commonplace to observe the growing pervasiveness and impact of Non Governmental Organizations NGOs And yet the three central approaches in International Relations IR theory Liberalism Realism and Constructivism overlook or ignore the importance of NGOs both theoretically and politically Offering a timely reappraisal of NGOs and a parallel reappraisal of theory in IR the academic discipline entrusted with revealing and explaining world politics this book uses practice theory global governance and new institutionalism to theorize NGO accountability and analyze the history of NGOs This study uses evidence from empirical data from Europe Africa Latin America the Middle East and Asia and from studies that range across the issue areas of peacebuilding ethnic reconciliation and labor rights to show IR theory has often prejudged and misread the agency of NGOs Drawing together a group of leading international relations theorists this book explores the frontiers of new research on the role of such forces in world politics and is required reading for students NGO activists and policy makers

Emerging Civil Society in China, 1978-2008 Ming Wang, 2011-01-07 Emerging Civil Society in China 1978 2008 is translated from the original Chinese to provide a look into how scholars in China have been assessing the development of civil organizations and analyzing them based on system reforms the public sphere and collective action This volume and the others in the SSRIC series provide western scholars with an accessible English language look at the state of current scholarship in China and as such does not simply provide information for the direct study of socio political issues but also for meta level analysis of how the domestic scholarship in China is developing and assessing the interplay of the country's political and economic reforms with the society and daily life of its people The New Accountability Michael Mason, 2012-05-23 The growth of pollution that crosses national borders represents a significant threat to human health and ecological sustainability Various international agreements exist between countries to reduce risks to their populations however there is often a mismatch between national territories of state responsibility and transboundary hazards All too often state priorities do not correspond to the priorities of the people affected by pollution who often have little recourse against major polluters particularly transnational corporations operating across national boundaries Drawing on case studies The New Accountability provides a fresh understanding of democratic accountability for transboundary and global harm and argues that environmental responsibility should be established in open public discussions about harm and risk Most critically it makes the case that regardless of nationality affected parties should be able to demand that polluters and harm producers be held accountable for their actions and if necessary provide reparations New Rights Advocacy Paul J. Nelson, Ellen Dorsey, 2008 The authors introduce a concept they call new rights advocacy which has at its core three main trends They draw on case studies of international NGOs and employ perspectives from the fields of human rights international relations and development theory to better understand the changes occurring within NGOs Canada and the Middle East Paul Heinbecker, Bessma Momani, 2010-10-30 Canada and the Middle East In Theory and Practice provides a unique perspective on one of the world's most geopolitically important regions From the perspective of Canada's diplomats academics and former policy practitioners involved in the region the book offers an overview of Canada's relationship with the Middle East and the challenges Canada faces there The contributors examine Canada's efforts to promote its interests and values peace building peacekeeping multiculturalism and multilateralism for example and investigate the views of interested communities on Canada's relations with countries of the Middle East Canada and the Middle East will be useful to academics and students studying the Middle East Canadian foreign policy and international relations It will also serve as a primer for Canadian companies investing in the Middle East and a helpful reference for Canada's foreign service and journalists stationed abroad by providing a background to Canada's interests and role in the region Co published with the Centre for International Governance Innovation New Threats and New Actors in International Security E. Krahmann, 2005-01-14 Non state threats and actors have become key topics in contemporary international security as since the end of the Cold War the notion that state is the primary unit of interest in international security has increasingly been challenged Statistics show that today many more people are killed by ethnic conflicts HIV AIDS or the proliferation of small arms than by international war Moreover non state actors such as non governmental organizations private military companies and international regimes are progressively complementing or even replacing states in the provision of security Suggesting that such developments can be understood as part of a shift from government to governance in international security this book examines both how private actors have become one of the main sources of insecurity in the contemporary world and how non state actors play a growing role in combating these threats NGOs and Post-conflict Recovery Helen Hakena, Peter Ninnies, Bert A. Jenkins, 2006-01-01 The book will make a unique contribution to understanding the role of NGOs in promoting peace gender and development in the South West Pacific by recording the story of the Leitana Nehan Women's Development Agency Australian authors

NGOs as Advocates for Development in a Globalising World Barbara Rugendyke, 2007-12-12 This book traces the recent historical shift in the policies and practises of development NGOs towards increased advocacy activity as a means of achieving poverty alleviation and increased global equity and through case studies illustrates the impacts of the advocacy activities of a range of international NGOs at different geographical scales Environmental NGOs in World Politics Matthias Finger, Thomas Princen, 2013-01-11 At a time when states are reactive at best to the global ecological crisis and when economic globalization seems to be significantly contributing to the acceleration of that crisis environmental non governmental organisations NGOs are proliferating This book explains the key role of NGOs in an emerging world environmental politics showing how NGOs act both as independent bargainers and as agents of social learning to link biophysical conditions to the political realm at both the local and global levels Through the use of case studies the authors reveal the richness and diversity of NGO activity and the difficulty of the choices facing decision makers in their attempts to protect the environment seek new forms of governance and foster social environmental learning The book generates questions that are central not only to an understanding of NGO relations but to the study of international environmental politics Environmental NGOs in World Politics will be of great interest to upper level student and scholars of both environmental politics and international relations It will also appeal to environmental policy professionals

Non-Governmental Organizations and Health in Developing Countries A. Green, A. Matthias, 1996-12-03 Non governmental organizations NGOs are increasingly recognised as playing a significant role in the health sector in developing countries This book examines the background to the growth both in the sector and interest in it the strengths and weaknesses of NGOs and the arguments for and against their use for different aspects of the health sector It focuses particularly on the relationship between the State and non governmental organizations and the issues critical to the development of policies towards the sector

The New Development Management Sadhvi Dar, Bill Cooke, 2008-08-15 Development management is an idea that blends the seemingly innocuous claims of managerialism with notions of modernity and utopian ideals of third world progress This book views both phenomena as problematic and modernizing interventions In doing so it overturns and reclaims such ideas as participation community governance NGOs and civil society The contributors argue that the practices of development are often threaded together by the language of managerialism reports logframe encounters with the boss yet all of these serve to further development's disengagement from the mundane In voicing such concerns about the way development is going and about the encroachment of managerialism The New Development Management will breathe fresh life into post development debates

Civil Society and the Security Sector Marina Caparini, Philipp Fluri, Ferenc Molnár, 2006 This volume analyses the role of civil society in the reform and oversight of the security sector in post communist countries as a key aspect of the transition towards democracy It is widely accepted that civil society actors have an important contribution to make in the governance of the security sector However that specific role has not been subject to much close or comparative examination This book constitutes an attempt to examine and compare experiences of civil society participation in security oversight across Central and Eastern Europe The first part of the volume presents the reader with the theoretical and conceptual background against which the potential role of civil society in security sector governance can be understood and assessed The remainder of the book is comprised of nine country studies of civil society engagement with the security sector Reviewing developments over the past 15 years of regime transformation in the region the book draws upon a rich variety of cases that cast light on the different experiences challenges and successes of civil society actors and the media in democratisation security sector reform and the exercise of democratic oversight of the security sector From Blood Diamonds to the Kimberley Process Franziska Bieri, 2016-04-15 In the late 1990s several non governmental organizations NGOs focused world attention on the issue of conflict diamonds which funded wars massive death and refugee crises across Central and West Africa Several governments NGOs and key industry players engaged in negotiations under the so called Kimberley Process KP A voluntary global agreement came into effect leading to a substantial decline in illicit diamond trade Despite its importance in international affairs the KP remains understudied in academia Franziska Bieri's book provides the first comprehensive account of the KP and is the first to reveal how NGOs have become critical actors in their own right possessing the ability to directly influence policies and to participate in the decision making and the implementation of global agreements In developing this argument Bieri explains why the NGO campaign to raise awareness was successful why a rapid and comprehensive resolution on such a complex global problem was possible how the tripartite negotiations between states NGOs and industry developed during the implementation of the agreement which is an on going process Based on extensive personal interviews with prominent campaigners leading bureaucrats and industry officials hundreds of KP publications official UN documents industry news and NGO reports this timely book allows for a much needed engagement in contemporary debates about the campaign against conflict diamonds the Kimberley Process and the themes defining today's global governance arena Transacting Transition Keith Brown, 2006 In Transacting Transition scholars and practitioners with first hand knowledge of foreign assistance programs recount what happens when democracy goes local and principles like transparency gender equality interethnic tolerance and cooperation run up against particular realities political agendas self interest and memories of conflict Focused on the former Yugoslavia where the 1990s saw an unprecedented investment of time and energy by a host of international organizations in processes of reconstruction and democracy assistance the contributors offer description and analysis of diagnostic cases of international intervention to explore how the mission and vision of democracy promotion is enacted on the ground Their experiences reflect wider trends in the evolution of U S democracy assistance after the end of the Cold War which has increasingly focused on locally oriented development and civic action as a necessary component of democratic transition In these cases individuals from outside the region found themselves charged with advancing ambitious agendas of social and political change while dealing with the micropolitics of particular situations where for example village solidarity is fractured by old rivalries participation in decision making is habitually restricted by gender or ethnicity or where donors and implementers disagree on the best way forward The book includes an overall introduction and eight chapters focusing on case studies from Kosovo Serbia and Macedonia

Each case is described by a participant and put in wider context by a short editorial introduction The book is intended to be broadly accessible to readers and students interested in understanding what is entailed in making grand visions of democratization work Other Contributors Jeff S Merritt Dennison Lane Paul J Nuti Claire Sneed Sally Broughton Micova Clemson Turregano and Chip Gagnon

Surrogates of the State Michael Jennings, 2008 Uses an instructive historical event to show how NGOs with good intentions are sometimes capable of supporting harmful government policies A fascinating picture of the players involved in misguided development program In Surrogates of the State Jennings explores the delicate relationship between development NGOs and the states they work in using his exhaustive and illuminating case study of Tanzania in the 1960s and 70s During that time Tanzania instituted the rural socialist Ujamaa program resulting in the forced resettlement of 6 million people to villages transforming the map of the country Rather than questioning this policy NGOs working in the area as typified by Oxfam became surrogates of the state helping to carry out the program Jennings argues that the NGO community was seduced by its own interpretations of what Ujamaa represented and was consequently blinded to the dark realities of resettlement Bound by ideological chains of their own forging organizations that in other contexts have criticized over mighty states and the use of overt force NGOs committed themselves fully to Tanzania and its development policy Through this study the book uncovers not just the story of development in Tanzania in this critical period but the history of the NGO itself And in doing so raises questions about the future direction of this institution which has become so prominent in international development

Playing for Change Russell Field, 2016-01-27 For more than forty years scholars of the history and sociology of sport and recreation have studied how no matter the time or place sport is always more than just a game In Playing for Change leading scholars in the field of sports studies consider that legacy and forge ahead into the discipline's future Through essays grouped around the themes of international and North American sport including the Vancouver and Sochi Olympic Games access to physical activity in Canadian communities and the role of activism and the public intellectual in the delivery of sport the contributors offer a comprehensive examination of the institutional structures of sport physical activity and recreation This book provides wide ranging examples of cutting edge research in a vibrant and growing field

International Organization John J. Kirton, 2017-05-15 For well over a century international organizations have been central to the study and practice of international relations and global governance But how much and how do they help hinder or otherwise alter the behaviour of the actors who utilize them and provide public goals for the global community as a whole By assembling the leading works that have defined the scholarly field of international organization from realist liberal institutionalists constructivists and political economy traditions this work examines the many organizations which have formed in ever expanding numbers and fields over the years the degree to which they have succeeded and their future potential It looks at the changing international arena particularly with the expansion of civil society and how that affects the role of such organizations Has a formula for an effective and successful international organization developed or will one have to wait for the next generation of organizations institutions and regimes
