Employed Poems:

Poems at the Edge of Differences Renate Papke, 2008 This study consists of two parts The first part offers an overview of feminism s theory of differences The second part deals with the textual analysis of poems about mothering by women from India the Caribbean and Africa Literary criticism has dealt with the representation of mothering in prose texts The exploration of lyrical texts has not yet come Since the late 1970s the acknowledgement of and the commitment to difference has been foundational for feminist theory and activism This investigation promotes a differentiated locational feminism Friedman The comprehensive theoretical discussion of feminism s different concepts of gender race ethnicity and mothering builds the foundation for the main part the presentation and analysis of the poems The issue of mothering foregrounds the communicative aspect of women s experience and wants to bridge the gap between theory and practice This study however does not intend to specify mothering as a universal and unique feminine characteristic It underlines a metaphorical use and discusses the concepts of nurturing maternal practice and social parenthood Regarding the extensive material this study understands itself as an explorative not concluding investigation placed at the intersections of gender studies postcolonial and classical literary studies Most of all it aims at initiating a dialogue and interchange between scholars and students in the Western and the Third World

Mysticism in Postmodernist Long Poems Joe Moffett, 2014-10-28 Written from a literary critic s perspective Mysticism in Postmodernist Long Poems borrows insights from Religious Studies and critical theory to examine the role of spirituality in contemporary poetry specifically the genre of the long poem Descending from Whitman s Song of Myself the long poem is often considered the American twentieth century equivalent of the epic poem but unlike the epic it carries few generic expectations aside from the fact that it simply must be long This makes the form particularly pliable as a tool for spiritual inquiry The period following World War II is often described as a secular age but spirituality continued as a concern for poets as evidenced by this study These writers look beyond conventional faith systems and instead seek individual paths of understanding they engage in mysticism in other words With chapters on H D and Brenda Hillman Robert Duncan James Merrill Charles Wright and Galway Kinnell and Gary Snyder this study demonstrates how these poets engage the culture of consumption in the postwar years at the same time they search for opportunities for transcendence Not content to throw over the earthly in favor of the otherworldly these poets reject the familiar binary of the worldly and metaphysical to produce distinctive paths of spiritual understanding that fuel what Wright calls a contemplation of the divine

Working-Class Women Poets in Victorian Britain Florence S. Boos, 2008-06-12 Though working class women in the nineteenth century included many accomplished and prolific poets their work has often been neglected by critics and readers in favour of comparable work by men Questioning the assumption that few poems by working class women had survived Florence Boos set out to discover supposedly lost works in libraries private collections and archives Her years of research resulted in this anthology Working Class Women Poets in Victorian Britain features poetry from a variety of women including an itinerant weaver a rural midwife a factory worker protesting industrialization and a blind Scottish poet who wrote in both the Scots dialect and English In addition to biographical information and contemporary reviews of the poets work the anthology also includes several photographs of the poets their environment and the journals in which their poems appeared

Work of Words John Harry Thurston,1996 Susanna Moodie has long been acknowledged as a key figure in pre Confederation Canadian literature but most of her work has been overlooked or ignored by scholars and readers The Work of Words not only provides the first comprehensive examination of the whole of Moodie s writing but also revolutionizes Moodie scholarship by overturning the myths that have cast her as pioneer heroine one woman garrison or paranoid schizophrenic

African-American Poets Harold Bloom, 2009 This volume focuses on the principal African American poets from colonial times through the Harlem Renaissance paying tribute to a heritage that has long been overlooked Works covered in this text include poems by Phillis Wheatley widely recognized as African Oral Literature Russell Kaschula, 2001 Throughout Africa oral literature is flourishing though it is perceived by some as anachronistic to the modern world This work refutes this idea in its entirety by presenting 22 chapters which firmly place the study of oral literature within contemporary African existence The study analyzes how oral literature relates to media music technology text gender religion power politics and globalization

The Work of Art in the Age of Deindustrialization Jasper Bernes, 2017-05-16 A novel account of the relationship between postindustrial capitalism and postmodern culture this book looks at American poetry and art of the last fifty years in light of the massive changes in people's working lives Over the last few decades we have seen the shift from an economy based on the production of goods to one based on the provision of services the entry of large numbers of women into the workforce and the emergence of new digital technologies that have transformed the way people work The Work of Art in the Age of Deindustrialization argues that art and literature not only reflected the transformation of the workplace but anticipated and may have contributed to it as well providing some of the terms through which resistance to labor was expressed As firms continue to tout creativity and to reorganize in response to this resistance they increasingly rely on models of labor that derive from values and ideas found in the experimental poetry and conceptual art of decades past
